IN TODAY'S ISSUE.

The City.

Vast fortune is swept from Col. W. C. Owens, who has given up and gone to Japan for his health, leaving all the "Greene interests" in control of others.

Gigantic strides are made by the Owens River aqueduct and Chief Engineer Mulholland, in plans submitted to the Board of Public Works, will build fifty-eight miles more at a cost of $3,000,000, next year.

PITTSBURGH CONGRESS.

MINING TAKES GREAT STRIDE.

Convention Is of the Greatest Importance.

Protection for the Public and Miners.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 2.—What is expected to prove the most important convention ever held by the American Mining Congress met in this city today. While the sessions were of a routine nature considerable interesting work was accomplished. It was clearly shown that within sixty days the congress will take steps to establish a bureau of mines in the Department of the Interior; that a plan will be advanced to protect the public from mining frauds; that renewed efforts will be made to prevent the great sacrifice of human life in coal mines, and that necessary Federal and State legislation will be recommended.

In response to an address of welcome from Lee S. Smith, president of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, J. H. Richards of Idaho, president of the American Mining Congress, and delegates from a score of States made brief addresses.

At a session held tonight, Director George Otis Smith of the United States Geological Survey, spoke on "The Distribution of the Nation's Wealth."

SIXFOLD INCREASE.

Mr. Smith declared that during three decades the mineral production of the nation had increased sixfold, or two billion and sixty-nine million dollars. Continuing, he said:

"In 1880 in the order of value of output, coal stood first, with iron second, followed by gold, silver, petroleum, lime, building stone, copper, lead and salt. In last year's production, after coal and iron came copper, clay products, petroleum, gold, stone, cement, natural gas and lead. In this column, of the most important ten mineral products, coal, iron, petroleum and building stone have maintained their relative positions notwithstanding the sixfold total increase. Copper has advanced from eighth to third place, and gold has dropped from third position to sixth, lead from ninth to tenth, and silver to just behind lead. The newcomers in the 1907 list, as contrasted with that of 1880, are clay products, cement and natural gas.

"No state or section appears to have a monopoly of the mineral industry. While progressive Pennsylvania, with its total mineral products nearly one-third those of the whole country, leads in coal, cement and natural gas by large margins, another State, Minnesota, leads in iron ore, Arizona in copper, Ohio in clay products, Oklahoma in petroleum, Colorado in both gold and silver, and Missouri in both lead and zinc."

ALASKA MINES.

Alfred H. Brooks, chief of the Alaska division of the United States Geological Survey, delivered an address on mining in Alaska. He said in part:

"Three years ago Alaska mines produced $14,500,000. In 1907, the mineral output was nearly $21,000,000. The gold deposits of Alaska are for the most part associated with certain belts of altered sediments. One skirts the southern coast of Alaska and finds its continuation in the Prince William Sound and Kenai Peninsula. A second belt lies in the central portion between the Tanana and Yukon Rivers and within this belt are the most valuable Alaskan placer deposits. A third belt of metamorphic rock occurs in the northern part of Alaska and its continuation is found in the Seward Peninsula. Over 97 per cent. of the value of Alaska's mineral production has come from these three belts of metamorphic rocks.

"The most important centers of placer mining are the Yukon-Tanana region and Seward Peninsula. These two provinces have an annual production of nearly $16,000,000. Some rich deposits are being worked in this district.

"In 1907 Alaska produced upward of 5,000,000 pounds of copper. Haddy, Alaska, is the center of the copper industry.

BIG OUTPUT OF TREADWELL.

"The Treadwell mines, the fourth in size in the world, with its low values, has been an object lesson for the mining world. The output is valued at $25,000,000, and the magnitude of this enterprise, with 900 stamp mills, has obscured the fact that there are other extensive mining operations in the Juneau district.

"The Copper River region has been a focal point of interest because of plans by reaching it by rail from Pacific tidewater. Its ores are sulphides with native copper.

"The Klondike gold fields now produce about $10,000,000 worth of gold annually, and are, of course, in Canadian territory. The Fairbanks district is, from the standpoint of production, the most important of the inland districts, with an annual output of about $2,000,000. Gold gravels lie at a considerable depth varying from 20 to 200 feet.

"The Seward Peninsula since its gold discovery in 1898, has produced $40,000,000 worth of gold. Lode deposits including gold, copper, antimony and galena have been discovered in various proportions on the peninsula. Though the coal fields of Alaska lie only twenty-five miles from the coast, the Pacific seaboard offers no good harbors. Plans are on foot for the construction of breakwaters near Katalla, which it is proposed to connect by railroad with the coal fields. Another plan is to construct a line from Cordova Bay, which means 100 miles of track. The coal of Alaska is higher in fuel value than any other west of the Rocky Mountains."

SMASHES VICTIM'S FALSE TEETH.

COLTON, Dec. 2.—Frank Lewis, alias Frank Von De Kritzinger, once a commandant in the Boer army, he says, is tonight in the City Jail. Officer A. Magill arrested Lewis on a charge of battery upon William Witzenfield, a Canadian Jew, whom Lewis accused of slandering him. Witzenfield was seated in a J-street shop when Lewis pounced upon him without warning, beating him almost beyond recognition and breaking his false teeth into eight parts, two teeth of which were driven into the jaw bone. Lewis has one very peculiar eye, which he claims is a rabbit eye grafted into his own. Interesting developments are expected when Lewis is tried.

Anti-noise advocates scored the most important point in their campaign against unnecessary noises in New York when the Board of Aldermen Tuesday, unanimously passed an ordinance prohibiting the movement of surface or elevated lines of cars in such bad repair that unnecessary noise is created by their operation.

WIDOW OF MILLIONAIRE SUES FOR PORTUNE.

Mrs. Yerkes-Mizner,

who has begun active work in preparation of suit to break will of her first husband.

MILLIONS INVOLVED.

YERKES'S WIDOW WILL TRY TO BREAK WILL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Mary Adelaide Yerkes-Mizner, the widow of Charles T. Yerkes, Chicago's one-time traction king, is making active plans to break the will disposing of an estate of $15,000,000, under which she was allotted $200,000 and the use of one-half of what remained after numerous bequests were made and claims against the estate were settled. She has finally made up her mind, it is said, to claim her dower right, which would entitle her to a life interest in one-third of the real estate and one-third of the personal property of her late husband.

Mrs. Yerkes's determination to upset the will was made known today by Louis S. Owsley, the sole remaining executor of three appointed by the testator's will.

"The difficulty in disposing of the estate," said Mr. Owsley, "grows out of the fact that Mrs. Yerkes is planning to demand her dower instead of accepting what the will allows her. There is a great question at law that will have to be decided in the courts—whether her doing so will make the rest of the will nugatory."

The will is filed in the Probate Court of Cook county. It divides the estate into four parts after making numerous bequests and leaves one-fourth to each of the children, Charles E. Yerkes of Chicago and Mrs. Bessie L. Rondinella of Philadelphia, and the remaining two parts to Mrs. Yerkes during her life.

Attorney Clarence A. Knight, who represented Charles T. Yerkes during his lifetime and has been counselor for his widow, was plainly disturbed by the prospective publication of the plans for a contest of the will.

"This is something that I cannot discuss," he said. "It is a matter I do not think ought to be taken up in the newspapers."

UP AND DOWN THE VALLEY.

PITH OF NEWS FROM THE MIDDLE WEST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Chicago, shivering in the coldest wave of the season, was still one of the warmest places on the weather map today. The lowest temperature in Chicago was 12 deg. above zero at 5 o'clock. At the same time St. Paul "enjoyed" a frigid wave that sent the mercury tumbling several degrees below zero. In Winnipeg they stopped taking readings after the temperature dropped under 22 deg. below zero. Tomorrow probably will bring more sunshine and a gradual breaking up of the cold wave. Today's maximum temperature was 26 and the minimum 12 deg. Middle West temperatures, the dash indicating below zero:

TO REHABILITATE CATHEDRAL.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—The Episcopal Cathedral of Saint Peter and Saint Paul at Washington boulevard and Peoria street, established by Bishop Whitehouse, second bishop of Illinois, is to be rehabilitated by the sons of its founder, Fitzhugh Whitehouse of London and Paris, and F. Meredyth Whitehouse. The cathedral was founded in 1862 and is of particular historical interest because it was the first parish church in America to have a vested boys' choir. The design is to make the cathedral a memorial to Bishop Whitehouse.

MORE FISH TROUBLES.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CLEVELAND (O.) Dec. 2.—A receivership for the Globe Packing Company, a big fish concern, and an accounting of the books was asked yesterday in a suit filed by William L. Chalmers and Charles S. Mischler, receivers of A. Booth & Co. J. R. Nutt was appointed receiver. The plaintiffs state that the company owes A. Booth &Co. $35,000 on a note now overdue. In all, the petition states, the liabilities are $50,000 more than the assets.

STOKERS AS NAVAL RESERVES.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Plans for increasing the fighting strength of the United States navy by 20,000 peaceful but expert citizens will be broached for the first time by naval officers before the annual convention of the National Commercial Gas Association at the Coliseum next week. The proposed addition is to be in the form of a naval reserve made up, not of young men from stores and farms, but of gas plant stokers, accustomed to arduous work in high temperatures and able to endure heat.

COLLEGE FOR POLES.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Application for a charter for the Polish Educational Institute was filed with the Secretary of State at Springfield yesterday as the initial step toward the creation of the largest and most important center of instruction in the United States, devoted to the teaching of the young of Polish extraction or birth. Eventually lecture halls, gymnasiums and auditoriums for educational purposes to accommodate more than 2000 pupils will be constructed in Chicago at a cost of $500,000. This Polish-American college expects to draw its support from the 3,000,000 Poles in the United States.

ASHES CAST TO WIND.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—In accordance with an oft-expressed desire, the body of Miss Emma Renshaw, Chicago's oldest practicing nurse, who died suddenly from pneumonia, Monday, will be cremated today and her ashes cast to the winds on the lake. She was one of the city's unique figures, and though she had enjoyed a clientele among the well known families ever since she came here from New Orleans, during the Civil War, little is known of her ancestry. She had no relatives, she said. Miss Renshaw was found dead in a closet of her room.

POSTOFFICE SAFE BLOWN BY BANDITS.

Robbers Ransack Station A on East Side and Escape With Booty—Men Seen at Work and Suspects Are Arrested.

ROBBERS blew open the safe in postoffice Station A, at Downey avenue and Daly street, at an early hour this morning and escaped with their plunder, in spite of an alarm given the police while they were still at work. The bandits overlooked several packages of registered mail, two $2 bills and spilled some change about the floor. Just how much in money and stamps they secured was not known by the police, and the postmaster in charge had not been informed of the robbery.

It was shortly after 1 o'clock this morning that Lawrence Jones and Mrs. L. N. Bocker, who are employed by the Bradford Baking Company at No. 119 North Daly street, heard the explosion when the robbers blew open the safe, and running over to the postoffice looked through the window in time to see two men run through the room and escape by the back door and through the alley in the rear.

Jones at once called up the East Side Police Station and notified Sergeant Adams, who, with Patrolman Vignes, made a fast run to the postoffice. The robbers had disappeared, but shortly after 2 o'clock Patrolman Vignes arrested two suspects, a tall man, who answers the description of one of the robbers, and a short man. They gave the names of G. Albertson and T. N. Kelcy and stated that they had just arrived from San Francisco on a freight train. No plunder was found in their possession.

Investigation shows that the robbers picked the lock of the front door and knocked the combination of the safe off and poured in nitro-glycerine and blew open the door. The robbers made a thorough search of the office, breaking open drawers and ransacking the place. They escaped by the rear door when discovered by Jones and Mrs. Becker.

The postmaster in charge of the station is George Martin of Mosart street, but the police were unable to get into communication with him at the time.

NOTHING IN IT.

ABSURD, IS HARRIMAN REPLY AS TO CENTRAL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Sun says: The report that E. H. Harriman is to be made chairman of the New York Central board of directors received serious attention nowhere in the financial district except from President Newman of the New York Central.

Mr. Newman took the pains to deny the report. Never, before he saw it printed, he said, had he heard of any such development.

"If true, it is news to me," he remarked dryly.

Mr. Harriman was inclined to be put out when a bit of his time was asked for response to a question regarding the rumor, and only appeared because several reporters requested an answer at the same time.

"You men should use common sense in interrupting me in my business hours," he said. "You ought to know that this is absurd, just as you know I am always ready to talk on any reasonable proposition, and not ask foolish questions."

J. P. Morgan & Co. is the fiscal agent of the Harriman lines. Members of the company declared themselves ignorant of any plan to make Mr. Harriman chairman of the New York Central board, and in banking houses affiliated with the Morgan house wonder was expressed that the report could have secured circulation.

The Union Pacific system, in the course of its extensive stock purchases in the fall of 1896, acquired $14,000,000 out of the $178,000,000 outstanding stock of New York Central. It is not believed that the company's interest is as great at present, for the company is continually shifting its so-called investment purchases, but in any event the stock interest is not sufficient to shake W. K. Vanderbilt's position, and it has never appeared that the Union Pacific party had any such desire.

Again, it is well known that the purchase of Central stock was in no way intended as a movement to secure control of the road, and it is presumed that the stock was purchased from certain Union Pacific directors who at the same time and in the same way disposed of Illinois Central and other stocks.

Whether or not the Union Pacific purchased the New York Central stock from Union Pacific directors was one of the questions Mr. Harriman and Otto H. Kahn refused to answer when it was propounded in the Interstate Commerce investigation. The Interstate Commerce Commission has now before the United States Supreme Court a proceeding to force an answer.

Mr. Harriman and J. P. Morgan have come to an understanding on railroad matters since the panic. They are cooperating in the rehabilitation of the Erie and are working together in other ways. It can be stated authoritatively that official entrance to the New York Central on Mr. Harriman's part does not come within the scope of the understanding, nor, as far as any indication from Mr. Harriman goes, does he desire or consider advisable, in view of the pending suit against his system, any such development.

The Harriman lawyers and bankers have long been working on a plan for the segregation of the Union Pacific's investment stock purchasers from the actual control of the company. The plan is to form a holding company and turn over to it the Union Pacific's holdings of New York Central, St. Paul, Baltimore & Ohio, Santa Fé and other stocks of roads not component parts of the Union Pacific system.

Development of the scheme is progressing favorably and its completion will remove what the financial community believes to be the sole foundation of the Harriman-New York Central yarn, that is, the Union Pacific's relatively small interest in New York Central stock.

STANDARD OIL CASE.

ARCHBOLD EXPLAINS TRUST LIQUIDATION.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The processes through which the Standard Oil trust was liquidated and its thirty subsidiary companies brought under control of the present Standard Oil Company of New Jersey were developed in interesting detail today by John D. Archbold, under cross-examination in the Federal suit to dissolve the Standard Oil Company.

Mr. Archbold declared that the trust had been liquidated in the years from 1892 to 1899, with all good faith to obey the mandates of the Ohio Supreme Court, ordering the trust dissolved. There was no ulterior motive in the fact that about 51 per cent. of the trust certificates were liquidated into the stocks of the subsidiary companies, said Mr. Archbold. Small holders declined to liquidate, preferring to retain their certificates which had a market value, rather than to obtain infinitesimally small parts in the minor companies.

Mr. Archbold made it plain, under a series of questions from government counsel, that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey had been selected as the holding company because the laws of New Jersey were reasonable in their treatment of corporations. All the holders of trust certificates, after obtaining their pro-rata shares in the subsidiary companies turned them into the New Jersey company and received their proportionate amount of stock. The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, the present holding company, is the combination which the government is seeking to dissolve.

During the day, Mr. Kellogg for the government, succeeded in throwing light on the loans made to T. M. Barnsdale of Pittsburgh, the independent oil producer.

BARNSDALE LOANS.

Mr. Archbold testified that loans aggregating $7,500,000 had been made to Mr. Barnsdale to enable him to continue his oil operations in various parts of the country.

A part of the contract was that all the crude oil produced by Mr. Barnsdale should be carried in the Standard's pipe lines.

During the day, Mr. Archbold testified that former Congressman Joseph C. Sibley of Pennsylvania was identified with the Galena Signal Oil Company, a subsidiary of the Standard.

Mr. Kellogg called the attention of the witness to evidence given several years ago by H. H. Rogers that in 1879 the Standard and its affiliated interests produced 90 to 95 per cent. of the refined oil manufactured.

"If you had that amount of production, do you still say, as stated by you yesterday, that you acquired the plants on the seaboard to increase your volume of business?"

"I cannot say what percentage of business we were doing."

Mr. Kellogg was seeking to show that in reality the Standard did not purchase certain seaboard refineries to increase the Standard's business, but to destroy competition. The government prosecutor plied the witness with many questions to develop this contention.

Mr. Archbold said that J. C. Sibley organized the Signal Oil Company of Franklin, Pa., and Gen. Charles Miller developed the Galena Oil Company.

Later the Standard bought into both companies and combined them as the Galena Signal Oil Company, which continued under the direction of Mr. Sibley and Gen. Miller, both of whom held minority interests in the company.

Mr. Archbold said that in 1881 he had acquired control of the Empire Refining Company and held the stock for the benefit of the Standard's stockholders.

The stockholders of Swarthmore College at the annual meeting in Philadelphia, Tuesday, by a unanimous vote, abolished a rule which practically made the school a Friends institution. By this step the college, which has held a high place among schools controlled by Friends, becomes non-sectarian.

MISSING CHIEF.

MAYOR DENIES BIGGY RESIGNED

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—Mayor Taylor, when asked today if Chief Biggy's resignation had been placed in his hands by Commissioner Keil, as had been reported, characterized the report as erroneous.

The Mayor said: "I have had no communication with Chief Biggy, oral, written or otherwise, for over a week past, and I have received no intimation of any kind that he contemplated resigning from his position. The statement crediting me with possession of any communication from Chief Biggy appears to have been materially exaggerated, to say the least."

At the same time Harry McKanny, the Mayor's secretary, who was prominently mentioned today as a possible successor to Chief Biggy, said:

"Under no circumstances would I accept the office of Chief of Police, even if the offer is made, which I consider most improbable."

Police Commissioner Keil this afternoon gave out a statement in relation to his last interview with Chief Biggy, containing the same assertions made by him in an interview previously given to the press.

The body of Chief Biggy has not yet been recovered, although the police, aided by a number of launches and assisted by the marines and soldiers on Alcatraz and Angel Islands, have maintained without interruption the search instituted immediately after the Chief's disappearance. Because of complex currents and the action of the tide, it is impossible to calculate just where the body may have found a lodging place, and it may be several days before it is recovered.

That Chief Biggy offered his resignation to Police Commissioner Hugh D. Keil an hour before his death, and during the period of his visit to the Commissioner's home at Belvedere, became known today. Keil admits that the missing official offered to surrender his position in the hope that the commissioners would be relieved of newspaper criticism to which Biggy and they had been subjected on his account, but Keil, according to his own declaration, refused to accept or consider the proposal, and advised the chief that the members of the board would not entertain the idea of his resignation under fire.

In his official statement, issued yesterday after the commissioners had met in executive session, Keil made no mention of this fact, and several times intimated that his final conversation with Biggy included no subject that might tend to clear up the mystery of his death.

The fact that Biggy had insisted upon presentation of his resignation at the next meeting of the board became known through a written statement directed to Mayor Taylor by Commissioner Keil. The latter is said to have placed in the Mayor's hands the written resignation which Biggy proposed to submit.

SILVER MINES CLOSING.

Depression of Market Discourages the Managers of Tonopah Company Who Will Shut Down.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Continued depression of the world's silver market and the tendency of the metal to drop to 45 cents an ounce has caused the management of the Tonopah mines to decide on closing down unless a rise occurs before the end of next week.

The managers of the Tonopah mines, according to word received by officials here today, say that silver ore cannot be milled at a profit so long as the silver market is around 47 cents per ounce. It is understood that the Philadelphia capitalists who control the Tonopah Mining Corporation, owners of the greatest producers in the district, have telegraphed to stop development.

Ore already taken out will be held in the dumps, and when conditions become more settled shipments of bullion will be renewed. If the mines close down before Christmas about 2000 men will be thrown out of work.

ERRATIC EPISODE.

KIDNAPED BY HER HUSBAND.

SEATTLE WOMAN IS UNWILLING CAPTIVE.

Mrs. R. M. Faulkner, Who Went for Walk With Man from Whom She Had Separated, Telephones Father That She Is Prisoner—Escapes and Is Pursued.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] R. M. Faulkner, who last week tried to kidnap his wife, from whom he had separated, was arrested today in Tacoma and relatives of his wife are breathing easier. For the last week he has kept them terrorized by his threats.

Faulkner and his wife separated several months ago. One night last week he called at his wife's father's home and demanded to see her. She refused, but afterwards consented, and the two went out for a walk. They did not return, and the next day the girl's father received a telephone message from her that Faulkner was holding her captive.

Faulkner surprised his wife at the telephone and interrupted the conversation, but not before she had promised to meet her father at a certain street corner. Faulkner allowed her to go out, but followed. When she met her father and brother, he fled. Later he appeared at the house of his wife's father with two revolvers and demanded his wife, but she had gone to a neighbor's.

Since then he has sent threatening messages. Faulkner said today his real name is Rolla Hargis and that he is a member of the Kentucky Hargis family of feud fame.

TELLS OF RUEF CASH.

Subtreasury Cashier Placed on the Stand—Boss Rented Deposit Box for Schmitz.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—Thomas Burns, cashier of the subtreasury, was the first witness called to testify in the trial of Abraham Ruef this morning.

He was questioned at length by counsel for Ruef in regard to the money paid out by him in the subtreasury for the alleged bribing of the former Supervisors.

A number of pieces of currency were offered in evidence and identified by Burns as being of the denomination handled by him. Burns was excused by both sides at 10:15 o'clock a.m., and recess ordered.

James C. Sharp, custodian of the safe deposit vaults at the Western National Bank, testified that Ruef, on three different occasions, had rented a box in the name of, and on account of former Mayor Schmitz. These boxes, according to the witness, were rented on April 24, 28, and May 25, 1906.

The prosecution, through the testimony of previous witnesses, had affirmed that one of the payments made to Tirey L. Ford on the order of Patrick Calhoun, was made on May 24, 1906.

George Francis, secretary to Tirey L. Ford, recalled that upon one occasion Ruef called on Ford at the offices of the United Railroads, but could not remember that the defendant carried a shirt box, or any other package.

Upon cross-examination, it developed that Francis was secretary to the legislative branch of the committee of fifty, and that Ruef and Ford, both members, had frequent reasons for consultation.

Schmitz Bondsmen not Ready.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—The attorneys for former Mayor Eugene E. Schmitz, who was cited to appear before Superior Judge Dunne after William J. Dingee, one of Schmitz's bondsmen, had become embarrassed by financial troubles, were not ready to furnish a substitute today and the matter was continued, with the consent of the court, for another week.

EMBEZZLER SURRENDERS.

SOLDIER WANTED IN EAST.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

MONTEREY, Dec. 2.—Bernard Bunje, passing under the assumed name of Robinson, a private in Co. F, Eighth United States Infantry, voluntarily surrendered himself to Policeman Sullivan last night, asking that he be taken in custody for embezzling $1000 while acting as book-keeper and collector for William Evarts & Son, wholesale butchers of Jersey City, N. J. After his theft he said he won money on the races, gaining $15,000, with which he fled to Montreal, living there in luxury until he had dissipated it all. He came West then and enlisted in the Second Infantry at Stockton, on November 2, 1906. Coming with that regiment to Monterey he was made corporal, but subsequently was stripped of his stripes for misconduct. Later he was transferred to the Eighth Infantry. Trouble with a woman and constant fear of detection and fits of remorse impelled him to give himself up to justice.

TO LAUNCH BIG COLLIER.

EVENT ON BAY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—Everybody in Vallejo and Mare Island is looking forward to the launching of the big collier "Prometheus," on Saturday morning. To the minutest detail every preparation has been made to insure a successful launching. Forty seconds after Miss Dolly Evans, daughter of the naval constructor under whose supervision the ship was built, will have christened the mammoth auxiliary, it will be gliding across the strait toward the Vallejo side, where tugs will aid in directing her to her position on the quay wall. It is said that when the boat slips from the ways it will be nearer completion than any vessel of her class, or larger, launched at a government or private yard.

CRUISERS END PRACTICE.

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 2.—A wireless message from Magdalena Bay announces that the armored cruisers of the Pacific fleet have all left for Central American waters. One division is on the way to Amapala and the other to La Union. The last of the torpedo craft left yesterday for San Diego, and the cruiser Albany left today for this port.

DIED OF BROKEN HEART.

Aged Husband Follows Wife in Death by Interval of but One Day.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BELLINGHAM (Wash.) Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Broken-hearted over the death of the wife who had been his life companion and to whom he had been wedded for fifty years, A. S. Houghtaling of this city yesterday passed away only twenty-four hours after the demise of his spouse. Grief and the shock of the loss were directly responsible for his death. The couple were married in Michigan in 1858. Although they had several children their lives were so wrapped up in each other that their almost simultaneous deaths caused no surprise. Houghtaling was 86 and his wife 72. Old age was given as the cause of the woman's death.

STOCKTON, Dec. 2.—While plowing yesterday afternoon in a field near the State Hospital farm, four miles north of Stockton, a laborer unearthed two human skeletons under fourteen inches of earth. Both skeletons are intact and in an excellent state of preservation. Several theories have been advanced to account for them. The Coroner has been notified and is investigating, but he thinks they were interred years ago.

WASHINGTON.

WOULD BETTER BANKING LAWS.

High Treasury Officials Point Out Defects.

National Monetary Commission Gives Hearing.

Any General Statute Changes not Contemplated.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Defects in methods of bank examination and the inability of the Comptroller of the Currency to deal with infractions of the banking laws without resorting to such harsh punishment as the closing of the offending national institutions were pointed out to the National Monetary Commission today by high officials of the Treasury Department.

Any general revision of the national banking laws is not contemplated in the present hearings, all of which are executive. Such changes as will be recommended in all probability will be confined to amendments which can be made without friction between bankers and officials charged with the enforcement of the national banking laws.

It is not intended to provide for any general revision of the laws in advance of the full report of the commission, which will not be made until the first regular session of the Sixty-first Congress.

At the hearing today statements were made by Secretary Cortelyou and L. A. Coolidge, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, but most of the day was occupied by Lawrence O. Murray, Comptroller of the Currency, and Thomas P. Kane, Deputy Controller of the Currency. They explained in detail the amendments they think should be made to the banking laws.

When the bankers have given their views it is not doubted that it will be possible to draft a bill along such lines as will meet the principal needs.

NAVAL CRITICS ANSWERED.

ONLY MINOR PLANS CHANGED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The annual report of W. L. Capps, chief constructor of the navy, is very largely devoted to a review of the controversy over the plans of the battleships North Dakota and Delaware.

Admiral Capps disposes of various phases of criticisms that have been made of the plans by declaring the recommendations for changes made by the Newport conference related only to minor details, over which there naturally would be differences of opinion.

Estimates for the construction and repair of vessels at navy yards and at foreign stations amounts to $8,940,713, an increase of $540,713 over the appropriations for the current fiscal year.

The amount estimated for construction and machinery of new vessels authorized by Congress is $14,540,790, the amount appropriated for the current fiscal year being $14,540,790.

For continuing work on submarine torpedo boats, the construction and limit of cost of which already have been authorized by Congress, an estimate is made of $1,800,000, the amount appropriated for the current year being $1,000,000; and for work on the two fleet colliers heretofore authorized, the estimate is $2,100,000, the appropriation for the current fiscal year being $1,500,000.

Admiral Capps referred to the lack of adequate working facilities at many of the navy yards for ships under repair and says this condition continues to embarrass the bureau and prevents prompt and economical performance of work.

A strong recommendation is made in favor of limiting the extent to which old vessels are modernized. He says he believes it would be more advantageous to expend money in the construction of vessels of the latest design.

POOR PROSPECTS FOR OIL.

Government Reports Indicate That Nevada Has Little Petroleum Among Resources.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—"Alleged oil prospects in Nevada" is the title of a preliminary report issued today by the United States Geological Survey, and which effectually disposes of claims made in certain quarters that the sections investigated abounded in petroleum veins. The examinations were made by Robert Anderson, one of the bureau's geologists who spent some time in the field west of Reno, in the region north of the bend of the Walker River, east of Wabuska, in Smith Valley, north of Wellington, and in a small area south of Palisade in the northeastern portion of the State.

Concerning the area around Reno, Mr. Anderson says:

"If petroleum were present it would with little question have to be considered as originated in the Truckee beds, and there if anywhere it would be stored. The examination of these beds has resulted in the conclusion that no paying quantities of petroleum, if any at all, will be found in them."

Of the section east of Wabuska he says:

"The chance of finding oil in this vicinity must be considered very slight, for the reason that there is no evidence of the presence of any strata that might be looked upon as probable oil producers."

Practically the same conclusions are reached with respect to the regions of Smith Valley and south of Palisade.

WOOL GROWERS PROTEST.

WANT TARIFF MAINTAINED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—During consideration of the tariff on wool, woolen manufactures and carpets, which was begun by the House Ways and Means Committee at today's hearing, Gen. Charles H. Grosvenor, former Congressman from Ohio, appeared for the wool growers of Ohio.

"You can't reduce the duty on wool as it stands without destroying the industry," he told the committee. "The industry is now fairly profitable."

Gen. Grosvenor said that under the low rate of duty on wool imposed by the Wilson bill, the number of sheep raised in one county in Ohio decreased from 153,000 to 42,000 within four years.

Representative Clark of Missouri secured the admission from Gen. Grosvenor that this reduction was, in part, due to the increased value of land in Ohio.

The sheep breeders of New York were represented by E. K. Dana of Avon, N. Y. He claimed that the present tariff on wool was the lowest under which the sheep industry could survive.

And Nold Moore, a wool grower of West Virginia, and P. G. Johnson, representing the Idaho wool growers, spoke against a reduction in the tariff. William Whitman of Boston, representing the National Wool Manufacturers and the American Association of Woolen and Worsted Manufacturers, spoke against any tariff agitation as being more harmful in its effects than has been compensated for by any changes the woolen industry may desire.

"Do you believe more than 100 per cent. duty is necessary to protect any manufacturer of woolens?" asked Mr. Crumpacker.

Mr. Whitman again expostulated that the reduction in duties were disastrous to the woolen trade.

Mr. Clark interrogated Mr. Whitman as to the part he played in the framing of the Wilson and Dingley tariff bills, securing the admission that Mr. Whitman had been very active in suggesting the wording of various paragraphs.

WASHINGTON CELEBRATES.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Solemn and impressive services, attended by dignitaries of church and state, were held today, commemorative of the sixtieth anniversary of Emperor Francis Joseph's ascension to the throne as ruler of Austria-Hungary.

The distinguished assemblage in St. Patrick's Cathedral formed a striking picture. President Roosevelt, Vice-President Fairbanks, members of the United States Supreme Court, members of the Cabinet, members of Congress, and the members of the diplomatic corps were present, the last-named being attired in their court costumes and uniforms.

His Eminence, Cardinal Gibbons, and Archbishop Falconio assisted in the high mass, which was celebrated by Mgr. Bonaventura Cerretti, deacon Rev. Charles M. Bart and sub-deacon Rev. J. D. Marr.

Rev. Dr. W. T. Russell, rector of St. Patrick's, read the sermon.

For the occasion the edifice was beautifully decorated with flowers and ferns and the national flags of the United States and Austria-Hungary.

Sixty years ago today Emperor Francis Joseph ascended the throne, and with the exception of Queen Victoria, his reign has been the longest of any monarch in Europe.

STUDENTS MARCH ON PRAGUE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

BRESLAU (Germany) Dec. 2.—Thirty-eight students representing various university societies, left here today for Prague to assist the German students of that city in their fight against the Czechs. The rector of the university appeared at the railway station just before the departure of the young men and forbade the trip. The students, however, started for Prague in spite of the ministerial injunction.

MARTIAL LAW IN PRAGUE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PRAGUE (Austria) Dec. 2.—Martial law was proclaimed in this city today. This action on the part of the government served only to exasperate the Czech students of Prague, and they forthwith started rioting.

There was a sanguinary conflict between them and police and gendarmes at Wertenburg, a suburb of Prague.

It had been hoped that it would not be necessary to mar the jubilee of the anniversary of Emperor Francis Joseph's accession to the throne by any such drastic steps, but the continued rioting between the Czechs and the Germans of Prague forced the government to issue the proclamation.

TOLEDO (O.) Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A believer in the maxim that faint heart never won fair lady, William C. Ragan made love to Mrs. Elsie Smith, a widow, so persistently that this afternoon Judge Brough granted a temporary injunction asked for by Mrs. Smith, which enjoins Ragan from lavishing upon her his unwelcome affections. Mrs. Smith asks that after a hearing the court forever enjoin Ragan from courting her.

SHOWS DANGER IN SITUATION.

Forester Says Top Notch in Lumber Is Reached.

From Now on Decreased Production Looked for.

Interesting Figures Given Before Commission.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—That the top notch of production of lumber in the United States was reached during the last year and that from now on the annual production would either remain the same as last year or would show a decrease, was the startling announcement made today before the National Conservation Commission by Overton Price, associate forester in the United States Forest Service.

He also said that the annual cut of timber last year would cover a piece of land 1000 acres in area and would make a pile as high as the Washington monument.

"It has been estimated," continued Mr. Price, "that our industries subsisting wholly or mainly upon wood pay the wages of more than one and one-half million persons; that the original forests covered one-half of the United States, and existing forests cover one-fourth; that only one-fifth of all our standing timber is publicly owned, and that only 70 per cent. of our public forests and less than 1 per cent. of our private forests are conserved by us.

"The average growth in all our forests is about twelve cubic feet per acre, or a total of seven billion cubic feet. But we take twenty-three billion cubic feet each year, or over three times what the forests produce."

The land section of the commission will hold its session tomorrow. The names of two new commissioners were announced this afternoon—ex-Gov. George C. Pardee of California and Dr. Charles R. Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin.

ORPHAN INHERITS MINE.

Chicago Girl, by Death of Grandfather, Gets Rich Silver Property in New Mexico.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Through the death of her grandfather, L. J. Turney, of Albuquerque, N. M., Miss Mamie Turney, a society girl of Evanston, is now the owner of a rich silver mine in New Mexico. Miss Turney is an orphan. Since her parents died, eight years ago, she has been living at the home of Thomas P. Smith of Evanston. Miss Turney today received the legal documents which make her the owner of one of the richest mineral properties in the Southwest.

Accompanied by five boy friends, members of wealthy Evanston families, Miss Turney will depart for New Mexico tomorrow night, after a farewell dinner at the Young Women's Home. The boys who will assist Miss Turney in developing her mine are J. B. McCauley, R. G. Stockbridge, Nicholas Westreicher, James Foley and Frank Krans.

Miss Turney's father was interested in mines, as was her grandfather.

FRANCIS JOSEPH HONORED.

Diamond Jubilee of Accession to the Throne of Austria Celebrated in Vienna.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

VIENNA, Dec. 2.—The dual empire celebrated today the diamond jubilee of the accession of Francis Joseph to the throne. His Majesty became Emperor of Austria and King of Hungary December 2, 1848, on the abdication of his uncle, Ferdinand I.

Masses and special services in the Cathedral and churches of Vienna marked the beginning of the period of the festivities. His Majesty attended the service in the Hofburg chapel. He drove to the palace through the streets in an open carriage, accompanied by the members of the imperial household.

He was greeted everywhere, with cheers from the people who crowded the streets coming from all parts of the empire to be present at the ceremonies.

KOW-TOW.

BABY TODDLES TO THRONE; CROWNED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PEKING, Dec. 2.—The ceremony of enthronement of the Emperor today was one of striking interest. It included obeisance to the tablets of the dead Emperor and Empress Dowager and prostrations before the infant Emperor, the 3-year-old son of Prince Chun, who formally took the throne.

The imperial proclamation for the function was arranged at the palace yesterday. It ordered that music for the occasion be prepared, but that not a single note be played; this because of the mourning of the court for their late Majesties.

Troops entered the eastern gate of the palace at 4 o'clock this morning. They took up their respective positions inside, and the high officials of the empire began to arrive. At 10 o'clock not less than 350 carriages, together with a vast number of Sedan chairs, resplendent and brilliant in the winter sunshine, were waiting outside the palace for the ceremonies to come to an end.

The function began by the princes of the imperial family and the high officials of the empire kow-towing to the memorial tablets of their late Majesties. After this they all kow-towed in turn to Pu Yi. Pu Yi then offered a sacrifice before the tablets of the Emperor and the Dowager Empress. After this he was relieved of his dress of mourning and clad in a diminutive imperial garment embroidered with the imperial dragon. His nurses performed this duty with great attention and care. Thus arrayed, the toddling Emperor ascended the throne amid a fanfare of drums, bells and fire-crackers.

He made his way alone and showed no need of assistance that willing hands would have given him had his little feet faltered. From the throne Pu Yi kow-towed to his stepmother, the Dowager Empress Yehonala. He then received the kow-tows, while still on the throne, of all the princes and officials present. This over, he descended and was again clad in his little dress of mourning.

The ceremony took place in the throne hall of the Forbidden City. The officials present were selected with great care, and were the highest in the empire.

According to an old established custom, a nnumber of humble coolies, men from the lowest walks of life, were brought into the sacred precincts of the Forbidden City to act as witnesses. The soldiers played but an inconspicuous part in the proceedings.

At half past eleven the officials began leaving the place. Traffic outside the Forbidden City was at no time impeded.

The scene was enlivened by a number of pilgrims, who had come on camels all the way from Mongolia.

All yesterday sacrifices were made to their late Majesties by the highest dignitaries of the empire at the five more important temples of Peking, the temples of Heaven, of the Ancestorl, of the Earth, of Agriculture, and of Confucius.

The edict setting forth the accession of Pu Yi to the throne and granting amnesty was carried with much ceremony to the throne hall. It was escorted by all members of the Grand Council, who were in turn accompanied by the members of the Board of Rights. In the throne hall it was given the official Vermillion seat. There it was carried to the office of the Board of Rights, where it was proclaimed and put in circulation.

In addition to granting amnesties for certain specified offenses, the edict rewards all the imperial princes, princesses and dukes; it promotes all of this by one degree and bestows honors on their parents; it erases the demerits entered against minor officials, advances the degree of scholars, dismisses all pending petty criminal cases, excuses certain liabilities, and grants bounties to the soldiers in the service of the empire.

John H. Cross Sent to Jail for Using Mails to Invite Wife to Leave Husband and Join Him—Boy Found Missive and It Was Given to Inspector.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MACON (Mo.) Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] John H. Cross, a coal miner of Novinger, was today sent to jail for sending improper letters to a woman in Illinois. The preliminary trial occurred before R. G. Mitchell, United States Commissioner at Macon. The case had been worked up by a postoffice inspector.

A letter was introduced which purported to have been written by Cross to a married woman in Illinois, suggesting that she leave her husband and that he would meet her and take care of her.

The postoffice inspector obtained the letter from the woman's son. After she received it she left home, but forgot to take the letter with her. She wrote back to her boy, telling him to get the letter and destroy it. Instead of doing this the boy showed the letter to his father and the evidence was placed in the hands of an inspector.

Cross, the defendant, admitted writing the letter but said that he was merely acting as the friend of the woman, and intended nothing wrong by his letter. The commissioner thought, however, that the letter evinced probable cause that a crime had been committed in sending it through the United States mail.

PREACHER FLANKED BY WOMEN IN COURTROOM.

Rev. William Cummings, Who Eloped With Sister-in-Law, Answers Charge of Non-support, Sitting Between the Two and Conversing Amiably With Them.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

IONIA (Mich.) Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] When the trial of Rev. William Cummings of Clarksville, a preacher who is charged by his wife with non-support, began this morning, the wife sat at one side of her husband, and his affinity, her sister, sat on the other side.

Cummings, who is a theological student, was appointed to the Episcopal charge in Elk Rapids.

There, one Sunday in August, he was met by his wife's sister, Velva Taylor, and they went away together. They visited various towns in Northern Michigan, and when found by the officers, were living in Charlevoix. Cummings was found working over a washtub in a laundry. He was arrested and brought back to Ionia.

Mrs. Cummings broke into tears as she entered the courtroom. Although she is the complaining witness in the case, she sat at her husband's side. Cummings smiled and conversed with her as though in an effort to cheer her up. Her sister, the affinity, also will be a witness.

Mrs. Margaret A. McLaughlin, 69 years of age, of No. 900 West Eleventh street, and Henry Kesten, 23 years old, of No. 1709 Moston street, both of whom mysteriously disappeared from their homes Tuesday afternoon, were found yesterday.

The woman was discovered, seated on a bench in Elysian park at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The park officer sent her to her home.

Kesten left home Tuesday afternoon, and his wife later reported his disappearance to the police. Yesterday afternoon he called her up on the telephone and announced that he would return at once. Later he made his appearance and announced that he had been visiting a friend.

CHOP STICKS FOR BANKERS.

Guests of Wealthy Chinese Merchant Eschew Mere Knives and Forks at Board.

George Lem, a wealthy commission merchant of the Chinese quarter, entertained a number of bankers at an informal banquet given in the hall of the Lem Café on Marchessault street, last night.

The most delicate Chinese dishes were served and the bankers, refusing the knives and forks offered them, ate with chop sticks in true oriental manner.

Following the banquet an interesting talk was given by Mr. Lem on the manner in which the wealthy Chinese of the Orient horde their money.

BRYAN IS BUSY FATHER-IN-LAW.

ARTIST LEAVITT'S TROUBLES EXPLAINED.

Friends of Ruth Bryan's Husband Say Democratic Leader Enters Too Much Into Young People's Affairs. Mrs. Leavitt Shows Tendency to "Run Around."

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DES MOINES (Iowa) Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] That the marital troubles between Ruth Bryan Leavitt and her artist husband, William H. Leavitt, is the result of too much father-in-law on the wife's side is the statement made in Des Moines by Kari Keffer and his sister, Miss Frances Keffer, both personal friends of Leavitt, who have just returned from Paris.

Both Keffers say they were present at a fashionable gathering in Paris at which artist Leavitt's mother was a guest. In the course of conversation they say that the elder Mrs. Leavitt exclaimed that Mr. Bryan entered altogether too much in her son's affairs to be satisfactory to either herself or her son.

"Mr. Leavitt seldom speaks of his wife," said Mr. Keffer, "but he has talked about her to me while we were staying at the same hotel in Paris. At one time he said to me that Mrs. Leavitt was too fond of 'running around.'"

On many occasions, he said, they would no sooner get settled in a new residence than she would suddenly dislike her surroundings and want to move again.

BRYAN MAY LOSE COLORADO.

TECHNICALITY OVERWHELMED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER (Colo.) Dec. 2.—Bryan may lose Colorado's five electoral votes on a technicality. A State law provides explicitly that electors shall convene at the capital on the first Wednesday in December after their election and fill any vacancy, and then vote for President and Vice-President by open ballot. The official count was completed yesterday, but the State law was overlooked. Today it was called to the attention of the Secretary of State, who rushed through certificates of election, but all electors save Lieut-Gov. Thomas were out of town. The Attorney-General will be asked to solve the difficulty, if possible.

CONSUMPTION

IMPURE AIR A CAUSE.

Disinfection a Preventative.

The Boards of Health in all parts of the country agree that consumption is an infectious and communicable disease, and is usually transmitted from the sick to the well by dried sputum floating as dust in the air. This being the case, it can in a great measure be restricted by the use of a reliable disinfectant.

Dust, dirt and germs are best removed from floors by first sweeping with a cloth-covered broom moistened with a dilution of one part Platt's Chlorides and ten parts of water. The furniture and woodwork should be dusted with a cloth, dampened with the same dilution. The cuspidor should be washed out daily with boiling water and a dilution of one part Platt's Chlorides and four of water kept constantly in it to receive the sputum. The patient's clothing should be kept by itself, and thoroughly boiled when washed.

Platt's Chlorides is an odorless, colorless liquid disinfectant which instantly removes any foul odors and destroys disease-breeding matter. A quart bottle will last an average family a month and it can be obtained at all druggists.

SALT LAKE (Utah) Dec. 2.—On the witness stand in the United States District Court today, J. M. Moore, western sales agent for the Union Pacific Coal Company, and a defendant in the case, admitted that he had cut off the coal supply of D. J. Sharp, a Salt Lake coal dealer, because Sharp insisted upon cutting the retail price of incoming coal 50 cents a ton.

Mr. Moore, who, with Everett Buckingham, traffic manager of the Oregon Short Line, and others, is charged with conspiracy in restraint of trade, repudiated the suggestion of a conspiracy and defended his action toward Mr. Sharp by saying that the dealer violated the conditions under which coal was sold to him and that his actions tended to disarrange the schedules of the coal company.

A preliminary survey has been completed from Butte, Mont., to Great Falls for a high power line for the purpose of transmitting power from the four dams to be constructed on the Missouri River near Great Falls by interests identified with the Amalgamated Coper Company, to the mines in Butte and the smelters at Anaconda. All told, the line will be about 200 miles in length, one of the longest of its kind in the world.

Miss Dineen, Servant in Rustin Home, Collapses While Testifying and Court Takes Recess Until She Recovers—Shot not Self-inflicted, Declares Expert.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

OMAHA (Neb.) Dec. 2.—Two women, Mrs. Rustin and Hannah Dineen, a servant in the Rustin home, were the principal witnesses in the trial today of Charles E. Davis, charged with the murder of Dr. Frederick Rustin.

Mrs. Rustin had little difficulty in carrying the severe cross-questions of Attorney Gurley, who forced her to identify insurance policies on her husband's life which were incontestable if the person insured committed suicide.

The desired life insurance policies having been identified, it was proposed by the defense to show that the policies contained provisions making them incontestable except for nonpayment of premiums. The prosecution objected to introducing this matter as a part of Mrs. Rustin's testimony, so it was deferred.

Miss Dineen, however, lost the composure which characterized her testimony at the Coroner's inquest and preliminary hearings, and all but collapsed during the direct examination of State's Attorney English. The session of court was suspended ten minutes, until she recovered.

Miss Dineen's testimony clearly corroborated that of Mrs. Rustin, and in addition to testified to having seen a man who resembles the defendant standing near the Rustin home just before midnight.

Technical testimony was given by Dr. W. R. Lavender, who performed the autopsy on Dr. Rustin's body. He said the shot which killed the physician was not self-inflicted.

Dr. Millard Langfeldt, who was a neighbor of Dr. Rustin and who was called by Mrs. Rustin soon after the shooting of her husband, testified. After describing the condition in which he found Dr. Rustin, he said: "I asked Mrs. Rustin: 'How did this happen?' She answered that she heard a shot and found her husband outside. Nothing more was said on the subject."

During cross-examination, the defense tried to bring out from motives of delicacy the witness refrained from inquiring into the circumstances of the shooting, at the time, but the objections of the prosecution were sustained. A question as to whether the wound could have been self-inflicted was also ruled against.

MILLIONAIRE INSULTED WOMAN.

Prisoner Arrested in Chicago Identified as Wealthy Clubman and Reformer of Milwaukee.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] James O. Klapp, manager of the Wisconsin Car Service Company, millionaire clubman and leader in civic reforms in Milwaukee, was identified today as the prisoner who was arrested Thursday night by the police of the Chicago-avenue Station on a charge of insulting Gertrude Easu, No. 135 Barry avenue. As the offense committed was only a violation of a city ordinance it is not likely Klapp can be brought from Wisconsin for trial.

The identification was made today by George W. Webster, secretary of the Wisconsin Central Railroad, who provided bonds for the man. He admitted to Detective Loftus, who is investigating the case for Chief Shippey, that the prisoner and the millionaire clubman are one and the same.

The disclosure unearths a scandal in the Chicago-avenue Station, and may result in the baling before the trial board of Patrolman Harrison, who made the arrest, and others who were concerned with the booking of the prisoner.

CAPITALIST'S SON BURGLAR.

BROKE INTO STORE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SALINAS, Dec. 2.—Charles J. Boyle was found guilty today of burglary in the first degree. Boyle, who is the son of a San Rafael capitalist, and who had enlisted as a private in the Twentieth Infantry, broke into the store of H. L. Bickford at Monterey on the night of May 14, and took three revolvers from a show case. One of the weapons he had often handled and admired when visiting the store. After his arrest he made a confession and informed the officers where the stolen property was secreted in the hills back of the Presidio of Monterey. The officers unearthed the outfit of a hold-up man, consisting of a disguise, a slungshot, gas pipe and gloves, all of which had been stolen with the exception of the slungshot. The defense endeavored to make out a case of mental aberration on the part of the defendant, and attempted to show that he had no criminal intent when he broke into Bickford's store.

BIG BANK ROBBERY.

SAFE-BLOWERS GET $14,000.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

PEPPERELL (Mass.) Dec. 2.—Fourteen thousand dollars in cash was secured by burglars, who early today blew open the vault of the First National Bank here. The thoroughness and skill with which the work was performed has convinced the police that the burglars were professionals. Three men were in the party, and although they were seen entering an automobile, all trace of them was soon lost. The bank vault was blown open about 2 a.m., at which time the last of three explosions was heard by Ernest Tarbell, who was sleeping next door.

Tarbell armed himself with a revolver and started to investigate, only to find the door of his own house barred outside. He succeeded in breaking open his door and reached the bank just as the robbers were leaving in the automobile.

WOMEN LOST ON APRONS.

Promoter Who Offered Fifty Cents for Making Collected Dollar for Materials.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] H. C. Van Neida, promoter of the Pacific Apron Company, with offices in the Marquam building, was arrested this afternoon by the Federal authorities charged with conducting a swindling mail order concern. Von Neida, who says he came to Portland from Los Angeles, maintains that his company is engaged in carrying on a legitimate business. His system was to advertise for women to make aprons at home, for which they were to receive 30 cents each. They were required, however, to forward $1 before they would be allowed to share in the benefits. They were to get this back when a dozen aprons had been made. It always turned out that the aprons had not been satisfactorily made and postal authorities received many complaints from women who had been swindled. It is estimated that Von Neida, while he kept going, reaped about $300 a day from his victims.

A concern of the same name has been operating in this city and numerous complaints have been made to the local postal inspectors of its method of doing business. The Pacific Apron Company had an office in the Lissner building, although it is not mentioned in the city directory or either of the telephone books.

Some time ago, the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association received a letter from a woman in the East who wrote she had been swindled out of $1 which she sent on for materials. After she had made a dozen aprons, she said, she sent them to the local address but never heard from the company.

Secretary Zeehandelaar at once made an investigation and took the matter up with the postal inspectors. Apparently the promoter of the scheme thought he could do better in Portland than here, hence moved his quarters.

THREATENS WITH SCISSORS.

Thomas Lee drew a pair of scissors on S. Goldstein, and threatened to "shoot" him with them, last night, because the latter requested him to stop applauding an actress in a small theater on South Main street. The actress was giving an illustrated song, and Lee annoyed the audience by applauding during the singing. Goldstein, who occupied the next seat, asked him to desist. Lee swore at him, reached for his hip pocket, and drew a pair of scissors, instead of the gun spectators expected to see. He was taken to the Police Station on a charge of disturbing the peace, but after an investigation, it was changed to drunk.

CRIME BRIEFS.

Murder for Forty Cents.

CHAFEY (Nev.) Dec. 2.—The first murder to be committed in this mining camp occurred at 4 o'clock this morning when Mrs. Tena Coby, a colored laundress, killed John Manley, also colored, with an ax, almost severing his head from his body. The woman struck the man a dozen times, beating his head to a jelly. Manley had been collecting for the laundry and had failed to return 40 cents. This is the woman's only excuse for the deed.

Henry Addison Alexander Promises to Take Drink Cure and not to Remarry Grace Green, to Whom He Has Been Wedded Twice, in Return for Handsome Annuity.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TOULON (France) Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Henry Addison Alexander divorce case and property injunction proceedings have ended here in a drawn battle. Both husband and wife will receive a decree of separation in January, and Alexander will get a large slice of his wife's fortune of $1,000,000, provided he takes a cure for inebriates and does not remarry Grace Green, whom he twice married and who twice divorced him.

When the present Mrs. Alexander, (who was the daughter of Gen. Joseph Torrence of Chicago and the widow of Kinsley Magoun, a New York banker) fled from their villa at Hyeres with William Graham Blakiston, a London attorney, Alexander at once tied up all her property. She has been compelled to pawn her jewelry for living expenses, it is said, while Alexander has borrowed at 50 per cent. from loan sharks.

At yesterday's hearing a large contingent from the jockey club of Southern France and the Hyeres Golf Club clamored at the closed doors and nearly raised a riot because they were refused admittance.

Alexander will start immediately for London to take the liquor cure and earn his annuity. He is a son of the founder of the New York law firm of Alexander and Green a Princeton graduate, an athlete and was for some time counsel to the American embassy at Paris.

PROTECTORS DIDN'T PROTECT.

Planters File Suit Against Planters' Association, Alleging Mismanagement and Mistreatment.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PADUCAH (Ky.) Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Allegations of a sensational nature are contained in a petition filed this afternoon for a receiver of the Planters' Protective Association of Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia, the members of which are tobacco growers.

The suit is the climax to the general dissatisfaction among the members in the Black Patch over the manner in which their tobacco in pool has been handled. The farmers want to sell their 1908 crop on the loose leaf market, and also to dispose of the tobacco in the pool, but the association officials stubbornly declined to accede to their wishes.

With capable management, it is alleged, all of the 1906 and 1907 crops could have been sold at a satisfactory figure, but it is alleged that fraud, malfeasance and negligence have been practiced; that the association officials have taken the farmers' tobacco and borrowed money on it from the banks at 6 per cent. and loaned it to the farmers at 8 per cent. The plaintiffs sue to recover the 2 per cent. overcharge, which is approximated at $35,000.

It is further charged that the officers are holding more than $50,000 derived from the sale of tobacco belonging to the plaintiffs, which they refuse to distribute, with the intention of converting it to their own use.

MRS. JACK WILMERDING HAS HER "HUSBAND" ARRESTED.

Granddaughter of Commodore Vanderbilt Living in Cheap Flat With Englishman, Whom She Points Out to Police and Accuses of Ill Treatment—Once Society Favorite.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After hiding from her wealthy relatives and former friends in New York society for several months, Mrs. "Jack" Wilmerding, great granddaughter of the late Commodore Vanderbilt, yesterday, made known her whereabouts by having "Jimmy" Coates, who says she is his wife according to the English common law, arrested and arraigned in the Harlem Police Court on a charge of ill-treatment.

The warrant on which Coates, a large, blonde, heavily-mustached and nattily-dressed man, 36 years old, with a thick English accent, was arrested, was served late yesterday afternoon by Policeman Kelly, who found Coates in a cheap little flat ober a grocery store at No. 52 Broadhurst avenue, where the couple have been living for about eighteen months.

The warrant was secured in the name of "Marie Coates." Under this name the woman, whose marriage in 1891 to "Jack" Wilmerding in Grace Church was one of the most fashionable ebents ever celebrated in that church of the rich, took the policeman and pointed out "her husband," ordering him arrested.

"It had to be, Jim," she said, "I couldn't help it."

She began to weep and threw her arms around Coates's neck.

"It's all right, old girl," Coates said. "Don't worry," and he went along with Kelly, leaving the woman alone in the flat. At the West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth-street station, John Mustard, a merchant, furnished bail for Coates, and he was released. When the case was called the woman did not appear to prosecute and Coates was discharged.

SOMETHING DOING.

CEMENT TRACK NOT INCLUDED.

Action of Auto Association not Effective Here.

Best Mile Course in World to Be Constructed.

Second "White City" Planned by Capt. Ryus.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In the future all automobile races held on a race course a mile in circumference or less will not be sanctioned by the American Automobile Association, the governing body in all affairs pertaining to track or road racing.

If auto drivers persist in taking part in this unsanctioned sport, it is only a matter of time when they will be placed under the ban of the association and declared "outlaws." These stringent rules are incorporated in the set of resolutions which is announced by the directors of the association at headquarters.

For two years there has been agitation among members of the association to stop the racing of automobiles on race tracks built for horse racing. It was claimed contests held on such courses were not only dangerous to life and limb, but served no useful purpose as practical demonstrations of a car's speed and endurance.

EXCEPTION HERE.

TRACK WILL BE WELL BUILT.

"The action of the American Automobile Association does not affect our track," said Capt. H. D. Ryus, last night, when shown the above dispatch. "When we get through with remodeling the course it will no longer be a horse racing track, but the largest saucer track in the world, for we expect to build a complete cement track with banked turns which will make it perfectly safe to conduct races at a high rate of speed."

Capt. Ryus admitted last night that he represented the capitalists who are promoting the course, and stated that the deal had been completed yesterday and that the backers of the proposition had accepted the terms of $12,000 for a fourteen year lease and had closed the deal.

The deal includes the transfer of 500,000 shares of the Los Angeles Jockey Club, all that have been issued, and the directors of that club have resigned and new officers will be elected and installed when the lease is taken over by the new stock company, which is to be formed in about ten days, to include the dealers and such others as are interested.

The new name of the course will be the "Ascot Track of America," and accommodation for 100,000 persons is to be made. The track was turned over to Capt. Ryus last night and he expects to have the track open by January 1. The lease includes the use of the 158 acres included in the tract, and all the buildings. Ryus plans to build a second "White City," as in Chicago, and believes that the Chamber of Commerce will see its way clear to use some of the buildings for a permanent exhibit.

RALPH HAMLIN ENTERTAINS.

Ralph Hamlin and his display of Franklin motor cars drew a large crowd of admiring autoists at the formal opening of the new Franklin garage at Eleventh and Olive streets, last night.

The latest home of the popular car is commodious and attractive in every design, from the spacious salesroom and still more roomy garage and shops, to the natty private offices of the manager.

Six different styles of the new 1909 Franklins were on display, and the cars from the eighteen-horse-power runabout to the big six-cylinder touring machine are built on beautiful lines, and suggest speed and power in every part.

That the Franklin is a popular machine with the Southern California motorists is attested by the fact that Hamlin delivered more Franklins during the last year from the Los Angeles shops, than were sold by the combined efforts of the several agents in New York City.

To date Hamlin has delivered four of the classy 1909 models, and in addition has contracts to deliver fourteen other cars. Four of the cars on display last night were tagged sold, the other two being the demonstrators.

Hamlin yesterday received a commendation from H. H. Franklin, complimenting the local agent on his marked efforts in advancing the auto interests of California.

THE RACES.

SLUSH AND RAIN SWAMP PONIES.

PIKERS ONLY BETTORS TO MAKE GOOD AT ARCADIA.

Proper Is Only Favorite to Make Good in Muddy Going and He Likes the Style—Merlingo at Prohibitive Odds Is Defeated by Six Lengths by an Outsider.

Slush and rain played sad havoc with the form players at the Arcadia races yesterday and the pikers were the only part of the gamblers that could do anything with the bookmakers and they did not win any money. It was all guess work from the start to the finish and there was little form to the events on account of the mud. The "dope" did not show what any of the nags could do in the soup and the talent was completely at sea.

The only favorite to finish in front was Proper in the second race and he liked the going and practically led from the start, the others never being close enough to scare him.

Dredkin started the surprises in the first race by winning at 7 to 1. In the third race Alma Boy at 11 to 2 beat the 1 to 3 favorite Merlingo by six lengths. Light Wool at 3, trimmed the 8 to 5 favorite Mark Anthony II, in the fourth race; Senator Beckham beat the favorite L. C. Widrig in the fifth, and Billy Mayham ran away with the closing number at 7 to 1, the favorite La Chata, finishing seventh. The professional gamblers could do nothing with this kind of racing. Results:

Five and a half furlongs: Dredkin, 109 (Powers,) 7 to 1, won; Mattie Russell, 107 (Goldstein,) 15 to 1, second; Sandpiper, 107 (Yorke,) 5 to 2, third; time, 1:08. Father Stafford, Royal Stone, Empire Expedition, Rey El Dinero and Charlie Rothschild also ran. Shapdale scratched.

Six and a half furlongs: Proper, 110 (Powers,) 7 to 10, won; Duke of Bridgewater, 103 (Archibald,) 12 to 1, second; Dainty Belle, 102 (Kennedy,) 10 to 1, third; time, 1:21 4-5. Catherine F., Orcagna, Chief Desmond, Feminine, Ardis, Dr. Crook, Joseph K. and Arthur Hyman also ran. Dr. Weis, Toller, Merrill, Virlando and Friar of Elgin scratched.

Mile and one-eighth: Alma Boy, 107 (Martin,) 11 to 2, won; Merlingo, 110 (Musgrave,) 1 to 3, second; Varieties, 99 (Harris,) 15 to 1, third; time, 1:55 1-5. Mike Jordan also ran. Hi Caul Cap and Ed Ball scratched.

Mile, Orange Handicap: Light Wool, 103 (Musgrave,) 5 to 2, won; Mark Anthony II, 106 (Burns,) 8 to 5, second; Stanley Fay, 111 (Harris,) 3 to 1, third; time, 1:40. First Peep also ran. Center Shot, Vox Populi and Green Seal scratched.

Mile and one-quarter: Senator Beckham, 103 (Ural,) 5 to 1, won; L. C. Widrig, 101 (Reid,) 5 to 2, second; Henry O., 102 (Harris,) 12 to 5, third; time, 2:09¼. Flavigny, King of the Mist and Sachet also ran.

Five furlongs: Billy Mayham, 112 (Clark,) 7 to 1, won; Tim O'Toole, 112 (Dennison,) 5 to 2, second; Prince of Castile, 112 (Burns,) 15 to 1, third; time, 1:02 2-5. Monvina, Sam G., Andoche, La Chata, Bellchamber, Brennus and Forkford also ran. Frontenac, Bribery, Lord of the Forest and Free Knight the Bear, scratched.

EMERYVILLE RACES.

BOOKMAKERS RUN SECOND.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

OAKLAND, Dec. 2.—Well-played horses were successful at Emeryville today, and the twenty-five layers in line had an unprofitable session. Wamboro was favorite for the first race, but there was a heavy play on Rosamo and he proved an easy winner from The Vicar. Wamboro finished third. Frank Weir bid Rosamo up from $500 to $900, but he was retained.

Haslett, second choice, took the two-year-old race easily from Argonaut and Meddling Hannah. Chipmunk, the favorite, made a disappointing showing after getting away well. Wap, winner of the fifth, was bid up from $500 to $800 by H. G. Bedwell, his former owner, but was retained. Results:

Five furlongs, selling: Rosamo, 111 (Miller,) 3 to 1, won; The Vicar, 107 (Holmes,) 16 to 1, second; Wamboro, 105 (Walsh,) 3 to 2, third; time, 1:01. Mabel Fountain, Johnny White, Harry Stanhope, Larry Mulligan, Ornate, Lady Rensselaer, Angel Face, El Paso and Roy Shumway finished as named.

Five furlongs, selling: Haslet, 113 (McCarthy,) 14 to 5, won; Argonaut, 108 (Butler,) 4 to 1, second; Meddling Hannah, 105 (Keogh,) 5 to 1, third; time, 1:00 3-5. Knight Dock, Miss Highland, Chipmunk, Micaela, Fargo Rose and Carrie Thatcher also ran.

Six furlongs, selling: Kokomo, 119 (Hayes,) 2 to 1, won; Sid Silver, 119 (Rettig,) 20 to 1, second; St. Joe, 114 (MacBeth,) 7 to 1, third; time, 1:13 4-5. Cheers, Em and Em, Colbert, Confederate, The Captain, Sophomore, Avona, Yellowstone and Speaker Fontana also ran.

Six furlongs, selling: Belle Kirney, 119 (Rettig,) 6 to 5, won; Curriculum, 119 (McCarthy,) 7 to 1, second; Fore Runner, 119 (Miller,) 4 to 1, third; time, 1:14. Dencen, Tank, Charles Green, Marion Rose, Elevation, Billy Bowlegs and Lord Rossington also ran.

Mile, selling: Wap, 109 (Keogh,) 6 to 5, won; Capt. Kennedy, 105 (Gilbert,) 7 to 1, second; Be Thankful, 107 (Kirschbaum,) 13 to 5, third; time, 1:42. Romanoff, Alcibiades, Sir Wesley, Taskmaster and Carmenita also ran.

Seven furlongs, purse: Collector Jessup, 112 (Rettig,) 8 to 5, won; Sempronium, 92 (Walsh,) 9 to 1, second; Creation, 103 (Butler,) 5 to 1, third; time, 1:26 1-5. Warden, Anna L. Daley, Dollie Dollars, Schloswig, Purser Rose and Convent Bell also ran.

AGAINST SPEED MANIACS.

Autoists of This Country up in Arms Against Reckless Motorists Who Maim and Kill.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] New York automobilists as a class are up in arms against the conduct of chauffeurs who flee from the scene of accidents caused by their own carelessness. The decent and predominating element in the automobile world has decided that manslaughter on the streets must be stopped at any cost, and as the direct result of the accident at Fifty-second street and Ninth avenue Monday night, which resulted in the death of Mrs. Caroline Layer and the subsequent flight of the guilty driver, indignation meetings were the rule today wherever motorists of the better sort gathered.

So strong a sentiment against "joy rides" and their attendant fatalities has been aroused that at a meeting of the board of governers of the Automobile Club of America, held this afternoon, it was decided to call a special meeting for next week to consider the situation in general and take some action which will guarantee the public against further excesses of this kind.

The meeting of the Automobile Club today was attended by Henry Sanderson, John Jacob Astor, Robert Lee Morrell, Winslow Tracy Williams, George F. Chamberlain and Winthrop Scarrett. The suggestion that the club take an active stand against reckless chauffeurs came from Albert Shattuck, a former governor of the club, and met with the approval of the entire board.

Is "Lucky" Guilty?

It is reported that the two cans of steelhead trout fry given to "Lucky" Baldwin to put in the creeks near Monrovia, were dumped in a pond on "Lucky's" Arcadia ranch. If this is true the old man will be given a hard "call" if he ever applies to the Fish Commission again for the honor of distributing fish in public streams.

PUGNACIOUS.

BERRY IS DONE WITH OUTLAWS.

Says He Will Oppose Their Entrance Into Fold.

Outcasts Want Favors Coast League Cannot Give.

President Ewing Decides on Fight to Finish.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Henry Berry declared tonight:

"I will have no further dealings with representatives of the State League. They did not talk reason when we met with them, and I will not attend any more conferences. I will vote against their admission, and you can cut me out in future discussions of State League affairs."

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

Chances for friendly relations between the Pacific Coast League and the California State League are not brilliant as a result of the conference Tuesday afternoon.

The State Leaguers intimated that Ewing and Berry did not have the requisite authority and now the Coast League officials are hurling defiance and declaring that the outlaws must act through them or there will be no chance for their joining organized baseball.

Ewing is particularly incensed at what he terms an effort to over-rule his authority and Berry adds that he will never have anything more to do with the State League.

When the State League delegates met with the Coast Leaguers, they said politely they wanted to see Pulliam and Johnson and hear what they might have to offer. Now comes Ewing with this statement:

"It will be impossible for the State League directors to talk business with Presidents Pulliam and Johnson. I will stand on my rights and object to any such procedure as I am the Coast representative of the minor leaguers and empowered to act.

READY TO FIGHT.

"The Coast League is ready to fight to a finish and I expect that we will have to fight, as the demands of the State League are outrageous.

"The State League wants every player reinstated and clubs in San Francisco, Oakland and Alameda, with one week's games in San Francisco at Recreation Park, Valencia street, while the Coast teams will be away. We will not stand for anything of the kind. We will put a team in Sacramento and whether we lose money or not, will fight to a finish. Help will be given by the National Commission.

Ewing also states that Presidents Johnson and Pulliam will arrive about December 18 on a visit and not for the purpose of taking up the question of organized baseball with the outlaws. He explains that his chief reason for seeing the outlaws go into organized baseball is that it would prevent mistakes in drafting and buying players from the East not suitable for the Pacific Coast League.

PROGNOSTICATIONS.

DISPOSITION OF HOGAN.

No matter what may be the result of the negotiations of the State League outlaws and the Pacific Coast League directors, the Los Angeles ball club proposes to be ready with the necessary catchers for next year, for Manager Dillon expects to sign Catcher Orndorff this week. Dillon and the club secretary, Harry Lelande, have discussed the matter with the new catcher and it is understood that he is willing to sign. From what he showed here in a few games the latter part of the past season he would make good in this league, for he is undoubtedly a ball player, and acts like a live one.

This naturally brings up the question of what would become of Happy Hogan in the event that Teddy Easterly stays with the local club next year, instead of going to Cleveland.

From present appearances it looks as if there will be no Class B league on the Coast next year for the outlaws and the Coast League directors are quarreling. If they do patch up their differences it is more than probable that Hogan will be captain of the Class B team to be put in Los Angeles. Harry Lelande and Tom Darmody are figuring on being interested in such a Class B team and Mayor Harper, Goings and Henry Lyons will also be in it. If there is no Class B team, the Coast League will be made up of six teams as heretofore proposed and the Harper-Lyons-Goings organization will be given a franchise.

In the plans with this end in view, Danny Shay of the Stockton outlaw team was figured on as captain, but if the outlaws are to fight the Coast League he may remain with the Stockton; If he does come, Hogan would not be chosen as captain.

At present, the baseball situation on the Coast is very much up in the air, and nothing will be known definitely until it is learned whether or not the Coast League and the outlaws can get together.

Cage to Be Built.

Work will be commenced this week on the building of the big wire cage in Griffith Park that will be the temporary home of the 500 or 1000 quail that the Fish and Game Commission will take care of until after the open season closes, and then liberate in various parts of the county, where the birds have been scarce this year. The cage will be seventy-two feet long, nine feet high and twelve feet wide, and will be made of the ordinary chicken wire. It will be put in Griffith Park, to be away from the noise and excitement of city life, and where a keeper can watch it night and day to prevent the birds from being stolen.

Prizes Are Delayed.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Failure of several of the foreign drivers who took part in the recent Grand Prize automobile race at Savannah, Ga., to reach the city yesterday, caused a postponement of the awarding of $2000 in cash prizes to the first five who finished the race. The distribution was made this afternoon at the headquarters of the Automobile Club of America when the successful contestants were on hand.

Indians Beat Nebraska.

LINCOLN (Neb.) Dec. 2.—Outclassing Nebraska State University, the Carlisle Indians won a brilliant gridiron victory today by 37 to 6. The Indians made sensational gains through the line and were aided at critical times by the dexterity of Fullback Hauser's foot.

MISTY WEATHER.

GOOD SHOOTING DAY ON DUCK PRESERVES.

IT WAS limit day for the duck gunners yesterday and with the exception of three clubs the birds were present in large flights on the preserves, and the members of the mid-week squads got their bird bags full within a couple of hours.

On the Cerritos, Golden West, Olympic and Westminster clubs the rain came down in hard showers all during the morning, and the driving witness accompanied by a stiff land breeze early blew the ducks out to the ocean, and the birds did not suffer from thirst as might be expected on a dry, warm day, so did not return.

Clubs that secured the limits were the Blue Wing, Sunset, Center, Lomita, Pacific and Domingues, and in every case the visiting gunners got the legal number by 9 o'clock. The Sunset club was the sole preserve favored by the mallards, and the quartette of sportsmen, including N. Biehl, Dr. Dillingham, E. M. Wilson and McCoy, shared some of the best shooting since the season opened. "Plenty of large, fat birds," was the report given by the boys, and the occasional showers that occurred during the two hours of shooting did not inconvenience them.

The limit squad on the Blue Wing included Lee Stephens, W. T. Glassell, C. S. Campbell, C. E. Groat, W. F. Ball, Ed Allen and H. Glassell. Glassell said the birds were unusually plentiful and large, and in fine condition. Quite a few gadwell and sprig were shot, while spoonies and teal were also brought to bag.

Eight persons shot the legal number on the Lomita preserve, the fortunate ones being H. W. Lewis, Dr. O. P. Roller, L. D. Sale, H. B. Phillips, W. D. Newell, F. O. Johnson, M. P. Snyder and Thomas Haverty. Here, as elsewhere, the birds were all large, and the ducks blew in over the ponds in an almost continuous flight. Gadwell, spoonies and sprig predominated in the bags.

On the Olympic the wind rose early from the land quarter and scattered the flights of ducks to the ocean, and as a result the sport was marred. Mat Nordlinger was the sole limit man, while Frank Bowles shot twenty-five, Dr. Schiffman thirty-one, Jake Baum twenty-three and F. A. Fay fourteen. The spoonies were the more numerous, although a few sprig and widgeon were also secured.

The rain interfered with the sport on the Westminster club, but judging from the flights of ducks that lay on the ocean during the morning, the shooting will be excellent when the weather clears a bit. Jack Elliott, E. R. Rowley, F. E. Brown and E. H. Barmore were down, and averaged between twenty-five and thirty ducks each. Spoonies were quite numerous, and a few teal were also shot.

On the Golden West the rain played favorites with the fliers, and the sport waned as the showers increased. The boys quit early, too, and the bags were not as full as usual. H. P. Hoffman shot twenty. J. T. Lewis nineteen, Howard L. Rivers twelve, W. H. Stewart seven and a guest of H. P. Hoffman's twenty. The birds were all large, and the number of gadwell shot was the highest of the season.

A. H. Caubin and Ben Guercio were the two sole shooters on the Center club, and the boys had the shooting just to their liking, securing the limit shortly after 9 o'clock.

Dr. Graves and H. H. Markham shot ten each on the Cerritos grounds, and J. K. Urmston got twelve. The rain set in early and continued in a downpour all morning, spoiling the sport.

This is one of the verses that was submitted by a bright boy in our Fire Cracker Ad Writing Contest, last June. Isn't awful? Still, my hat is off to that boy just the same, for he's going to be down near the front row some day, because he tried to be original to get away from the ordinary. I guess that's why his poetry is extraordinary. You have an awful lot of troubles, haven't you? We all have. The trick is to keep working all the time, every minute so you'll forget 'em. The reward is there, too, if you're just a bit patient. If you'll keep working and thinking and hustling all the year round, you won't have to flash your roscoe on the boss in order to get a raise. He'll talk to you before the first of January. Our big ad writing contest, which is to be pulled off on Dec. 15th, is going to be a lallapalooser right, and every boy and girl who submits a carefully prepared advertisement or drawing of the "Office Boy" is going to receive a nice big box of "Rose House" chocolates, and the ten best ones will get a beautiful gold Waltham watch. NEW DEAL.

PAPKE KICKS OUT MANAGE

Throws Jones Overboard a Takes on Berger.

Money End of Ketchel Fig Makes Billy Sore.

Northern Sports Surprised the Change.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Dissatisfied with business bargains he has made in past, Billy Papke tossed off Jones, his Illinois manager, and today came to terms with Sam Berger, former heavyweight and more recently a San Francisco fight promoter.

Berger accepted the terms made Papke and after they had wired

who yesterday kicked out his forme
took on Sam Berg

Jeffries Athletic Club in Los Angeles to discontinue all negotiations with Jones, they left for Los Angeles, accompanied by Al Kaufman and Jack Gleason, to close the match with Hugo Kelly that is scheduled for December 15.

That Papke was not pleased with the management of Jones has been rumored here, but that Berger would forsake the haberdashery business to look after the matches of a scrapper who once was middleweight champion of the world, was a surprise to everybody in the sporting fraternity. In fact, the deal was not completed until this afternoon, when Berger gave his consent and bought tickets for Los Angeles.

The news, it is said, will be as much of a surprise to Jones as to any one else concerned, as the fellowship was fondly believed affairs had been straightened out and Papke would shortly follow him to Los Angeles.

As the story goes, Papke went to Berger voluntarily and asked him to accept the management. That was Tuesday night, and Berger asked a few hours to consider. This morning he agreed to become a manager.

A dispatch was sent to the Jeffries club announcing the change in management, and another to Tom Jones explaining that he was cut loose. Then the party bought their tickets and left at 5 o'clock for the southland.

HALF A LOAF.

The trouble arose over the last fight. When Jones agreed to fight Ketchel before Coffroth's club, he was promised $12,000 of the first $20,000 that came into the box office. There was not $20,000, but only $12,347, and Coffroth told the fight managers they could take what was in sight or there would be no fight. Jones hastily decided half a loaf was better than no bread, and agreed to take $3000 for his end.

Papke did not know anything about this deal, and after his defeat, when he had trouble enough, it rather jarred him for Jones to explain that his end was $3000 instead of $12,000.

That was what set Papke to thinking, and to decide he wanted another manager. He was advised that Berger is a good business man and knows the game, and for that reason picked him out. He let Jones get away from the city in order that the blow might fall with less severity, and then gave him the hook.

That Jones feared something of this sort was indicated by a statement that he made prior to his departure, in which he said:

"I haven't yet explained to Papke about the $3000 instead of $12,000. I am afraid that it will cost me my management of him, as he will naturally feel sore. I did the best I could in the circumstances, as otherwise there would have been no fight."

RAIN STOPS WORK.

PUGS KEEP INDOORS.

Rainy weather yesterday knocked out much of the active work of the fistic boxers who are training for the show to be given by the McCarey club at Naud Junction tomorrow night. Young Kid McCoy, who is to fight Wolgast, being the only one to go out on the highway, and being at Venice, missed some of the rain. However, the boys made up for the lack of road work by more exercise than usual in the gym.

Wolgast gave out the statement yesterday that he intended to try and stop McCoy inside of five rounds and if he

NEW DEAL.

PAPKE KICKS OUT MANAGER.

Throws Jones Overboard and Takes on Berger.

Money End of Ketchel Fight Makes Billy Sore.

Northern Sports Surprised at the Change.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Dissatisfied with the business bargains he has made in the past, Billy Papke tossed off Tom Jones, his Illinois manager, and today came to terms with Sam Berger, the former heavyweight and more recently a San Francisco fight promoter.

Berger accepted the terms made by Papke and after they had wired the Jeffries Athletic Club in Los Angeles to discontinue all negotiations with Jones, they left for Los Angeles, accompanied by Al Kaufman and Jack Gleason, to close the match with Hugo Kelly that is scheduled for December 15.

That Papke was not pleased with the management of Jones has been rumored here, but that Berger would forsake the haberdashery business to look after the matches of a scrapper who once was middleweight champion of the world, was a surprise to everybody in the sporting fraternity. In fact, the deal was not completed until this afternoon, when Berger gave his consent and bought tickets for Los Angeles.

The news, it is said, will be as much of a surprise to Jones as to any one else concerned, as the Kewanee man fondly believed affairs had been straightened out and Papke would shortly follow him to Los Angeles.

As the story goes, Papke went to Berger voluntarily and asked him to accept the management. That was Tuesday night, and Berger asked a few hours to consider. This morning he agreed to become a manager.

A dispatch was sent to the Jeffries club announcing the change in management, and another to Tom Jones explaining that he was cut loose. Then the party bought their tickets and left at 5 o'clock for the southland.

HALF A LOAF.

The trouble arose over the last fight. When Jones agreed to fight Ketchel before Coffroth's club, he was promised $12,000 of the first $30,000 that came into the box office. There was not $30,000, but only $12,347, and Coffroth told the fight managers they could take what was in sight or there would be no fight. Jones hastily decided half a loaf was better than no bread, and agreed to take $3000 for his end.

Papke did not know anything about this deal, and after his defeat, when he had trouble enough, it rather jarred him for Jones to explain that his end was $3000 instead of $12,000.

That was what set Papke to thinking, and to decide he wanted another manager. He was advised that Berger is a good business man and knows the game, and for that reason picked him out. He let Jones get away from the city in order that the blow might fall with less severity, and then gave him the hook.

That Jones feared something of this sort was indicated by a statement that he made prior to his departure, in which he said:

"I haven't yet explained to Papke about the $3000 instead of $12,000. I am afraid that it will cost me my management of him, as he will naturally feel sore. I did the best I could in the circumstances, as otherwise there would have been no fight."

RAIN STOPS WORK.
PUGS KEEP INDOORS.

Rainy weather yesterday knocked out much of the active work of the fight boxers who are training for the show to be given by the McCarey club at Naud Junction tomorrow night. Young Kid McCoy, who is to fight Wolgast, being the only one to go out on the highway, and being at Venice, missed some of the rain. However, the boys made up for the lack of road work by more exercise than usual in the gym.

Wolgast gave out the statement yesterday that he intended to try and stop McCoy inside of five rounds and if he did this it would be a demonstration that he was entitled to a match with Attell.

The order of the fights tomorrow night is as follows:

Togo and Dougherty, six rounds.
Mantell and O'Keefe, ten rounds.
English and Ward, ten rounds.
Wolgast and Young McCoy, ten rounds.

OFFER FOR PACKY.
COFFROTH AFTER WELSH.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Packy McFarland yesterday received a tentative offer for a match with Freddie Welsh at Coffroth's club at San Francisco on New Year's afternoon. While the financial terms are not quite to the liking of Manager Gilmore, he expects there will be no trouble in adjusting them.

He wired yesterday, suggesting that the weight be the same as in the last match, 133 pounds, at 10 o'clock. The battle is to go twenty-five rounds.

SOME CLASS HERE.

Sophomores of U.S.C. Defeat Strong Glendale High School Basketball Team.

The sophomore class basketball five of the University of Southern California defeated the strong Glendale High School team at the university court yesterday afternoon by a score of 19 to 14.

The game was the fastest exhibition seen on the Methodist court this season, and the Sophs lead in the scoring throughout the contest. At the end of the first fifteen-minute period the score was 5 to 3, in favor of the home five. Hall, Carroll and Henderson shared in the winning scores, each making three field baskets, Carroll adding an additional point on a free throw from the foul line.

Emery and Stine starred for the visitors, who put up a hard game. This is the third game won by the Sophs this week, they having defeated the Huntington Beach five Tuesday by the score of 12 to 11, and the Vernon Barracas Monday by the count of 30 to 6.

The line-up of the teams was as follows:

Glendale.		Sophs.
Taylor	forward	Henderson
Emery	forward	Carroll
Walton	center	Hall
Stine	guard	Red Reed
Gould	guard	Paulin

Goals from field, Henderson 3, Carroll 3, Hall 2, Taylor 4, Emery 1, Walton 2; goal from foul line, Carroll 1; referee, Goodsell.

Billy Papke, Middleweight Boxer, who yesterday kicked out his former manager, Tom Jones of Chicago, and took on Sam Berger of San Francisco.

WANTS MORE MONEY.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Pitcher Overall of the Cubs had a two-hours' star chamber session with President Murphy today during which a disagreement over Orvie's salary clause in next year's contract was discussed. The big pitcher refused to sign at the terms quoted.

Overall intends to remain in the city until January 1, and possibly the difference between player and club owner will be adjusted before he leaves for his home in California.

The negotiations between Murphy and Overall were not unpleasant at any time during the conference, but a difference of a few hundred dollars was still between them when they adjourned the meeting.

Ball Game Postponed.

The big ball game that was to have been played at Chutes Park on Sunday of next week between teams captained by Frank Chance of the Chicago Cubs and Frank Dillon of the Los Angeles team, has been postponed one week because the park cannot be secured for December 13. It is announced that all the proceeds of the game will be given to the Elks benefit fund.

Godwin Heard from.

Godwin, the new left fielder of the Los Angeles club, who was drafted from the Bloomington team, has written to Secretary Harry Lelande, asking when he is to report, his evident intention being to learn when he will be put on the pay roll.

NEGRO SPRINTER DEAD.

Only Colored Man to Take Part in Olympic Games Is Victim of Typhoid-Pneumonia.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—Dr. John B. Taylor, the former champion quarter-mile runner of the University of Pennsylvania, died today from typhoid-pneumonia.

Taylor was the first colored man ever picked to carry the American flag on his breast in Olympic championships, running in the 400-meter race and in the relay event.

In the summer of 1904 Taylor visited England and France, and won the majority of his races.

CALIFORNIA.

VARSITY WORK DIVERSIFIED.

BASKETBALL TEAM MAY COME SOUTH TO PLAY.

California Crew Has Good Material but No Coach and Coulson of Cornell May Come to the Coast—Cross-country Run Scheduled to Be Contested Tomorrow.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Nov. 30.—The anual interclass cross-country run is to be held Wednesday, December 2, and will be the last contest of the term. An alumnus has offered a handsome cup to the class winning the event and a considerable number of men have been in training for it. Christie has had out all the veteran distance runners at cross-country work as well as the freshmen who plan to enter the long races next term.

Weather permitting the run will start at 2 and will cover a course of about seven miles. Between thirty and forty men are expected to start, prominent among them being Clabaugh of Anaheim, Gaines, winner of the two-mile in the big meet last year, and Hobart, who took third in the same event, Casey and Boydston, both 'varsity men, will also run. Casey is counted upon by many to win the event.

The interclass basketball series has been won by the freshmen, who defeated by decisive scores the teams of all the other classes. Manager Mathews is negotiating for a series of intercollegiate games with Stanford. Four years ago basketball was introduced as an intercollegiate contest by the two universities, but was dropped after the one season by Stanford because of lack of interest and discouragement over defeats. California has abundant material for a strong team this season and the many devotees of the sport in the university are hoping that the intercollegiate series may be arranged. If games are not scheduled with Stanford, Mathews is hoping that a flying southern trip can be made and games played with Pomona, Whittier, Occidental, U.S.C. and St. Vincents.

The sports and pastimes trophy cup in women's basketball has been won by the seniors, who as juniors captured the trophy last year as well. From the material at hand the women expect to have a team even stronger than that which so decisively defeated Stanford in the two games played last year. The customary games are also being scheduled with Miss Head's school and Mills College.

Rowing men seem to be considerably at sea as to the man who will act as coach this season. Coulson of Cornell has been offered the position but it seems that his acceptance hangs upon whether or not he is given a position in the law department as an instructor. At present at Cornell he is one of the instructors in the law school as well as acting as assistant coach and he desires the same sort of a position if he comes to California.

Fall training has been under the supervision of the upper classmen on the crew of last year. Little work has been done with the candidates other than freshmen, but the latter have been put through hard training. The present freshmen class possesses a large number of big husky men and the material that has turned out for the freshman crew shows much promise.

While the uncertainty as to a coach clouds 'varsity prospects somewhat, the fact that seven out of the eight men on last year's winning 'varsity in addition to the coxswain, will return, makes the situation quite bright. Capt. Witter will be in his old position at stroke, which he has rowed for the last two years. Dignan will again be out for No. 1; Ball for No. 2; Schroeder for 3; P. Ashley for 5; Robertson for 6, and Davidson for 7.

McSpadden and Myers, both 'varsity coxswains, will be out. McSpadden steered the shell that won from Stanford last spring, while Myers held the ropes in the 1907 'varsity race and in the race with Washington at Seattle last June. Evans, who rowed on the 1907 crew, has returned to college and will be out, as will Sperry, who just missed getting into the shell in place of Schroeder last spring. In addition to these veterans several of the strongest men from the freshman crew of last season will be out and will push some of the 'varsity men hard for their seats.

DISPOSES OF MILLIONS.

GRAND RAPIDS (Mich.) Dec. 2.—The will of Delos A. Blodgett, multi-millionaire lumberman, who died a month ago, was opened today. The bulk of the estate, estimated at between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000, is left in trust to three young children of Mr. Blodgett by his second marriage. To the widow is left $150,000, an annuity of $10,000 and the homestead, with liberal means of support.

POPE MUCH IMPROVED.

ROME, Dec. 2.—The Pope, who has been suffering from a cold for several days, was visited by his physicians this morning. Their report set forth that the Pope is much better today and stronger than he was yesterday.

Bad Breath and Sour Stomach

Stopped at Once With Pure Willow Charcoal, the Greatest Gas Absorber Known.

There is no necessity to suffer the humiliation, chagrin and discomfort of bad breath, biliousness, sour stomach, gastritis, sluggish liver, etc., when a little lozenge of charcoal will cleanse the stomach and make it pure and sweet.

Do not drug yourself when a simple little natural charcoal made from fragrant willow branches, sweetened with honey, will add tone to your stomach, liver and intestines, rapidly absorb gases and stop foul odors of all kinds.

Charcoal will absorb one hundred times its own volume in gas. A box full of charcoal placed in a bedroom will keep the air of such a room pure and sweet.

A little charcoal lozenge dissolved on the tongue after meals will also keep the stomach fresh and clean. Charcoal is justly called the scrubbing brush for the stomach. The old monks of medieval times cured bad cases of stomach trouble, cast out devils from the system of man by feeding such a man charcoal.

Scientific men of today believe in the great strength of charcoal for the cure of human ills. Too much of it cannot harm one. The system craves it just like an animal needs and craves salt every so often. Charcoal goes into the stomach gently and is welcome, it settles down through the action of the stomach, and filters through all the food, absorbing gas, aiding digestion and giving tone to the juices, so that when the food goes into the intestines, and there meets other digestive fluids, the charcoal holds the impurities and thus keeps them from the blood.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are made from pure willow. They are prepared fragrant by the use of honey and sweetened so they please the taste and are easily dissolved.

They have an enormous sale, thus stamping them with the approval of the public. Every druggist sells them, 25 cents per box. Go to your druggist today and buy a box; then after your next meal take two or three of them and judge for yourself of their merit.

Several taken at bed time will prove to you in the morning that they have been at work all night, for your bad breath will not be so bad after all.

Send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package by mail free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 200 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Why Rengo Reduces Fat

Anti-Fats and Starvation. Diet Result in Wrecking of the System.

In cases of fat, the food is not properly assimilated—that is, part of the food is retained by the body which should not be retained, and part which should be retained is thrown out. This does not always mean dyspepsia or indigestion, for one may have a very healthy stomach and yet begin to grow fat, through no apparent cause.

It is evident to any one, then, that to try to starve away the fat is both ridiculous and dangerous.

The use of anti-fats, remedies that positively stop digestion sooner or later, results in a break down of some organ and consequent disease.

Certain tropical fruits have been known for some time to be remarkable regulators of the system.

This is what Rengo does. It contains a tropical fruit mixture which has this faculty of perfectly assimilating food taken into the body. That is the secret. It has resulted in making Rengo a marvel as a fat-reducer and a health builder, and a Godsend to all fat people.

There is nothing "just as good" as Rengo. For sale by all druggists at $1.00 per full sized box, or by mail prepaid, by The Rengo Co., 3257 Rengo Bldg., Detroit, Mich. The company will gladly send you a trial package free by mail, if you write them direct to Detroit; no free packages at drug stores.

Rengo is for sale and recommended in Los Angeles by Owl Drug Co., 320 So. Spring and Fifth and Broadway; also Hamburger's and The Broadway Department Store.

Western Wholesale Drug Co., Wholesale Distributors.

Weak, Lazy Bowels

A free trial will convince you that Multo-Fruto is the most natural constipation cure known, because it contains tropical fruit-juices, and everybody knows that there is nothing so quick and thorough in curing chronic constipation and weak, fagged nerves as a fruit treatment. You can eat and enjoy it like fruit or candy.

Full sized packages, 25c and 50c, at drug stores. If your druggist has not got it, send your remittance to the Rengo Co., Rengo Bldg., Detroit, Mich., and they will send it prepaid. You can get a trial package of Multo-Fruto free only by writing to the above address. No free packages at druggists.

The Simplest Method.

While building a house, Senator Platt of Connecticut had occasion to employ a carpenter. One of the applicants was a plain Connecticut Yankee, without any frills.

"You thoroughly understand carpentry?" asked the Senator.

"Yes, sir."

"You can make doors, windows and blinds?"

"Oh, yes, sir."

"How would you make a Venetian blind?"

The man scratched his head and thought deeply for a few seconds. "I should think, sir," he said finally, "about the best way would be to punch him in the eye."—[Everybody's Magazine.

HELD UP TO RIDICULE.

the hands of the trustees, she to take over all debts then pending.

M. Clemenceau then railed at the Count for reproaching De Sagan with having two mistresses.

"The Count," he said, "had more than two when he married Miss Gould."

The Count also accused De Sagan with ingratitude because he (the Count) had once loaned him $12,000.

"Where does the money come from?" asked the lawyer. "Why, from Anna Gould, who is now the Princess De Sagan."

Reverting to the divorce proceedings, M. Clemenceau charged that the words of the decree obtained by the Countess, that "the husband had entertained relations with women of easy morals" did not constitute the worst charge against the Count. As a proof that the suit was not brought because of the Count's solicitude for his children, and that the Marquise De Castellane did not desire their custody, M. Clemenceau called attention to the fact that the Marquise De Castellane had not come forward as a party to the action.

OUT OF HER WINDOW.

M. Clemenceau took up one by one the accusations made against the Princess by the Count regarding her travels in Italy with De Sagan before their marriage. It should be remembered, the lawyer declared, that the Princess was not a young girl traveling with her fiancée, but a divorced woman in the company of the man she was going to marry. Furthermore, she is an American, M. Clemenceau said:

"Conduct that would appear to be out of the ordinary in France," he said, "is perfectly proper on the other side of the ocean."

Dismissing the charges brought against the Prince and Mme. Gould while they were in New York, M. Clemenceau came to the more serious charge of misconduct at Versailles. He admitted that De Sagan had stepped out of Mme. Gould's window in the Hotel des Reserverar, at 11 o'clock in the morning, but he pointed out that this was not the window of her bedroom but of her salon, and as the salon was situated on the ground floor of the hotel, it was quite natural for the Prince to emerge into the garden by way of the tall window that in French houses often serves as a door.

DENIES INSINUATION.

He called attention to the fact that counsel for the Count had insinuated that De Sagan had conducted himself improperly at Versailles. Such an insinuation was infamously false, and it likewise untrue that De Sagan had occupied a room in the Chateau Marais on the same floor as that of Mme. Gould's servants. It is true that De Sagan had rented a villa at Bellevue under an assumed name, but this was something he had a perfect right to do.

M. Clemenceau pleaded that the boys be left under the affectionate care of their mother, where they could receive an American education like the children of George J. Gould—that is, be taught to work.

"In spite of the large fortune these children will inherit," said the lawyer, for the Princess, "their lives should not be idle. If they do nothing good or useful they will run a great risk of doing something bad. The court should affirm the impossibility of confiding these three children to their father or grandmother—in a word, to relatives who would teach them that the ideal of a man is to receive an allowance from his divorced wife."

The lawyer then read a series of letters from the tutor of the children, showing that when the Count was at home, before he was divorced, they never saw him except at meals, and they were then made to listen to unbecoming language.

"Yet the man who brings this unjust, cruel, and infamous suit," M. Clemenceau said with a sneer, "dares to allege that he entertains esteem and admiration for his former wife."

In conclusion, M. Clemenceau gave many instances of the tender motherly solicitude of the Princess, "instancing the fact that she had arranged to receive four telegrams a day about her children when she went to London to be married to the Prince.

When M. Clemenceau had finished it was announced that the case would go over to December 9, when M. Junier will speak for De Sagan, and M. Rousse for George Gould, who, as trustee of the sister's estate, is a party to the suit.

CONTENTIONS OF PRINCESS.

M. Clemenceau then summed up the contentions of the Princess as follows:

The Count had formally declared that he would withdraw the suit unless the Princess separated from her husband. The facts that the Count had offered to prove were irrelevant, and even if they were established they had no bearing upon the disposition of the children.

Furthermore, these allegations were denied by the Princess. The Count was inspired less by solicitude for the welfare of his children than by personal hatred and financial considerations. The Princess, since her marriage to her present husband, has fulfilled in every way her duty toward her children. She had not sought to alienate their affections from their father. On the other hand, the Count had committed the unpardonable fault of bringing out the present scandal to the detriment of the children, he had used language which "humiliated" their tutor, and in letters to them he had called De Sagan a bandit.

CHARGES FORGERY.

M. Clemenceau then denied that De Sagan since his marriage, had in any way interfered with the education of the children. Consequently he asked the court, taking into consideration the Princess's expressed declaration that she never had opposed and would not oppose in the future the exercise of the Count's legal rights over the education of the children, provided only that he did not attempt to poison their minds, to dismiss the suit.

Continuing, M. Clemenceau announced that the Princess formally joined with her husband in the allegations against the Count numbered from four to twenty, inclusive. These deal with De Sagan's claims that the Count, in order to prevent the marriage of Madame Gould with the Prince de Sagan, caused forged letters and documents purporting to have been signed by De Sagan to be sent to Mme. Gould.

These papers consisted of usurer's notes, payable the day the Prince was married to Mme. Gould, and three letters alleged to have been written by De Sagan to his mistress, in which he ridiculed Mme. Gould and spoke in scurrilous terms of her.

The Count claimed these documents had been left anonymously at his residence during the month of September, 1907. De Sagan offered to prove, with the cooperation of his wife, that the Count had arranged through two women, called Mme. G. and Mme. R., to have these documents shown to Mme. Gould at her country residence. De Sagan, while not directly accusing the Count of forgery, offered to prove by experts that these documents were forged, "by the same hand."

SCORES THE COUNT.

Then, taking up the argument again, M. Clemenceau said he did not like to follow his adversary into the realm of flimsy affirmation; he preferred to confine himself to facts that could be established.

Nevertheless, affirmations must be met, notably Mme. Gould's alleged remark that it would have been better if she had not been divorced, but had lived as she pleased though married.

What Mme. Gould actually said, M. Clemenceau declared, was: "I am treated just as if I had a lot of lovers."

Counsel for the Princess contended that the testimony of the chauffeur discharged from the service of De Sagan, and the evidence of private detectives, was utterly unworthy of credence, and he raked the Count fore and aft when he reached the subject of the fashion in which he had dissipated his wife's fortune, spending at the rate of $1,000,000 a year for eleven years.

"So long as this money was forthcoming," M. Clemenceau said, "the Count considered his wife upright and honorable."

MORGAN TAKES NEW PARTNER.

HENRY P. DAVISON TO JOIN FIRM.

President of First National Bank to Associate Himself With Big Financial House of J. P. Morgan and Company on January 1—T. W. Lamont Successor.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 2. — [Exclusive Dispatch.] The first important change in the personnel of the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co., since the admission of George W. Perkins, in 1901, will come on January 1, when Henry P. Davison, vice-president of the First National Bank, will become a partner. He will be succeeded in the First National by Thomas W. Lamont, vice-president of the Bankers' Trust Company.

Mr. Davison took an active part last year in the important clearinghouse conferences resulting in the elimination of the Heinzes, Morse and Thomases; was one of the examiners who passed on the solvency of several of the tottering banks and trust companies, and participated in even the most select of the famous midnight conferences at the Hotel Manhattan and in Mr. Morgan's library.

Mr. Davison was born in Troy, Pa., 41 years ago and after a preparatory school education, went to work as clerk in a small bank there. Subsequently he went to Bridgeport, Ct., as teller of the Peconic Bank. He came to this city as teller of the old Astor Place Bank, and on the organization of the Liberty National Bank, went to it as cashier. In a short time he was made vice-president of the Liberty, and later president.

Six years ago George F. Baker brought Mr. Davison from the Liberty to the First National.

MISTAKEN.

CORRECTS HIS FORMER ERROR.

WHARFAGE RATES LOWER THAN CAPTAIN SAID.

Uncle Sam's Engineer in Charge of This District Issues Formal Statement Revising Recent Utterances Before Women's Club and San Pedro Chamber of Commerce.

Capt. Amos A. Fries, Engineer Corps, U.S.A., who is in charge of this district, has issued a formal statement, in which he corrects certain utterances made recently before the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce, regarding the wharfage rate paid in that port. He says now that he finds the charges lower than he believed them to be when he made the address referred to.

His correction follows:

"In an address before the Friday Morning Club of Los Angeles on November 6, and again before the Women's Club and Chamber of Commerce of San Pedro on November 24, I made certain statements in regard to wharfage charges and railroad rates at San Pedro that are somewhat in error.

"The question of any particular rate is only incidental and of no great importance, while the question as to whether or not the public shall own, and therefore control, its harbor facilities, is fundamental and of vital importance, and that was the question to which I gave my full attention.

"Even if the rates as established by private corporations were as low as they could be made by the public, they would still be subject to increases against which the public would be in no position to make effective protest.

"I am more than glad to be able to state that the wharfage rates are lower than those quoted by me, and only wish I could say my error was twice as great as it was. This does not apply to local freight rates, which were rather too low than otherwise.

"While I am very glad to find that my original statement of rates was in some cases too high, yet, as noted above, the question of any particular rate is only incidental, and if all rates just at present were entirely equitable the necessity for the public ownership and control of the harbor would still exist to insure the continuance of equitable rates and to insure that wharfage and storage room will always be slightly ahead of actual needs in order to attract and hold commerce. This would be true in any case, but is especially so where a single corporation controls nearly the entire harbor, as at San Pedro at present.

LUMBER RATES.

"After personally talking with steamship, wharf and railroad agents, shippers, customhouse officials, and others, I find wharfage, rail, dockage and other rates at San Pedro to be as follows:

"Stevedoring lumber from ship's side to cars is 75 cents per 1000 board feet. Dockage of ship alongside wharves, for vessels of 100 tons or less, $3.50 per day. This increases at approximately $1 per 100 tons up to 1200 tons, after which the rate remains fixed at $14.75 per day.

"The pilotage rate on foreign vessels over 500 tons gross register, when docking in the inner harbor, is $5 for each foot draft and 5 cents per ton gross registered tonnage.

"In comparing wharfage rates at San Pedro with those at San Francisco, which are said to average 58.4 cents per ton, we must add for San Pedro one-third of the San Francisco rates for pilotage, because in the San Francisco rate of 58.4 cents the pilotage is included, and as the foreign commerce of San Francisco equals about one-third of the total, that is the correct fraction to use for San Pedro. The dockage must also be considered, which may vary from 4 to 10 cents per ton, or even more, depending upon the speed with which the vessel is unloaded.

"Taking lumber as an example, which is the one I used in figuring profits, the stevedoring rate of 75 cents per 1000 feet gives about 40 cents profit. Add four sailing vessels 10 cents per 1000 dockage charges."

IN THE BIG INDUSTRIES.

Smelter Made Smokeless.

That the smoke of a smelter can be made inocuous has been demonstrated by a new smelting plant near Salt Lake City. More than 1000 tons of ore and fluxes are being reduced every twenty-four hours without enough perceptible smoke escaping from the smokestack to indicate that fires were burning. The problem thus solved has been a much-studied one, and it has been solved in the bag-house. Other smelters have bag-houses, and also obnoxious smoke. The secret of the reduction of the smoke is said to lie at the point of entry of the smoke into the bag-houses flues where are stationed two great blowers. As these machines force the smoke and fumes through the flues that feed the bags, a secret combination of zinc dust, and other chemical agents, is blown in with them. This chemical compound, comparatively little of which is required, neutralizes the effect of the sulphur and arsenic on the bags and prevents the cloth from rotting, collapsing and permitting the escape of the fumes through the tall stack.

The United States Company started its works on July 16, and, while the plant has been going day and night since that time, not a single bag of the 2200 in the bag-house, has had to be replaced, and that, notwithstanding the fact that twice a day all the accumulated stuff in them is shaken out, wetted down and hauled away to be converted into briquette, to be smelted over again.

Paper Mill at Spokane.

Preparations are under way for the construction of an $850,000 paper manufacturing plant at Spokane by C. H. Pride, president of the Tomahawk Paper and Pulp Company at Tomahawk, Wis. The low cost and almost inexhaustible supply of wood for paper making about Spokane are considered to offer great possibilities for the paper industry, beside which is a big saving in transportation cost, amounting for that section to about $22 a ton.

Growing Use of Steel.

The annually increasing demand for steel for railroad purposes, trucks, cars, ties, etc., are understood, but there are other demands of which less note has been taken. The increasing cost of lumber is causing steel to be used in many places where lumber has heretofore been exclusively used. About 4,000,000,000 board feet of shingles are consumed annually in the United States. Ultimately this use must be supplied by metals in which tinplate must take a prominent place. Lath takes about 1,000,000,000 board feet a year, and will be replaced by sheet steel or wire lath. More than 1,000,000,000 board feet go into cooperage stock, and for much of this use wood will have to yield to steel. These bare figures show the possibilities, but they do not furnish an adequate conception in tons of steel. A rough idea of the possibilities of steel replacing wood may be gained by the following statement: The United States forest service estimates that railroad ties comprise only about 8 per cent. of the total wood used in the United States, yet our estimate just made shows that the replacement of wood by steel in this work will mean between 60,000,000 and 100,000,000 tons of steel. As large buildings are now constructed of steel or steel and concrete, it may be expected that small buildings, even dwelling houses will ultimately fall into line.

Canada Producing Tobacco.

Consul John E. Hamilton of Cornwall, Ont., reports that the increase in the production of tobacco in Canada is extraordinary. The production in the counties of Essex and Kent, in Ontario has risen from 400,000 pounds in 1897 to 7,500,000 pounds in 1906. This tobacco has been recognized as especially suitable for conversion in to plug for chewing and smoking. The production is all being consumed in Canada, and has materially lessened the demand for foreign tobacco. Parliament, as claimed, has made some important changes in the tariff that will operate in extending and enlarging the production of tobacco, not only for home consumption, but for export.

Greatness of the Steel Trust.

Current Wall street estimates place the number of United States Steel Corporation shareholders at 115,000. Something like 40 per cent. of the total number of shareholders are employés. When operating at its full capacity the United States Steel Corporation employs close to 240,000 men. At that rate 20 per cent. of the working force are interested as partners.

Within the next two or three months the directors of the company will agree upon the price at which employés may subscribe to the preferred stock in 1909. The figure probably will not be as low as in previous years unless the company has already succeeded in accumulating stock at cheaper prices. In the early part of the year 25,000 shares of preferred stock were distributed among employés on a basis of $87.50, although subscriptions aggregated nearly 60,000. Since the profit-sharing plan became operative the company has paid out to the employés who held stock between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000 in bonuses.

Lucky Finds.

Some men are said to be so lucky that if they fall in a river they come up with a pocket full of fish. "Something equally as good" has happened to two mine owners of San Bernardino county. A few months ago Tom Cunningham, a colored man who lives near Riggs station on the Tonopah & Tidewater Railroad and who has had the good sense to salt away in a Los Angeles bank $11,000 received for claims, which he had located and opened, undertook to find water in a wash near his house. At a depth of fifty feet a small stream was found. Thinking to get a more bounteous supply of the fluid, he sank five feet more and uncovered a blind lead running 47 per cent. in lead, with good silver values.

Out Bagdad way, on the property of Judge W. A. Fraser, wagon wheels ground down through the sand in the road and exposed to view gold-bearing quarts of excellent value. This property adjoins the Orange Blossom Extension mine. J. A. Hodgman, general manager of the latter, recently brought to this city specimens of the ore from the wagon-road discovery. It is the same character of ore as is being taken from his own mine.

BOLD CRACKSMEN ROB SAFES AT KINGSBURG.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

FRESNO, Dec. 2.—Daring cracksmen, between 2:30 and 3 o'clock this morning, blew open with nitroglycerine the postoffice safe at Kingsburg, and an office safe in the merchandise store of S. Davis. Kingsburg is twenty miles south of Fresno.

From the postoffice safe, $860 in stamps of various denominations and $250 in cash was secured. From the store safe $300 in gold and $125 in small checks was secured.

Entrance in each case was through the rear doors of the establishments. The safe combinations were pried off and the explosive inserted, the robbers then completing the work by filling up the remainder of the hole with soap. The store safe was wrecked several minutes after the other, the store being situated several blocks away from the postoffice. Here the cracksmen evidently became frightened, for they left behind the ma hatchet, a hand ax, a chisel and a bar of soap.

Sheriff Chittenden is investigating the case, but no further clew has been found to the robbers. Kingsburg citizens heard the explosions, but thought they were caused by Southern Pacific trains running over torpedoes.

The force of the explosion wrecked several postoffice boxes and broke windows.

WIDOW HELD FOR DEATH OF ADMIRAL'S NEPHEW.

ROCHESTER (N. Y.) Dec. 1.—As the culmination of the inquest into the death of Harry Sampson, on the Alleyn farm, near Palmyra, Wayne county, on November 1, from the effects of a gunshot wound, Mrs. Georgia Sampson, the widow, was formally charged with his murder and placed under arrest.

Harry Sampson was a nephew of the late Rear-Admiral T. Sampson, who commanded the American fleet in the battle of Santiago. His death created a stir in Wayne county, where he was widely known, and the theory of suicide, which was at first maintained by his friends and neighbors, became discredited when sinister rumors later were circulated. These led to an investigation by the Coroner and District Attorney of Wayne county.

At the inquest Dr. Albert Hamilton, a firearms expert, testified that he had made a thorough examination of the wound which caused Sampson's death, and gave it as his opinion that the dead man could not possibly have fired the shot which caused Sampson's death, and gave it as his opinion that it was not suicide. This was the first direct evidence the authorities had upon which to base a suspicion of foul play.

A LITERARY EXCURSION.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Nov. 11.—"How do authors feel with reference to their own books?" is the question asked recently at a gathering of prominent writers in London. Various answers were forthcoming, and the discussion brought out some interesting facts bearing on the psychology of authorship. The same subject is further elaborated by a well-known French writer, Pierre de Coulevain, who has just published a series of articles dealing with it. Among other things (for Pierre is a woman) she says that Anatole France —whose works, both in England and France are widely appreciated—thinks that authors do not like to read their own books. In a recent interview, France said:

"I have no modern books in my house; not even my own. What a man has built himself—even supposing it to be a palace—he knows so well that he cannot endure the sight of it. I could not bear to have my books in my hands. Why should I look at them?"

On the other hand, many authors delight in poring over their own books again and again. Hazlitt, in a famous essay, compared the after joys of authorship with those of painting. "For a person to read his own works over with delight," he wrote, "he ought first to forget that he ever wrote them." Many authors in these days keep on hand "presentation copies" of their books, which they hand out to friends with much gusto; thereby, perhaps, running the risk of converting friends into enemies. In this connection, an amusing story is told against himself by Anthony Hope. The author sent a set of his books to one of his friends, and, in reply, received an effusive note, ending with the words: "What have I done to deserve this?" a question which certainly might be interpreted in two ways.

Hope recently administered a severe drubbing to the snobbish literary critic, and condemned "bookishness" of every kind. In an address at Liverpool, he drew the distinction between the truly learned book lover and the mere skimmer or skipper." He deprecated the fact that there were many people who pretended to a knowledge of books when they were only acquainted in a vague and superficial way with their contents. "To say you are familiar with a great book," said Anthony Hope, "when you have never read it, is not much better than saying you know a duchess when you do not. In both cases, you know only the title. Let us tell the truth about our little bit of knowledge," he continued, "and of our immense tract of ignorance. Let us not pretend to have read what we have but noted, or to be profound students of what we have merely skimmed. I know it needs a great deal of courage to stand up in a cultivated audience and confess taat we have never read though 'Paradise Lost.' Let us try to be sincere and unaffected on this subject. Let none pose as being more bookish or of a more 'literary turn' than he really is."

These are surely words of wisdom which many may take to heart. It might be said in passing that Anthony Hope's popularity seems to have increased within the last year. There was a time quite recently when the author of "The Prisoner of Zenda" was almost forgotten; but his many admirers will be glad to learn that he is again in the swim. Anthony Hope deserves success, and the story of how he won fame should encourage the literary aspirant of these days when it is recalled that his first book—"A Man of Mark"—was a failure. He brought it out at his own expense, and nearly every one predicted that he would never be heard of in the world of letters. It is said that today Anthony Hope is sure of an income of nearly $16,000 a year, and the royalties from his books are increasing.

A daughter of Thackeray—Lady Ritchie—has recently brought out a book of personal reminiscences under the title of "Blackstick Papers." Lady Ritchie is the great novelist's eldest daughter, and has inherited much of her father's ability. She has been a writer all her life, and has produced fully a dozen good-sized volumes, ranging through fiction, essays, biographies and reminiscences; to say nothing of her famous biographical edition of her father's works. Lady Ritchie is now well advanced in years—it is perhaps characteristic that "Who's Who" does not give the date of her birth—and is a widow and a daughter. Her published photographs bear a marked resemblance to her father; and critics say that her style is a close imitation of his work. It seems strange that living descendants of great writers like Dickens, Thackeray and others should be bringing out books. Their names on the backs of novels certainly call up hosts of vivid recollections.

Another lady novelist of the "early days" whose work is receiving much attention just now is Mrs. Gaskell, author of the widely read "Cranford." Several editions of this famous book have recently been published and the author is achieving a fame which was certainly denied during her life. Mrs. Gaskell's youngest daughter recently died in Manchester. There are two unmarried daughters—Miss Meta and Miss Julia—who live in Manchester at Plymouth Grove, the house in which "Cranford" was written. For many years—during their mother's life—Plymouth Grove was the scene of one of the most brilliant salons in England, where leading lights in all walks of artistic endeavor were wont to gather periodically, and enjoy the society of Mrs. Gaskell and her husband.

Edgar Allan Poe's European fame is greatly on the increase. In addition to the English revival of his works—there being no less than six excellent editions on the market—France has recently paid him the tribute of republishing his poems and short stories. In France, Poe stands easily first as America's greatest writer. Long ago, Victor Hugo said of him, "Poe is the prince of American literature." A recent critic in an English review, speaking of Poe's continental fame, said: "In many a little German, Austrian or Italian bookshop, he stands as the sole representative of the literature of his native land. Considering all this, it seems peculiar that Poe should have been denied a place in his own American Hall of Fame." The writer evidently forgets the Biblical allusion to prophets in their own country.

The London Academy under the new editorship of T. W. H. Crosland—author of the "Unspeakable Scot" and other "rilling" books—distinguishes itself by attacking everything and everybody. It is following the instruction of the Irishman at the political gathering—"If you see a head, hit it." In a single number, in less than four pages, Crosland says "mean things" about the United States, Max Beerboam, Maud Allan, Christabel Pankhurst, Frank Harris, Victor Grayson, M. P., G. B. Shaw, the Poets' Club, G. K. Chesterton and about seven London publications. This is a good start, considering that The Academy is described as a "semi-religious weekly."

Hesketh Prichard, hunter, novelist, and cricketer, is on his way back from another hunting trip in Canada, where he is said to have shot some remarkably fine specimens of big game. He is at work on big-game hunting in Labrador, Newfoundland, Patagonia and the Canadian West.

ON THE WAR GALLEY ASTREA, WITH ARRIUS.

III.

Three years have passed and Ben-Hur, in ignorance of the fate of his mother and sister, is a slave—a rower—on the Roman war galley Astrea, commanded by the Roman tribune Arrius, who has been sent with a fleet to exterminate the Aegean pirates who preyed upon the commerce of Rome with her rich provinces. The cavernous interior of the galley, or trireme, is dimly lighted by ancient lanterns. The slaves at either side, each handling a single great oar, are as white as the cloth wrapped about their half-naked bodies. A big brutal Roman sits on a low platform and beats time for the stroke of the oars. And here these slaves, "caitiffs and cut-throats from all the earth," toil at the creaking oars, Ben-Hur among them.

The tribune Arrius comes in and looks indifferently at the crew. His careless gaze stops at the figure in front and on the left. He notes that Ben-Hur is a man of good blood and asks him of what crime he has been accused. The young prince tells his story, protesting his innocence. "They all say that," replies the tribune. "Go back to your oar—but forward there, unlock Ben-Hur's chains." This he has ordered done because of his friendship for Prince Ithamar, the father of Ben-Hur. When Ben-Hur hears the Roman say that he had been stationed in Jerusalem and had known his father, he pleads with Arrius: "O, noble tribune! Think of me what thou wilt—but if thou knowest aught of my mother and sister, tell me—I beseech thee, tell me!"

The fog which has enveloped the trireme lifts and discloses the piratical enemy. Arrius attacks them, but his own galley is boarded and sunk. In the struggle the tribune is wounded, but his life is saved by Ben-Hur, who takes him in his arms and leaps with him into the sea. Thus the dark picture of human misery is relieved by a dash of generosity and a bit of gratitude. Adrift in the open sea, Ben-Hur, supporting the wounded and helpless Arrius, clings to a fragment of the floating wreck until a Roman trireme comes to the rescue, Arrius in his gratitude adopts Ben-Hur, whom he designs to make a great soldier. To this end Ben-Hur enters the palestrae at Rome and becomes a noted gladiator and charioteer.

BUBBLE BURSTED.

COPPER KING GREENE NOW "DOWN AND OUT."

Vast Fortune Swept Away from Man Long Figure in Southwest Mining Operations—Immense Interests in Other Hands.

COL. W. C. GREENE, one-time multi-millionaire and bright orb in the financial firmament of the Southwest and of the United States, is "down and out." It is conceded by many who are in a position to know, that the once dominant figure in copper and other mining interests, who was recently ill in Los Angeles, is practically eliminated from all properties and companies commonly known as Greene enterprises. One of the close-at-home indications of the straits in which the formerly wealthy man finds himself is the stoppage of work on the magnificent home he started at Redlands.

At the time of the consolidation of the Cananea-Central, the Cananea-Duluth and the Green Consolidated Copper Company, Col. Greene was a heavy stockholder in all the companies entering into the consolidation. Later, however, his interest was contracted until it amounted to practically nothing.

Among the properties turned into the consolidation by the Greene Consolidated was the Sierra Madre Land and Lumber Company. This Greene desired to control, and a deal was made whereby he acquired it, and the Greene-Cananea Copper Company, the holding company, took his notes for $600,000 as part payment. These notes were not paid, and control has passed to the holding company.

Greene's interests were then confined to the south of the mountain, in the Greene Gold-Silver Company, the Sierra Madre Land and Lumber Company and the Rio Grande Sierra and Pacific Railway. He has resigned from the directorate of all the merged companies except the Cananea Central, and also as vice-president of the Greene-Cananea Copper Company.

HOLDINGS HYPOTHECATED.

Thomas F. Cole, while in Mexico recently, stated that Col. Greene was still a heavy stockholder in the various companies controlled by the Greene-Cananea, but his holdings were known to have been hypothecated to the limit at that time, and later the action of his creditors forced him out of all of these companies and ousted him from the later companies he created.

Only a few months ago, with several months' wages and salaries unpaid at the mill and mines, and creditors levying upon everything in sight, the mill operated for the benefit of, and practically by his creditors, Col. Greene was taken ill and left the country, going to Japan.

Then his creditors made a close haul and levied upon his sheep, cattle and everything in which he had any interest, in a wild endeavor to save something from the wreck of his once great fortune.

Col. W. C. Greene,
former Cananea mining king, now eliminated from all the companies in which he figured, and his once great fortune reduced to a wreck.

The companies with which Col. Greene was prominently identified and which are commonly known as Greene enterprizes, but with which he is no longer connected, in addition to the Greene Gold-Silver, the Sierra Madre L. & L., and the Rio Grande, Sierra Madre and Pacific Railway, are the Cananea Consolidated Copper Company, whose stock is controlled by the Greene Consolidated Copper Company, and the San Pedro Copper Company and the Cananea Development Company, the stocks of which are controlled by the Cananea Central Copper Company.

The Greene-Cananea Copper Company, a United States holding company, holds a majority of the stock of both the Cananea Central and Greene Consolidated Copper Companies and controls all of the properties of the combination in the Cananea district.

MANY CORPORATIONS.

Thomas F. Cole of Duluth is president of the Greene Cananea, W. D. Thornton of the Greene Consolidated and L. D. Ricketts president and general manager of the Cananea Consolidated. Ricketts is also general manager of the San Pedro Copper Company and the Cananea Development Company, of which latter two L. W. Powell is president. James Hoatson is president of the Cananea Central.

The San Pedro owns the San Pedro mines, the concentrated plants, smelters, and all the narrow gauge railways belonging to the Cananea Consolidated.

The present organizations were effected and officers elected on February 1, 1906. An election of officers of the Cananea Consolidated will be held next month.

That there was some wild extravagance in connection with the Sierra Madre Land and Lumber Company at Madera, Chihuahua, is beyond doubt. For a good deal of this Col. Greene does not appear to be personally responsible. Other things he sanctioned CLOSER TOUCH WITH HAWAII.

First Big Direct Shipment from Los Angeles Will Leave San Pedro Today.

Hawaii is at last to see the products of Southern California at their best. The first carload of goods ever shipped directly from Los Angeles to the islands will leave tomorrow. Rivers Bros. Co. gathered the cargo, which is consigned to a large produce house of Honolulu. The Los Angeles-Hawaiian Commercial Company will carry the cargo in a steamer from San Pedro harbor. Included in the shipment, valued at $2000, are hot-house cucumbers and tomatoes; oranges, lemons, grapefruit, prunes, figs, apples, pears, walnuts, pecans, almonds and brown Australian onions. Special cases have been built to carry fifty boxes of fine Red Emperor grapes.

Heretofore San Francisco has had a monopoly of the Hawaiian trade. With the entrance of Los Angeles dealers into the field, competition is expected to become keen. Direct shipments to Hawaii through San Pedro mean the saving of heavy rail freights from Los Angeles to San Francisco. Return shipments of pineapples through San Pedro are expected.

TUMBLES FAR DOWN BLUFF.

Man Drops Hundred Feet, Lands in Soft Clay and Is Only Dazed When Pulled Out.

Jim Johnson, a teamster employed by the Puente Oil Company, fell, slid and rolled 100 feet over the embankment at Court Terrace and Broadway, last night, and escaped unhurt. The place from which he tumbled is about sixty feet south of the Court Flight incline road.

A crowd saw him fall, having watched him as he stumbled about on the verge of the bluff. He landed in the mud at its base.

He was so firmly imbedded in the clay that it required the combined efforts of three men to pull him free. The police were notified that a man had been fatally injured, and Johnson was hurried to the Receiving Hospital. He was found to be only dazed, but could not talk for some time.

When he recovered his speech the police surgeon asked him what caused him to fall.

"Because there was no place to catch hold of and stop myself," was the reply. "Do you think I did it for fun? My feet slipped out from under me and the next thing I knew a lot of fellows had me by the arms. They nearly pulled me in two before I came loose. Gee, but that mud was sticky."

Officers who investigated the case stated later that the fact that Johnson fell in the clay saved his life. He appeared to have been drinking.

ANOTHER RESURRECTION.

Thirty years ago some exceedingly rich, silver-lead ore was gouged out of a shaft, known as the Groom mine, located in the Timpahute range, Lincoln county, Nevada, about sixty-five miles northeast of Rhyolite and about equally distant from Pioche and Goldfield. Prominent operators in the latter camp have gained possession of the old Groom and are doing active development. The surface showing at the site of the shaft is said to be very fine, and in a crosscut at a depth of seventy feet, fifteen feet of ore, running 50 per cent. lead, twenty-four ounces in silver and over $1 in gold, has been opened up, according to one of the owners. He is also authority for the statement that a concentrator will be erected on the property soon. Among those interested in the resurrection of the old producer are T. D. Murphy, E. H. Wedekind, L. L. Patrick and the firm of Loftus & Davis, all prominent in Goldfield's rapid rise.

SHIPPING ORE TO WALES.

One of the first shipments of ore which will be made over the Southern Pacific to Guaymas from the Cananea district, Mexico, will be 13,000 tons from the Catalina group, of the Calumet and Sonora, and consigned to Swansea, Wales, where it is worth net $126 per ton.

This is the first of a series of shipments contracted with the Wales smelter, and will be taken to Guaymas and thence by leased boats direct to Wales. Heretofore this ore has not been shipped in quantities, as there was no outlet to markets which did not penalize certain minerals in the ore. Small lots have been shipped to Douglas and El Paso, but the bulk has been stored.

HUSTLING WATER.

AQUEDUCT MAKING GIGANTIC STRIDES.

Plans for the Next Twelve Months to Add Fifty-eight Miles and to Require the Expenditure of Five Million Dollars.

GIGANTIC are the strides of the Los Angeles Aqueduct. By fidelity to the basic preliminaries, which have taken two years to build, the engineers have conquered all strategic points of the great conquest for a water supply for the city, and are driving through the hills and cutting the open conduit at accelerating speed. Though the actual beginnings of the real system are but months old, the abundant and economical progress of a well-disciplined and enthusiastic army of workmen justified William Mulholland, chief engineer, to place a Titanic task before the army, in the plans for the next twelve months, submitted to the Board of Public Works yesterday. He expects to build fifty-eight miles of the great aqueduct in the next year at a cost approximating $5,000,000. He has set his gauge on the most difficult parts of the task. Four years is the limit set for completion of the task.

Two views showing the progress of the Los Angeles Aqueduct. The conduit pictured above is put through, covered and complete, at less cost than the original estimate of the Board of Consulting Engineers, without cover.

Reporting substantial progress in the work on the aqueduct, Chief Engineer Mulholland, in his third annual report to the Board of Public Works, submitted a forecast showing that the work laid out for the year ending November 30, 1909, will add 58 miles of constructed aqueduct and will entail a cost of $4,663,618.

The report was received just after the board had awarded a contract for the construction of the Antelope Valley division to Perry A. Howard at a cost of $529,009, to be completed within two years from date. The annual report comprises 165 typewritten pages, many photographs of the work and machinery, and scores of maps and blue prints to show what has been done. It will be followed this week by reports from Auditor Nelson, showing the financial affairs of the aqueduct, its salary pay roll, material and contract accounts and the like, and a report from Storekeeper Ormsby, showing an inventory of what is now on hand and what has been used in the past year, with its cost. Ormsby's report will show an expenditure of more than a million dollars for materials and machinery during the last year, this large sum including no pay-roll accounts. The board will ask the Council to print the Mulholland report.

SUBSTANTIAL PROGRESS.

In his letter to the board, accompanying the report, Mr. Mulholland thus summarizes the situation to date:

"The annual report herewith submitted by the engineering department of the Los Angeles aqueduct is the first to record substantial progress in the actual construction of the aqueduct. It would be rare to find a case in the annals of important engineering construction where the saying 'Well begun is half done' would apply with greater force.

"The preliminary work necessary to properly enable construction work to begin has been appalling in its magnitude and expense, and must have

CORNERED.

BURGLAR ON JUMP SHOT AT BY A BOY.

CORNERED in a narrow hallway and facing a revolver in the hands of Lowell Entler, 16 years of age, a burglar sought safety by jumping from the second-story window of the Entler home last night.

The youthful hero is the son of N. M. Entler, a real estate dealer, living at No. 1828 South Flower street, who told of the boy's experience soon afterward.

Shortly after 9 o'clock the family, sitting in one of the rooms on the first floor, heard strange noises coming from an upper apartment. Lowell Entler quietly arose and left the room. On the upper landing he came face to face with a strange man.

The burglar had evidently just left one of the sleeping apartments and was in the hall when the boy came upon him. Lowell stood perfectly still while the burglar drew his pocket flash lamp and turned it upon him.

As the intruder turned to walk down the hall, young Entler screamed at the top of his voice. He then rushed to a front apartment, where he secured his father's revolver.

Returning, he met the burglar in the hall. The man's escape was cut off from the lower apartments by the elder Entler, who was hurrying to his son's assistance.

As Lowell leveled the revolver the burglar attempted to draw his own weapon. The gun caught in his pocket, and with an oath he jumped toward the boy.

As he did so Lowell pulled the trigger, the bullet going wide of his mark. Fearing instant death in the narrow hallway, with the boy in pursuit, the burglar made a dash for one of the front rooms.

Lowell, following him, fired a second and then a third shot. At the last report the burglar screamed and put his hand to his shoulder. At the same moment he staggered to the window. By that time the lad was close on his heels. The hallway was filled with smoke from the shooting, and the youth had to grope his way.

The burglar was taking no chances. With a last look at the boy with the gun, he leaped headlong from the window to the ground below.

When members of the family reached the front yard, the form of a man was seen hurrying rapidly south.

Spots on the grass in front of the house indicate that the intruder may have been wounded. The injury must, however, have been superficial, because of the alacrity with which the man made his escape.

To Detectives Hawley and McKenzie, who investigated the case, the members of the Entler family made no mention of the shooting, merely reporting the loss of $15, which the burglar had taken from a small bank in one of the rooms.

Entrance to the house was obtained by climbing over the front porch.

MORE THE MERRIER.

WIDESPREAD RAINS BRING GOOD CHEER.

MUCH more general and widespread, the rain of the past twenty-four hours is welcomed in almost every district of Southern California. Reports from Bakersfield are of a light rain with promises of a heavier fall today, while from San Diego is news of a steady, though light fall, and even in Imperial county, rain is announced as falling. The Thanksgiving eve rain did not reach San Diego and was only felt along the coast line, while this downpour extends into the mountains and dry spots of the earth.

Among all the southern counties, Los Angeles apparently has had the most thorough soaking from this storm. In this city over half an inch of rain had fallen up to 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, according to the official weather man, and from that time it continued steadily up to midnight. But in other parts of Southern California the valleys were not so lucky. In San Bernardino the difference between the rainfall in the valley and the mountains appears more like a freak of nature than the record of a well-behaved storm.

Throughout the county the greatest good has been accomplished. Since the last rain, thousands of acres have been plowed and sowed with grain, mostly barley, and the present downfall means earlier crops and a greater return to the ranchers for their work. Among the citrus fruit growers the rain is also welcome, for at this time it will help greatly to mature the crop for the holidays, especially if the rain is followed by plenty of sunshine and warm weather.

Today the forecast of the Weather Bureau is for cloudy weather and light rains, with a light east wind, which usually means more rain.

At 1 o'clock this morning the total rainfall for the day as measured by The Times gauge, was .30 of an inch, of which .60 of an inch fell before 5 o'clock in the afternoon and .30 of an inch after that time. This makes a total for the season, according to The Times gauge, of 3.54 inches. Last season at this time the record was 1.19.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Opposition is expected at tonight's meeting in the Council chamber to discuss proposed new fire limits and changes in the building ordinance.

Holding that no case was made, Justice Summerfield yesterday dismissed a charge against Fred Dorr and Maurice Vaughn of having embezzled $8000 from W. T. Coatsworth last June.

At the request of W. C. Watkins, Judge Rives dismissed a petition for the appointment of a guardian for David Van Buren Hallam.

A dispute between Attorneys Appel and Horton occurred during the preliminary examination of W. H. Carlson before Justice Selph, on an embezzlement charge.

Eye-witnesses described the shooting of Charles Markham by Fred Markham during the latter's trial for murder in Judge Wilbur's court.

Testimony for the defense was concluded in Department One in Robert Mitchell's trial on a charge of voting twice at the primary election last August.

AT THE CITY HALL.

NEW FIRE LINES STIR OPPONENTS.

CITY OFFICIALS IN FEAR OF HILL DISTRICT.

Want to Have It Restricted so That Frame Structures May not Fill It to Danger Point—Modifications of Building Ordinance—Meeting to Consider Tonight.

Whether the fire limits of Los Angeles shall be extended to include the hill district between First and Temple streets, west of Bunker Hill avenue to Figueroa street, and between Main street and Figueroa, and Pico and Washington streets will be determined tonight at a meeting of all interests at the Council chamber.

The meeting has been called to consider the ordinance, and the changes it also provides in the building ordinance affecting the districts named and others. Opposition is expected to the extensions provided for, especially the south district. Councilman Ciampitt is leading the opposition to the northwestern extension, but his opposition will be met by the support of Building Inspector Backus and Fire Chief Lips, who favor extending the lines over what they regard as dangerous territory.

Mr. Backus said last night that he was indifferent to the south extension, but that if the lines are to be extended at all, the beginning should be made in the northwest hills. This region, if unrestricted, is likely to fill up with inflammable structures and become a grave source of danger. Chief Lips also regards the region as needing fire restrictions.

The proposed modifications of the building ordinance in certain portions of the fire limits is to permit repairs to frame structures not in excess of 20 per cent, and in no case to exceed $1500 based on the valuation of the building.

It is also proposed to permit owners of one-story frame buildings to elevate them and build a first floor of brick class A construction.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

LIFTS CHARGE AGAINST DORR.

ACTION FILED BY COATSWORTH DISMISSED BY COURT.

Allegation of Embezzlement not Proved, Defense Showing That Order for Purchase of Stock for Plaintiff Had Been Sent East. Surprise Sprung by Broker.

As records were produced showing that Fred Dorr had bought 100 shares of Atchison common stock for W. T. Coatsworth last June at 79 7-8, according to Coatsworth's order, Justice Summerfield yesterday dismissed Coatsworth's charge that Dorr and his manager, Maurice Vaughn, had embezzled $8000 of their customer's money.

Coatsworth testified that on June 18 he visited Dorr's office, left a check for $750, and instructed the purchase for his account of 100 shares of Atchison common at 79 7-8. He was notified by Vaughn on June 24 that the stock was bought for him, per order, the day before. Coatsworth called, gave his check for $7250, and ordered that the stock certificate be made out in his name.

He called again July 11, and inquired after the stock. Dorr was in and asked when he bought it. Dorr told Coatsworth the stock had not arrived. Not hearing from him and seeing some time later a bulletin that Dorr was embarrassed, Coatsworth called again. Dorr and Vaughn were not in. This produced a telegram from Vaughn a few days later that everything was all right, and on July 13 Dorr wrote, saying that the certificate had arrived, made out to W. S. Coatsworth, and had been sent back that the mistake in initials might be corrected.

Coatsworth heard nothing more till August 2, and Vaughn then said the certificate had not arrived. He had not seen the certificate, and didn't know what to think. Dorr tried to explain the matter to Coatsworth at a creditor's meeting on November 25, and Coatsworth refused to agree to any compromise of his claim. Again, at an interview last Friday, Dorr tried to get Coatsworth to consent to accept a note by Dorr and his wife for $2500 in part payment of his claim, and he had refused.

Under cross-examination, Coatsworth said he knew Dorr had not bought the stock because he had a letter from Atchison headquarters that no stock had been issued in Coatsworth's name. He said he would not believe any statement Dorr might make, and denied that on last Friday he offered to call off the criminal proceedings if Dorr would pay him his money.

Coatsworth said at first that Dorr offered him $2500 cash on Friday, but then admitted it was a note. He said he believed Dorr has money hidden away, as he has a letter from one of Dorr's relatives to this effect. Dorr had told him he is now living on money advanced by his friends. Coatsworth's checks were then introduced in evidence, and the prosecution rested.

For the defense, John V. Dis, former telegraph operator in Dorr's office, identified his own memorandums showing that on June 11 he telegraphed to Harris, Winthrop & Co., New York brokers, an open order for the purchase of 100 shares of Atchison common for Coatsworth. He also identified a New York telegram of June 13, showing that the stock had been bought for Coatsworth, as ordered.

Carroll Allen, trustee for Dorr, testified that he had examined the New York books of Harris, Winthrop & Co. and had found regular entries of the purchase of the stock credited there to Dorr's account. He also testified that Dorr's local accounts show that, on the dates in question, the stock was bought and credited to Coatsworth, and that no other purchase of Atchison common was made by Dorr about that time. Records and accounts were produced in evidence.

Counsel for Dorr sprang a surprise on Coatsworth, who had asserted that he knew Dorr had never bought the stock, by producing his own sworn statement as a creditor of Dorr, that he did not know whether or not Dorr had bought the stock for him. Coatsworth admitted the claim he has filed as a Dorr creditor, but did not explain his action in filing it on November 21.

MITCHELL'S DEFENSE.

RECALLS ONLY ONE VOTE.

An assertion by Robert Mitchell that at the count of ballots in Precinct No. 27, in the primary election last August, he saw Election Inspector F. W. Partridge pocket some ballots and later make up the tally from them, gave rise to extended examination of witnesses yesterday in Department One, in Mitchell's trial on a felony charge of repeating at the election.

C. P. Mackay and H. R. Conant, called by the defense, testified that, before the final count was made, Partridge placed several ballots in his pocket. After the count, the number of votes did not agree with the tally sheet. Partridge was reminded by bystanders of the votes in his pocket, took them out, and added a sufficient number to make the number of ballots correspond with the names on the tally sheets.

Partridge took the stand, and said that all the ballots he put in his pocket were spoiled ones handed him by election officers. He said he put them in his pocket for safety, and that he did not use any of them to make up the count, as had been said, because the ballots in the boxes corresponded in number with the names on the tally lists. After the count, he took all the spoiled ballots, strung them together, and put them in the proper envelope.

J. J. Mountain testified that he put in the box all votes deposited that morning until 11 o'clock, and said, positively, that Mitchell voted but once during that time. S. M. Reeves and Claud Mathewson testified that Mitchell approached them the afternoon of election day, told them that, by comparing names on the roster, he had discovered he had voted twice, and asked their advice. They said they urged him not to make a statement to the election officials, as he proposed, but to wait until after 6 o'clock, which he did.

Mitchell corroborated this testimony himself, and said that he now thinks he made a mistake in jumping at a conclusion from an examination of the roster. He said he remembers having voted but once that day, about 10:30 o'clock. He said that when he made a demand in the morning for a legally constituted election board, some bystanders yelled to put him out, but he was not molested.

Mitchell concluded his presentation of evidence by calling a number of character witnesses, of whom D. K. Hume was first. Mitchell asked Hume to testify as to knowledge of the defendant's veracity, honesty and good citizenship. Deputy District Attorney J. C. North objected to the technical irregularity of the question. Mitchell said it was correct in form, and asserted that his law book sanctioned the question.

"This book is written by an eminent authority, Your Honor," he said. "Both from the contents of the book and from other sources, I am told that if I will always stick by this book I can never go wrong on questions of law."

"That appears to be a valuable book, Mr. Mitchell," said the court. "I'd like to examine it. But in the meantime, I think you had better adopt Mr. North's suggestion."

As Mitchell was not certain as to the precise form of the question, he asked North to put it for him, which North obligingly did. All Mitchell's witnesses testified to his good character.

Argument will begin this morning.

LAWYER BELLIGERENT.

CARLSON CASE ENLIVENED.

Counsel in W. H. Carlson's examination on a charge of embezzling $4500 of Consolidated Bank funds varied the even tenor of argument on the admissibility of evidence yesterday by what at first promised to be a fist fight in court.

Attorney H. H. Appel, who was cross-examining Raymond E. Jones as to his conversations with Bank Commissioner Sherer and Evan Lewis, receiver of the Consolidated Bank, was making extended remarks which Deputy District Attorney G. Ray Horton asked to have stricken from the record as irrelevant.

"I suppose you'd like to have me stricken out, too, wouldn't you?" Appel inquired.

"Yes," replied Horton.

Then Appel called Horton a "contemptible skunk," a "contemptible rascal," and other names, and started toward him in a threatening manner, while Horton remained in his seat without replying. Messrs. Gage and Foley, of Carlson's counsel, urged Appel to calm himself. Justice Selph also called for order and informed Appel that he would not continue the hearing until the row ended. Finally apologies passed, and argument on the admissibility of evidence was resumed.

The prosecution moved to admit certified copies of the Consolidated Bank account with the Royal Bank of Canada. Argument on this motion lasted more than two hours, and the motion was finally denied. The examination of Jones elicited little that was new.

This morning the court will hear argument on a motion by the defense to continue the hearing to a later date. Jones was subpoenaed yesterday to give testimony for the defense.

NEPHEW SACKS DOWN.

PEACE WITH AGED UNCLE.

After hearing a detailed explanation yesterday afternoon, by counsel for W. C. Watkins, of the reasons that led Watkins to ask the court to dismiss his petition for the appointment of a guardian for his uncle, David Van B. Hallam, Judge Rives expressed himself as satisfied that the aged man's interests are fully protected, and dismissed the petition.

Watkins filed his petition last week and secured an order from the court directing the County Clerk to refuse Hallam a license for his marriage to Mrs. Ola Hicks, pending a decision on the guardianship matter. In his petition Watkins alleged that his aged uncle was mentally incompetent, was possessed of a mania to marry any woman who would have him, though he has been blind and sick for twenty years, and was so dominated by Mrs. Hicks that he proposed to marry her without delay, having already deeded to her his $100,000 estate.

When Hallam heard of his nephew's action he hurried away to Santa Ana and was married there to Mrs. Hicks. He was cited to appear in court yesterday morning, but did not appear, as his nephew's counsel then moved to dismiss the petition.

Judge Rives said that Hallam must appear in court in the afternoon, as it is the especial duty of the court to see that incompetent persons are protected in their rights by the appointment of a guardian.

Obeying the court's order, the aged blind man and his wife appeared in court in the afternoon. Counsel for Watkins asked leave to explain to the court more fully the condition of Hallam's affairs, before beginning the taking of evidence.

A detailed statement was then made of the disposal by Hallam of his property. It appears that, though Hallam deeded all his property to Mrs. Hicks before his marriage, the deeds were all placed in escrow, to be delivered to her only after his death. Further, the property settlement provided explicitly in every way that Hallam shall enjoy the full benefit of his income during his life.

The court expressed the opinion that the property settlement protected the old man's rights, and said he was satisfied with the explanation.

"I was actuated solely by a desire for my uncle's welfare," said Watkins last evening. "I have never asked my uncle for a dollar and never have received a dollar from him. When I lived at his house I even paid his laundry bills. I felt that his condition was such that I must see that his interests and rights are protected. For that reason alone I brought the action, and I think it best for my uncle's happiness that it be now dismissed.

"I was not a San Francisco refugee: I came to this city about two years ago, established myself in the manufacturing business within sixty days, and have never in any way depended on my uncle or looked to him for anything."

KILLED BROTHER.

EVIDENCE OVERWHELMING.

J. W. Mills, a showman, testified positively in the Fred Markham murder trial in Judge Wilbur's court yesterday that Markham fired the shot that killed his brother, Charles, at their blacksmith shop in San Fernando, on September 19.

Mills said that he and Markham had returned to the shop to secure some tools before going that evening to the theater, where Charles Markham, whose face was blacked, was to take part in a show. As they left the shop, Charles remarked to Fred, who was standing out side, "Hello, Spud," to which Fred replied, "Go away, don't talk to me, I've heard that before."

"Almost at once, Fred fired at his brother, who fell in a heap. Fred then said, "You fellows will get what you are looking for if you stay here," and Mills and Allen, another witness, at once ran away.

Joseph H. Hutchings, who appeared after the shooting, testified that Charles Markham said his brother had shot him. Hutchings then turned to Fred and asked, "Did you shoot him?" to which Fred replied, "Yes." The dying man was then carried under shelter, Fred disappeared, and later at night Charles Markham again said his brother had shot him.

Thomas Mills said he saw Fred fire the fatal shot. George Dickerson and S. M. Smith corroborated the testimony. Dr. E. H. Garrett testified as to the result of the autopsy held on Markham's body.

The prosecution will probably conclude its case by noon today.

MINES AND MINING.

Sylvanite Has no Saloons o Gambling.

Dollar a Gallon the Cost o Water Supply.

Legislation Wipes Out Grog. Nature Does Rest.

A mining camp without a saloon o gambling resort! What would some of the old-timers think and say if they were suddenly landed in such a heretofore unheard of spot? Yet that appears to be the condition which prevails in the booming camp of Sylvanite, down in the southwestern corner of New Mexico, according to a reliable informant of The Times, who has just returned from an inspection of this latest scramble for gold. The New Mexico Legislature, at its last session, enacted a stringent anti-gambling law, which is being enforced more or less vigorously. The result is that no "bucking the tiger" is seen, nor is there heard the festive whir of the spinning roulette ball. In addition to this, another New Mexico law provides that no new thirst-quenching emporium may be opened for business for a certain period before and after an election. And water is $1 a gallon!

The New Mexico Legislature had nothing to do with fixing the price of this fluid, but it has to be transported several miles on burros from several small springs which trickle barely enough for cooking and drinking purposes.

Transportation facilities, up to a few days ago, were so inadequate that scarcely sufficient foodstuffs could be gotten into the camp to maintain the constantly-increasing horde of wealth-seekers, so that, in addition to being dry all the time, many of the inhabitants are hungry half the time. At only one place can one be tolerably certain of getting something to eat. This is a restaurant owned by a smart business woman from El Paso, who went in at the outbreak of the excitement with her own horses and wagon. In addition to managing the restaurant, she hauls passengers from the railroad station seventeen miles away and has a cinch on the transportation of her imported edibles.

It is probable that the freight congestion will not be relieved until a branch railroad is built to the camp. Freight is piled up at the station beyond the ability of the vehicles in the sparsely-settled country to move. As long as these can get passengers at $5 each to transport, flour, potatoes, bacon and canned goods will remain at the station.

The population of Sylvanite, while as mixed and varied a conglomeration of humanity as usually enters into a mad rush for gold, is much above the average in the matter of good order and general observance of the laws of the land. The absence of saloons may have a good deal to do with this condition. The owners of the townsite declare it to be their intention to keep them out forever, if it be possible.

Movements of Mining Men.

A. J. Culver, an original investor and director of the Butte Creek Consolidated Dredging Company, which is building a dredge costing $110,000 to work placer ground of about 1000 acres in Butte county, is at the Natick. He states that the big dredge will be completed and work begun about January 1.

Kenneth K. Ash, who has a lease on the Alvord mine, located about twenty-five miles northeast of Daggett, San Bernardino county, is in town, buying supplies and arranging for miners and millmen to start on production. The property is an old one and has produced during the thirty years since discovery, many thousands of dollars. It is equipped with a six-stamp Nissen mill, pumping plant, an abundant water supply, tramway, shops and all necessary buildings. He estimates 200,000 tons of low-grade ore blocked out, which can be sent to the mill by gravity. The equipment has been put in good order and the mill will be started next week. Mr. Ash had the good luck to recover about $400 which had been left on the plates by former operators.

S. A. D. Upton, registering at the Hollenbeck from Tombstone, Ariz., who is heavily interested in rich placer diggings in Honduras, will leave for that country in a few days.

H. S. Newton, a representative of Hart mining interests, is at the Hollenbeck.

B. F. Miller, postmaster at Searchlight, and owner of promising claims in that thriving camp, is at the Hollenbeck for a few days.

H. C. Hart, smelter superintendent of the Shannon Copper Company at Clifton, Ariz., is here on business for his company.

A. B. Stanziger and James Reilly, both interested in mines of the Tombstone district, arrived at the Hollenbeck yesterday.

WHITE MEMORIAL.

Date of Unveiling Set for Friday of Next Week, and Native Sons, With Others, Will Parade.

The afternoon of Friday of next week has been selected for the unveiling of the Stephen M. White memorial on the Courthouse grounds. The ceremony will be preceded by a parade through the business streets, all fraternal, commercial and civic bodies being invited to join. The parade will be under the direction of the five Los Angeles parlors of the Native Sons of the Golden West, of which order the late Senator White was one of the most active members. A joint committee of the Native Sons has been formed, under the chairmanship of Calvert Wilson, and with E. B. Lovie as secretary, to take charge of the parade.

The parade will form at 12:30 o'clock p.m., Friday, at Temple and New High streets. It will proceed east to Spring street, south to Seventh, west to Broadway, and north on Broadway to the Courthouse entrance, where the unveiling of the memorial will take place.

W. T. Calderwood has been selected as grand marshal of the parade, and he will select his aides from the various organizations participating.

Automobiles, carriages and other conveyances will carry the principal officers of the organizations, city and county officials, and speakers and invited guests. It is expected that the drill corps and marching teams of most of the lodges and fraternal bodies of the city will take part, and probably five hundred Native Sons will be in line. It is probable that a half-holiday will be declared in city and county offices.

MINES AND MINING.

Sylvanite Has no Saloons or Gambling.

Dollar a Gallon the Cost of Water Supply.

Legislation Wipes Out Grog, Nature Does Rest.

A mining camp without a saloon or gambling resort! What would some of the old-timers think and say if they were suddenly landed in such a heretofore unheard of spot? Yet that appears to be the condition which prevails in the booming camp of Sylvanite, down in the southwestern corner of New Mexico, according to a reliable informant of The Times, who has just returned from an inspection of this latest scramble for gold. The New Mexico Legislature, at its last session, enacted a stringent anti-gambling law, which is being enforced more or less rigorously. The result is that no "bucking the tiger" is seen, nor is there heard the festive whir of the spinning roulette ball. In addition to this, another New Mexico law provides that no new thirst-quenching emporium may be opened for business for a certain period before and after an election. And water is $1 a gallon!

The New Mexico Legislature had nothing to do with fixing the price of this fluid, but it has to be transported several miles on burros from several small springs which trickle barely enough for cooking and drinking purposes.

Transportation facilities, up to a few days ago, were so inadequate that scarcely sufficient foodstuffs could be gotten into the camp to maintain the constantly-increasing horde of wealth-seekers, so that, in addition to being dry all the time, many of the inhabitants are hungry half the time. At only one place can one be tolerably certain of getting something to eat. This is a restaurant owned by a smart business woman from El Paso, who went in at the outbreak of the excitement with her own horses and wagon. In addition to managing the restaurant, she hauls passengers from the railroad station seventeen miles away and has a cinch on the transportation of her imported edibles.

It is probable that the freight congestion will not be relieved until a branch railroad is built to the camp. Freight is piled up at the station beyond the ability of the vehicles in the sparsely-settled country to move. As long as these can get passengers at $5 each to transport, flour, potatoes, bacon and canned goods will remain at the station.

The population of Sylvanite, while as mixed and varied a conglomeration of humanity as usually enters into a mad rush for gold, is much above the average in the matter of good order and general observance of the laws of the land. The absence of saloons may have a good deal to do with this condition. The owners of the townsite declare it to be their intention to keep them out forever, if it be possible.

Movements of Mining Men.

A. J. Culver, an original investor and director of the Butte Creek Consolidated Dredging Company, which is building a dredge costing $110,000 to work placer ground of about 1000 acres in Butte county, is at the Natick. He states that the big dredge will be completed and work begun about January 1.

Kenneth K. Ash, who has a lease on the Alvord mine, located about twenty-five miles northeast of Daggett, San Bernardino county, is in town, buying supplies and arranging for miners and millmen to start on production. The property is an old one and has produced during the thirty years since discovery, many thousands of dollars. It is equipped with a six-stamp Nissen mill, pumping plant, at an abundant water supply, tramway, shops and all necessary buildings. He estimates 200,000 tons of low-grade ore blocked out, which can be sent to the mill by gravity. The equipment has been put in good order and the mill will be started next week. Mr. Ash had the good luck to recover about $400 which had been left on the plates by former operators.

S. A. D. Upton, registering at the Hollenbeck from Tombstone, Ariz., who is heavily interested in rich placer diggings in Honduras, will leave for that country in a few days.

H. S. Newton, a representative of Hart mining interests, is at the Hollenbeck.

B. F. Miller, postmaster at Searchlight, and owner of promising claims in that thriving camp, is at the Hollenbeck for a few days.

H. C. Hart, smelter superintendent of the Shannon Copper Company at Clifton, Ariz., is here on business for his company.

A. B. Stanliger and James Reilly, both interested in mines of the Tombstone district, arrived at the Hollenbeck yesterday.

WHITE MEMORIAL.

Date of Unveiling Set for Friday of Next Week, and Native Sons, With Others, Will Parade.

The afternoon of Friday of next week has been selected for the unveiling of the Stephen M. White memorial on the Courthouse grounds. The ceremony will be preceded by a parade through the business streets, all fraternal, commercial and civic bodies being invited to join. The parade will be under the direction of the five Los Angeles parlors of the Native Sons of the Golden West, of which order the late Senator White was one of the most active members. A joint committee of the Native Sons has been formed, under the chairmanship of Calvert Wilson, and with E. B. Lovie as secretary, to take charge of the parade.

The parade will form at 12:30 o'clock p.m., Friday, at Temple and New High streets. It will proceed east to Spring street, south to Seventh, west to Broadway, and north on Broadway to the Courthouse entrance, where the unveiling of the memorial will take place.

W. T. Calderwood has been selected as grand marshal of the parade, and he will select his aides from the various organizations participating.

Automobiles, carriages and other conveyances will carry the principal officers of the organizations, city and county officials, and speakers and invited guests. It is expected that the drill corps and marching teams of most of the lodges and fraternal bodies of the city will take part, and probably five hundred Native Sons will be in line. It is probable that a half-holiday will be declared in city and county offices.

HARROWING.

POLICE DASH INTO DOMESTIC TRAGEDY.

Tragedy of the baby and the police whistle.

TEN brave officers of the Los Angeles police force undertook to locate a noise on East First street shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday morning.

A patrolman, passing in the neighborhood of one of the many apartment-houses of the district, heard the shrill blast of a police whistle. He stopped and listened. Again the wild call. Drawing his revolver with one hand and his breath with the other, he dashed toward the spot whence he thought the noise came. It—the noise or anything else—was not there.

The officer sounded the call for reserves. Other patrolmen dashed up on the run, followed by a sergeant. The whistle kept up its appeal.

Frantically the patrolmen rushed from house to house, without result.

Suddenly rang out a piercing scream, then more and more.

Up dark stairways the policemen went, bumping into one another. They crawled through transoms and ran around the block several times. The wails and the police whistle continued.

The noise at last was located in an apartment-house. Up the steps the officers made their way, revolvers drawn.

From a room on the third floor a faint light streamed. The sounds came from within. Someone, evidently an insane man, cried from time to time, "Upsum doody, coochy coochy," immediately thereafter, a wild scream would smite the air, accompanied by a sound like that of furniture breaking.

"Steady men, rush the door and shoot to kill," whispered the sergeant.

Like a flying wedge, the brave officers hit the door, tearing it from its hinges.

A sleepy woman in bed gave a yell of fear and ducked under the covers.

In the center of the room a large bundle of blankets had been deposited upon a chair. From the center of the blanket appeared a tiny, round face set with a dimple in each cheek and a big dimple just under the nose. The dimple beneath the nose would open to a great dimension at intervals and from it emitted wild, piercing screams.

In front of the infant stood a man, hair mussed, and night gown flapping about his bare calves. His eyes shone with the light of insanity.

In his right hand he brandished a poker as if to brain the child; this he brought down frequently with a crash upon a near-by table. In his left hand he held a police whistle which he put to his mouth and blew, dancing the while about the floor like Salome in the wooly dance.

The baby set up a wail when the demonstrations ceased.

The sergeant sprang forward and caught the poker from the man's hand and forced him back against the wall. The baby ceased wailing.

"Shame on you, to strike a chee-ild," roared the officer.

"It's cawlic, the kid's got," ventured an Irish patrolman.

"Well, if you know so durn much about it, sit here and take care of it until I send a relief," said the sergeant, as he sent the distracted parent to bed and ambled out with the reserves.

So the Irish policeman sat down on the chair, placed the infant, face down, across his knees and gently patted its back.

MONEY IN HIS SHOE.

Man With One Short Foot Utilizes the Space to Hold Cash, Causing Police Trouble.

Tom Kelly, a veteran with a deformed foot that does not fill his shoe, hid his money in the cavity when arrested Tuesday, and the wagon officer who overlooked the coin was suspended for one day. He tried the same trick again last night, and the temporary wagon officer would not have found the money had not a jail trusty warned him.

Kelly is a veteran of the Civil War, and was shot in the foot while in action. When it healed the injured member was two inches shorter than it's mate.

Tuesday evening Kelly was arrested for being drunk, and yesterday morning the trusty who cleans up the prisoners before they go to court discovered that he had $15 in his shoe.

After Kelly had paid his fine and had been released he still had plenty of money, so he went out for another spree. When he was arrested last night the hole in the shoe contained only $2.

Editorial Pen Points

When last heard from, both Arizona and New Mexico were all ready with their stars and the pins.

Were you where you could hear the rain dancing on the roof? Then it was the fine music you listened to.

The man who grows things—and he's the man who counts most of all—is out in the open throwing his hat in the air. Reason: The rain.

With the revolutionists in control of pretty near the whole works, the election in Hayti may be said to have ended happily for all concerned.

Contrary entirely to what the Democrats said, Mr. Taft appears to be already doing things without asking the consent of Col. Roosevelt.

Little Pu Yi was crowned yesterday within the Forbidden City, and not far from the tombs of a thousand ancestors. Long live the Emperor!

If Chief Biggy committed suicide, he made a mistake. Lots of men have come to the top after they have been at the bottom, merely by holding on.

Washington is a dull town when Congress is not in session, and sometimes when Congress is in session it isn't what you would call a hilarious place.

As we understand Brother Torrey, it is his conviction that, as far as Los Angeles is concerned, the devil never had much more than a look-in, anyway.

We suppose that this play called "The Great Divide" has reference particularly to what takes place in the box office after the seats have been sold.

Gen. Simon, the leader of the Haytian revolution, being about the color of the ace of spades, he may be said to have made things look dark for old Nord Alexis.

You have only to think that a rainy day, which is good for the country, is not a good day for the races. And there you have the whole thing in a nutshell.

It is, perhaps, just as well that Uncle Joe Cannon does not put into print the exact words in which he would describe the people who have tried in vain to down him.

We suppose that when the death roll of this bloody revolution in Hayti is made up it will be found that there were as many as sixteen or seventeen men killed.

Nothing short of appalling is the list of fatalities that has followed in the wake of the graft exposures in San Francisco. "The trail of the serpent is over it all."

Evidently the devil did not entirely abandon his conviction of the utility of the idea when he failed to tempt St. Anthony with that celebrated bevy of good-looking women.

Without attempting to take sides, one way or another, we still venture to hazard the opinion that Nord Alexis will find a place waiting for him in the Down-and-out Club.

The French judge who says he "loved Mme. Steinheil profoundly but not unlawfully" must be queer in his mind. When love becomes unlawful there is another name for it.

Lieut. Wymans tells us that there is much gold in Dutch Guiana, but it is hard to secure, owing to obstacles. From this we should judge that Dutch Guiana is not unlike this country.

Judging from the number of people who made a regular habit of falling in love with Mme. Steinheil, we cannot escape the conclusion that she was a ripping good-looker, to say the least.

It is almost too good to believe that the population of this part of the country has attained a degree of wisdom such as to make the season at "Lucky" Baldwin's sucker factory unprofitable.

There seems now, at last, to be a thorough agreement on the existence of a future life. But we shall doubtless continue to quarrel as to which particular denomination will have the reserved seats.

The country's debt of gratitude to Speaker Cannon lies in the fact that he has consistently and persistently prevented some 300 members of various Congresses from talking whenever they pleased.

As he sits this morning on the throne of the Dragon, our best wishes are with Pu Yi, the baby Emperor. Here's hoping that the skin of a gooseberry will make an umbrella for all his enemies.

Apparently Mr. Rockefeller does not claim great credit for having amassed the largest private fortune in the world. According to his version, he merely started the thing and it wouldn't stop.

From all the information we have been able to glean on the subject, we get the impression that the man who has never been kicked by an ostrich has every reason in the world to consider himself fortunate.

This week's dispatches state that the thermometer in Butte, Mont., registered 13 degrees below zero. When it is no colder than that in Butte the inhabitants usually go about in straw hats and linen dusters.

THE GREAT QUESTION.

The remarkable religious revival which has stirred Los Angeles during the past few weeks is but illustrative of a more widespread revival which has swept the entire nation. Those who habituate themselves to keep track of the news of the country at large will tell you that everywhere between the two oceans, and from north to south, the people of America have been undergoing a positive awakening in regard to things spiritual.

Not the least of the victories which revealed religion has achieved is the surrender of science to the belief that there is a future life. Persons whose faith told them, in a manner perfectly satisfactory to themselves, that there is a life beyond the grave, still had the fiat of the scientists to the contrary to contend against. Not but that there has not always been eminent scientists who believed in a Supreme Power and the existence of another world than this; but that the majority of these admittedly learned persons pooh-poohed the idea.

Persons of dull imaginations, or perverted minds, have been quick to point out that the learned men who make a science a study vetoed the idea of a future existence and even of a Supreme Power. And all this made the progress of the believer harder than anything else. One man like Darwin or Tyndall has done more to make cynics in religion than a hundred such men as Newman and Phillips Brooks, Calvin and John Wesley have done to create believers.

But in our own day, when Lord Kelvin came out in the most unqualified way to express his full belief, not only in God, but also in a future state, the small fry in the scientific world were quick to change their former convictions. They then admitted that the wonderful world in which we live, this earth, the moon, the stars and the vast universe beneath and above us was the work of a Supreme Power, of a living God, who still guides that universe with unerring hands. From that acknowledgment to a belief in a future life for mortal man was an easy step, and it has now been taken unequivocally.

This being the case, the great question with man must, therefore, be how best to prepare himself to account to his Creator for his soul; how to make straight the pathway that leads beyond the stars. Compared to this question, all others are trivial; they are, indeed, infinitesimal. It is a profound subject for contemplation. It is a question bound to overshadow every other.

OIL MEN SHOULD ORGANIZE.

Southern California oil men should think long and well before rejecting the plan of organization urged by their brethren of the San Joaquin Valley. The arguments urged against it appear to be without much weight.

The fact that there are various kinds of oil, viz., road, fuel and refining products, is no reason whatever for rejecting organization. An agency can sell two kinds of oil just as well as one. The Union Oil Company sells crude for all three purposes, and makes and sells all by-products and asphalt besides. It sells them to everybody and over a good part of the world. So does the Associated. Why cannot the independents do the same on a much smaller scale? If one contract cannot be made to cover all grades, why cannot an agency make two, three or four? It can certainly do it just as easily as an individual. Perhaps a little different machinery for details may be necessary, but that is too simple a problem to stop men who are capable of conducting any kind of business intelligently.

There are those who wish to make the proposed organization an information bureau only. Undoubtedly information is needed; but if these gentlemen had the information which they seek, they would hardly hesitate about getting together quickly. For that matter, the oil columns of The Times have given much of what they ask for. The State organization to be formed next week will serve as an information bureau in connection with its other purposes. The agencies of Bakersfield and Coalinga run information bureaus in addition to their other work, and that is by no means the least of their functions. Moreover, while supplying information is a good thing and necessary, it will not in itself solve the problem. Each operator will still be at sword's points with his neighbor if that is all that is done.

The idea that an agency like that of Bakersfield or Coalinga should be in danger of being called a "trust" and held legally liable is without force. Since their organization the Associated, Standard and Union companies have had their attorneys look into this point, and there is good information to the effect that these lawyers pronounced the organizations impregnable. It certainly looks unreasonable to say that producers cannot lease their property to whom they please and get permission from the lessees to operate, as at Bakersfield, or sell their product to an organization composed of their own members, as well as to the Associated, Union or Standard, without becoming liable to the law. The Associated can buy oil from any individual at any price satisfactory to the two parties, or one can force the other to take or pay and then sell to the consumer. Surely if it can do this it can buy from an agency, an intermediary occupying the same position as a broker.

The proposal to have prices fixed by a committee is unworthy of the least consideration. Fail it must and would. In the first place, it has been tried in other lines and failed. It seems more like a trust plan than do the others. Some would unquestionably cut rates; those who lived up to their agreement would suffer; agreements could not be enforced; and hard feelings, dissensions and charges of bad faith unquestionably would result and the whole scheme end in a fizzle.

Today Southern California is producing more oil than the local market demands. Of that there is no question. If you doubt it, consult the records of the customhouse and learn what the Union and Associated are shipping from San Pedro and Redondo. Common sense tells us that these corporations do not ship their product until local demands are filled. We know, too, that consumers are supplied. Figures also show that production south of the Tehachepi has increased a million and three-quarters over last year.

There is a big outside market, but the small operator alone cannot reach it unaided. As far as he is concerned it might as well not exist. At San Francisco, Sacramento, Portland or Seattle or in Arizona this outside trade is as far from him as if it were in Europe or Australia. Organized, he will have a chance; singly there will be none very soon.

Again, production in this end of the State is increasing. The outlook promises a faster growth of production than of local consumption. The Amalgamated is pushing production every day. It wants this oil for the outside trade. Most of it is likely to go North or abroad and to sell at a good figure, but the small men can only achieve this end by combining. The small man has a hard time when it comes to selling to consumers as far away as San Diego. If necessary, an agency can sell to the consumer as well as to the big companies, make its terms on a good basis, reach out for trade, build pipe lines, if necessary, and charter ships.

While we are on this subject of organization, why should not the existing agencies, the new locals and the proposed State association take up the question of a protective tariff on California asphalt? Extension of the oil market is, without doubt, the best and most desirable way of raising and maintaining prices. In fact, it is the only way to accomplish permanent good. Without it there will be no chance of success. The existing agencies could have done very little but for the way the big companies have extended the market all over the Pacific Coast, into the Orient and Spanish America.

A tariff on crude asphalt, excluding the Trinidad product, would mean that every street in the United States hereafter to be paved, would be paved with California asphalt. Think of the tens of thousands of tons needed and the enormous market to be created thereby for our crude petroleum. In itself this would do much toward sustaining prices. Every oil man is interested just as much as are the refiners, and they should see that the question is properly presented at Washington, not leaving it entirely to the Union Oil Company and a few individuals. The refiners are unorganized, unfortunately, but their interests are identical with the producers.

A State organization should be able to do more in the way of extending the market, of getting such helps as the asphalt tariff than the local organizations can do. It would have no business with the field sales or contracts, thereby having more time for other matters, and would, moreover, be in better touch with the whole situation.

A DISCREDITED FAD.

Direct legislation is a fast disappearing fad. The foolish wave has reached its greatest height and the tide is ebbing. California has "gone slow" on this and may now be guided by the experience of "faster" States. Let us not fail to learn our lesson.

The State Legislature will be in session next month, and those people who never learn will be noisily in evidence with a clamorous demand that the members of that body shut their eyes to the handwriting on the wall and commit the State to a policy from which experimenting States would now gladly be delivered.

The Legislature will be told they must pass a direct primary law similar to that which is making so much trouble in Oregon, which has so conspicuously failed in Missouri, and which, in our opinion, will be declared unconstitutional whenever it is brought before the Supreme Court of the United States.

We would ask the careful attention of every Assemblyman and State Senator in California to this matter. Think of these things, you who are charged with making laws for the State, and who will take an oath to be faithful to your trust before you take your seat.

(1.) Pay no attention to any clamor for a direct primary. Follow your own judgment and let your conscience be your guide. Let no noisy "reformer" impress you with the notion that you must pass any law to set up a primary election at which all officials must be nominated. The people of this State have given you no such mandate. They have merely clothed you with authority to pass any primary election law you see fit to enact, or none at all, as your judgment may guide you.

(2.) Consider what the action of the United States Supreme Court will be. Do not commit your State to the foolish programme of passing laws which cannot stand. Study the case in the clearest light you have.

You know they have such a law in the State of Oregon. You probably have heard of Hon. George H. Williams of Portland, once United States Senator from Oregon, Attorney-General in President Grant's Cabinet, a High-Joint Commissioner from the United States at the conference at Geneva, where the Alabama claims against Great Britain were adjusted. If you know this distinguished statesman, his career and reputation, you will pay some attention to his opinion. He has stated his views at great length on the Oregon primary election law, and holds that whenever a case goes before the Federal courts in which the Federal government is interested the decision will be that the Oregon law is unconstitutional. Judge Williams is only one among many mature, able, learned statesmen who have made a study of constitutional law, who look at this subject in this way. We know of no statesmen of high repute as constitutional lawyers who hold differently.

(3.) Look at this matter from the practical point of view, disregarding theories. Take the most important application of this primary election notion, the election of United States Senators. The selecting of members of the Senate by popular vote is indisputably an innovation. It is contrary to our practice for a century. This fact imposes on you the duty of careful consideration. So revolutionary a step should never be taken unless the necessity is obvious, and the result beyond controversy. At the outset you should have earnest regard for the Constitution of the United States. This fundamental law provides that legislative bodies such as yours shall choose United States Senators. Will you abdicate, declare your own incompetency, either by lack of intelligence or of honesty to perform your duties? Remember the Senate is sole judge of the qualifications of its members. That body is under no obligation to any person, from the noisy faddist in Milpitas or Garvanza to the President of the United States, to make any statement as to why a citizen sent to Washington from any State to take a seat in the Senate is denied that right. A vote is cast by the Senate itself declaring the person not qualified, and there the matter ends. If a man's physiognomy fails to impress favorably the Senate, he may be refused a seat if so the Senate decrees. With the opinion so generally held by constitutional lawyers of high reputation that direct primary election of Senators is unconstitutional, such a candidate for the toga, obnoxious to the majority of the Senate, is likely to be denied his seat.

(4.) Take Missouri as an object lesson. The Times has never regarded Gov. Folk as a very great or very strong man. Those who clamor for the direct primary look upon him as an exceptionally great statesman and strong citizen. His enemies would generally set him above Senator Stone. The proponents of the direct primary set this election machinery in motion for the purpose of sending Folk to the Senate and retiring Stone from public life. The new fad has worked out in an exactly opposite way. There never was a more conspicuous example of failure. When the votes were counted it turned out that Folk carried a large majority of the Assembly and Senatorial districts, and if the Legislature were not tied up by the primary election they would elect Folk Senator. But taking the total vote cast, "Gumshoe Bill" Stone has a snug majority. St. Louis and Kansas City, where the corruptible vote is found in large numbers, completely overturned the will of the plain farmer folk in the country and small towns.

In Oregon the case is worse. There a State with a great Republican majority in the popular vote and a great Republican majority in the Legislature is almost compelled to send a Senator to Washington to misrepresent the people, and who will vote against what they think is for their best interests. The Democrat who is booked to be sent to misrepresent Oregon is not great in any way. He has not one trait of character superior to any one of several Republicans who would rightly represent Oregon if the Legislature were not restrained by this foolish law.

(5.) Where lies the necessity of your abject surrender of your rights under the Constitution of the United States? Have Legislatures so often proved lacking in ability or in principle to choose United State Senators? How do the Senators chosen by legislative bodies like your own compare with Governors chosen by direct vote? Look at the history of the State of New York. Its people have elected great men to the gubernatorial office. Among them were John Jay, DeWitt Clinton, Martin Van Buren, William L. Marcy, William H. Seward, Hamilton Fish, Horatio Seymour, Samuel J. Tilden, Grover Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt, Charles E. Hughes. New York Legislatures have elected indifferent men to the United States Senate at times. But of the great, Governors of New York, a dozen were elected Senators by the Legislatures. Among the Senators were great men who were not Governors, such as Dix, Conkling, Evarts. If the Legislature elected Platt Senator, the people elected Odell Governor. For every improper selection for the Senate made by the Legislatures, you find two made by the people to the office of Governor.

In our own State the same is true. The people have elected poor Governors, and some good ones; the Legislatures have elected Senators of conspicuously high qualifications, and some poor ones. And so it goes.

MORAL MIASMA.

Biggy is the latest, and, in a way, the most conspicuous example of San Francisco's moral miasma. He was one of the mainstays of the bogus reformation which has been so noisily at work for months. When old Jerry Dinan could not be trusted to hold fast to Abe Ruef, Biggy was picked as one surely trustworthy. He was praised in the most fulsome terms by all engaged in the graft prosecution. See his end, and how it came.

An ex-convict is among the talesmen drawn to try Ruef, and takes his seat on the jury. Then comes a blare of trumpets, the roll of drums, and all stand at attention while Heney flashes in the face of this degenerate a picture of himself in prison garb. The wretch's record of a score of years before becomes known to all his associates; his business is destroyed; his acquaintances shun him; his children are jeered on the public streets and at school. Moody, desperate, he shuns the very sunlight, and then, apparently with mind unhinged, he makes an attack on the life of the man who brought all this new disgrace on him. The would-be assassin is apprehended and jailed. In some way he secures a derringer and kills himself in his cell.

Some one was negligent in the performance of duty. The responsibility cannot be fixed. Anywhere else, suspicion would not spread to the whole community. Men of good repute would not find their names on the lips of dozens of persons as the one possibly derelict in duty. But this did not take place elsewhere. It was in San Francisco. There no one trusts another. The prosecutors who had picked Biggy as the trustworthy, faithful man, at once guess at the perfidy of this associate, of that associate. Now at last Biggy's name is whispered about in suspicion. Wounded, grieved, he contemplates resignation, and finally disappears, with many circumstances that suggest suicide.

But wait a few days and listen to what will come next. Probably the man who ran the launch from which the Chief of Police disappeared will be charged with pushing Biggy into the bay. One cannot guess what will be done.

Ministers of religion have been charged with perjury in connection with these graft trials. Names in dozens have been bedaubed—names of persons who are, up to this moment, as far as the public knows, innocent of any connection with the gang of evildoers.

The violence of expression that marks this crusade, the bitter invective with which "suspects" are assailed, the abandon with which suspicion attaches to this person and that, the wildness of assertion, the utter absence of all charity, of all confidence, is frightful to contemplate.

Meantime, nearly a score of the most depraved villains that ever looted a city and disgraced a community walk the streets free, with head in air, and the lash of justice has not fallen on one guilty back.

LEAVES FAMILY IN SAD PLIGHT.

MINER ABANDONS THEM IN HIS HASTE TO STAKE CLAIM.

Compassionate Prospectors Save Woman and Three Children. Squabble Between San Bernardino Doctors Leads to Arrest and Quick Release of One.

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 2.—A pathetic case of desertion was made public today on the arrival from the Argus mountain country of George and Joseph Johnson. They tell of finding Mrs. James Bennett and three children from a pitiful condition of poverty, to which they had been reduced because Bennett, in his excitement to reach the scene of the new gold strike, left them at the south end of the mountain that he might hasten on alone.

The family was discovered early Friday morning. The miners were pressing through a heavy snowstorm, on their way to the railroad station eighty-seven miles away, when they came upon the woman. She was hatless, her hair flying over her shoulders, blown about by a high and piercing wind, and seemingly she was mindless of the biting cold in her efforts to secure wood with which to keep a fire going that her children might be saved from the freezing weather.

She stated that she had been most of the night gathering wood, but could find but little which she could break. Her children were provided scantily with comforts, and were found shivering and crying beneath the emigrant wagon. The miners got busy and soon had a big pile of wood cut, by the time family, and when they left they had given away the better part of their provisions and blankets.

DOCTORS DISAGREE.

On complaint of City Health Officer Hurley, a warrant was issued this afternoon for the arrest of Dr. H. M. Andrews, charging misdemeanor in failing to report four births he attended during the last three months. The case was dismissed on Dr. Andrews explaining his position, and proving he had made his reports regularly to the State Board of Health. He said he was willing in the future to address them through the mails to the "City Health Officer." He asserted that Dr. Hurley "has it in for him" and other local physicians, the bad blood leading to two personal encounters, at one of which Dr. Andrews warned Dr. Hurley to desist from mixing with another doctor, and said: "I'll throw you into the gutter if you don't!"

Take strained relationship, Dr. Andrews explained, had led him to avoid all manner of connection with Dr. Hurley.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] What will unquestionably be the biggest log raft ever set afloat will be towed from the Columbia River to San Diego next summer. The raft will be a cigar-shaped bundle of big Oregon fir sticks and will be 1000 feet long by 60 feet wide, with the top rising about ten feet out of the water. It will contain about 7,000,000 feet of lumber.

The cradle for building the raft is now being laid by the S. Benson Logging Company at Clatskanie, below Portland on the Columbia River. As soon as completed it will be towed to the mouth of the river and moored, awaiting calm weather of the summer season, when it will be brought down the coast by an ocean-going tug. The journey here will probably consume two weeks if all goes well.

The logs are to be cut up in the Benson mill here, the capacity of which is about 20,000,000 feet a year. Last summer five rafts were brought

FIGHT OVER CHILDREN.

Mrs. Lena Sefton Wakefield, a wealthy member of one of the oldest and best-known families of San Diego, is under strict orders not to take her two minor children outside the city limits. The order was issued by Judge Lewis of the Superior Court upon petition of Franklin W. Wakefield, Mrs. Wakefield's husband, and father of the children.

Divorce suit is pending and the husband, as plaintiff, in his petition recites that since the separation the wife has refused to allow him to visit or commune with the children. He fears she will spirit them away to relatives in some other State; hence his request that they be not allowed to be removed from the city. Mrs. Wakefield is a daughter of the late J. W. Sefton, pioneer banker and property owner.

Dorr ordered a yacht built by the Jensen Boat Building Company of this city. Trouble arose over payment and Jensen brought suit. Dorr's attorney asked for a change of venue on the ground that the defendant was a resident of Los Angeles and that the hearing should take place there.

The application was heard and granted by Judge Conklin. Jensen appealed.

INJUNCTION DENIED.

Suit Brought Against Mayor of Santa Barbara Dismissed by Los Angeles Judge.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Judge Conrey of Los Angeles today rendered a decision in the injunction suit brought by Caesar E. Latiallade against Mayor Boeseke and others to enjoin them from certifying to the amendments to the city charter carried at last December's municipal election. The injunction is denied and the decision declares that the holidays, declared by the Governor in the fall of 1907, did not invalidate the municipal election. He held that the Governor had no power to declare holidays that would disenfranchise the people.

A variance of the city charter with the constitution of the State figured prominently. The former requires a three-fifths' majority to carry amendments and the latter provides for a plain majority. Judge Conrey held that the State constitution rules over the city charter.

The seven amendments thus cleared from doubt are: The power of the city to acquire, control and maintain public wharves; the right of the city to condemn wharf property; the selection of Councilmen-at-large instead of from different wards; establishing a board of public works; the initiative, referendum and recall.

Besides settling the dispute over the passage and legality of the amendments, Judge Conrey's decision establishes a precedent as to which controls—the State constitution or the city charter.

Judge Conrey heard this case, as Judge Crow was disqualified from sitting because he holds property here.

POLICE CHIEF DIES OF WOUND.

RIVERSIDE OFFICER VICTIM OF QUEER ACCIDENT.

While Throwing Water Out of Pan, Revolver Falls to Ground, Is Discharged and Bullet Pierces Left Lung, Causing Death Six Hours Later from Internal Hemorrhage.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RIVERSIDE, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Capt. W. B. Johnson, Chief of Police, accidentally shot himself through the left lung at noon today, and died at 6 o'clock p.m.

He was alone at his home on West Seventh street when the accident occurred. The 41-caliber revolver which he was carrying slipped from its holster as he was in the act of throwing water out of a pan in the back yard, and discharged as it fell to the ground. The bullet entered near the third rib, piercing the left lung and coming out in the back near the right shoulder. A large artery was severed and, though every effort was made to save his life, he passed away at the City Hospital a few hours later, from internal hemorrhage.

Capt. Johnson held the position of chief of police since the city government was organized under the new charter, two years ago. He served through the Civil War in Co. G, Seventh Iowa Infantry and Co. D, Thirty-ninth Iowa Infantry, and had a distinguished record. For four years he was Sheriff of Riverside county, and established a reputation for fearlessness. He leaves a widow, two sons and two daughters.

COLORADO CATTLE STARVING.

Hay Selling at Prohibitive Prices and Snow and Cold Killing Stock.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

DENVER, Dec. 2.—Thousands of cattle on the ranges in Colorado are reported to be starving, with the prospect that there will be an unprecedented loss to the cattlemen during the winter, which opened early, and has caught the majority of stockmen unprepared.

Feed is selling at almost prohibitive prices in the range districts, hay now bringing $25 to $30 a ton in the Arkansas Valley and Park Range districts.

In the Park Range district the first snow, which fell early in October, still covers the ranges, and hundreds of cattle perished in the first storm. This number was increased to thousands in the storm of the past few days, and the stockmen are desperate. These cattle cannot be shipped, because they are in poor condition, and are not beef cattle.

Other persons have reported the same conditions from all over the southeastern and western quarters of the State.

The temperature fell below zero last night generally east of the Continental Divide, and caused great suffering among the badly nourished range herds.

BRIDGE TO CARRY WATER.

New York Unable to Find Way to Get Peekskill Supply Under the Hudson River.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Unable to find solid rock bottom through which to carry a conduit under the Hudson River north of the city near Peekskill, New York, it may be necessary for New York to erect a $10,000,000 suspension bridge in order to perfect the new Catskill water supply system now under construction. Such a bridge would have a span of from 1200 to 1400 feet with a maximum height of 150 feet. Although if built it would be used primarily to carry the giant conduit, arrangements will also be made for traffic facilities. A tentative report on the proposed structure has already been submitted to the board of water supply.

HERMIT'S LIFE ENDS IN ABANDONED MINE.

BARSTOW, Dec 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The body of William Bentley, aged, 87 years, was found early this morning fifty feet back in an abandoned mine on the desert about two miles from town. The remains were in a badly decomposed condition and the old man had probably been dead several days before the discovery of his corpse by hunters.

Bentley was a "forty-niner," and a pioneer prospector in this district. About a year ago he drifted away from his former associates and took up his abode in the tunnel of the mine known as the Wong Kee. The mine, as well as the man, had a history of tragedy. In it fortunes were lost in the golden days. It was this mine that was "salted" and Wong Kee, a rich Chinaman, was induced to buy it for a fabulous sum. When Kee found he had been defrauded, he committed suicide.

The worthless hole has for some time, been known as "the Chink mine." Some time back Bentley suddenly quit his friends, sold his holdings hereabouts and stated that all he wished in life was to be let alone. He seldom talked to any one. He was said to have gathered quite a fortune but only 5 cents in cash was found on the body. Men will start tomorrow to dig in the mine in quest of his supposed hidden treasure.

Many stories are connected with Bentley's life, but he never could be induced to talk about them. No papers were found on the body, but it is said Bentley came from the East and that he had influential connections there.

Bentley had stored in the mine about three week's provisions, two guns, bedding and a photograph of a woman. A tale is told that unrequited love was the original cause of Bentley becoming a hermit.

THE OIL INDUSTRY.

NORTH IS FOR ORGANIZATION.

Good Attendance from North at Bakersfield.

Organizer of Kern Agency Will Be There.

Producers to Get Together for Protection.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—The proposed meeting of the independent oil producers of California at Bakersfield, the second Wednesday in December, for the purpose of effecting a State organization, along the lines of the Kern county agency, is receiving warm approval here from the independents. Every serious producer favors organization as the one important thing necessary to make sure of the future.

Commenting on the meeting and its object, W. D. Young, who initiated the move which resulted in the organization of the Independent Oil Producers' Agency, of Kern county, in the fall of 1904, said:

"I'll be there to lend my enthusiasm and suggestions, if needed. Others will be there, too, from here. I have found no objections here among the oil men to the meeting, and its object. Get together now is the watchword all along the line. Ever since August 23, 1904, when I started out on my own account to hustle up the meeting of oil men, which inaugurated the movement that brought about the successful launching of the Independent Oil Producers' Agency, of Kern county, I have been hoping, and talking and doing all I could to encourage an organization which would include all the independent producers of the State.

"Notwithstanding the brilliant success of the Kern county agency, there will be, no doubt, some who will hang back to see if the State organization will prove a success, and a few who will not come in at all, as was the case at the organization of the Kern county producers. Such people are found in all like movements. The first will have to bide their time and the latter, well, they are to be pitied. If you don't think so, go into the Kern River field and watch them delivering large, cheap contracts to the big concerns alongside their neighbors, agency members, who are raking in 50 cents and better for every barrel of their product. The law of payment in kind obtains with them.

"With a thorough and proper organization of the independent producers of all the fields of the State, the present prosperous condition of the oil business is assured, in so far as natural conditions will permit. Otherwise, beware. The big concerns are hustling and mightily maneuvering for places. They will be ready at the first opportunity to apportion the spoils. There is no use to fight. Peace is the thing in business. But there is use in being ready to fight when fighting becomes absolutely necessary and then the fighting should be mostly done by tact and strategy.

"The oil market never looked better. The demand is steadily increasing and widening. There is need for every barrel being produced once more, particularly is it the case with refining oil. But while this is so, it is well to be careful with productions. This can only be through organization.

"If the big concerns oppose the organization of the independents, it will make no difference."

LACK OF STATISTICS.

EASTERN STATES HAVE FEW.

To a Californian in touch with the oil and mining industry of his State, accustomed to the annual publications of the State's statistics by the State Mining Bureau, it can not fail to be a source of wonder to note the utter lack of attention given these subjects by the authorities of so many Eastern States that are vitally concerned in the welfare of the petroleum industry. An effort recently made to obtain data on the probable output of the oil-producing States outside of California from official sources has revealed a surprising state of affairs.

Indiana produces several million barrels a year, but not one of its officials appears to have an iota of information regarding the amount and no statistics are gathered or published, either on this point or as to its uses. The best information obtainable is that some is being used successfully on the roads.

West Virginia is one of the leading producers of the East. All of its officials are not yet heard from, but those who have been, say the State has no record whatever.

Kentucky and Tennessee, the former an important producer of light refining oil for years, have absolutely no records of the industry. In a general way, the Tennessee mine inspector says, the business is about dead in that commonwealth, on account of low prices.

Kansas and Colorado officials have not been fully heard from, but correspondence so far indicates a total lack of information on the subject. Ohio, Pennsylvania, Oklahoma, Texas and Louisiana have not replied at all as yet. Wyoming says the oil industry is practically dead so far as commercial results are concerned.

In some of these States the Standard pipe lines are made public and printed in such journals as the Derrick of Oil City, Pa., and these form the only basis upon which to estimate output.

Drilling Near Beverly.

The Beverly Oil Company, drilling to the northwest of Beverly, was down 1715 feet on Tuesday with eight-inch casing. No oil has yet been obtained, but the drill is in shale and there is a strong gas pressure. The officers of this company are E. P. Bryan, president; W. R. Wheat, secretary. They are very much encouraged.

The Consolidated Petroleum Company, southwest of this hole and west of the Country Club's land, is at a depth of a little over 1800 feet. On Saturday the casing became stuck and this has delayed work since. The drill is still in the hard shell encountered after passing through the last sand found. Progress has been slow for some time.

NURSE TEMPORARILY INSANE.

Miss Jessie P. Fraser, a nurse, living at the Hotel Nugent, No. 257 South Grand avenue, became temporarily insane yesterday and appealed to a patrolman to protect her from men who she thought were about to kill her. Miss Fraser was removed to the Receiving Hospital and detained. Later relatives removed the young woman to a private institution.

Only Discordant Note Is Claim by Opposition Papers That Emigration Question Unsettled.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

TOKIO, Dec. 2.—Following the publication of the official text of the notes which were exchanged Tuesday by the Japanese and American governments, the newspapers generally applaud their contents, but considerable criticism is made, especially by the opposition organs.

These opposition papers claim the question of emigration and naturalization should have been settled by the exchange of notes. This view is voiced by the Asahi, which is an independent paper, but the Kokumin, the government organ, states that if this understanding is superfluous then all of the other ententes are likewise superfluous.

The general tone of comment is highly gratifying, but the opposition organs are using the occasion to attack the government on the ground that what is called the conclusion of the note gives Japan no advantage. On the other hand, the most responsible papers most enthusiastically applaud the agreement as a great diplomatic step.

Cresolene Is a Boon to Asthmatics.

Does it not seem more effective to breathe in a remedy for diseases of the breathing organs than to take the remedy into the stomach?

Cresolene cures because the air, rendered strongly antiseptic, is carried over the diseased surfaces with every breath, giving prolonged and constant treatment. It is invaluable to mothers with small children.

For Infantile Croup there is nothing better than Cresolene Antiseptic Throat Tablets.

BUYING BY BULLS FEATURE OF PIT.

WHEAT PRICES STRONG ALL DAY DESPITE LIBERAL SALES.

Efforts to Advance Quotations Given Impetus by Report of Low Condition of Fall-sown Crop—Corn and Oats Weak and Provisions Quiet.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Renewed buying by leading bulls was again the feature of the wheat pit, and demand from this source held the market strong all day despite liberal realizing sales, which at times caused slight recessions in prices. Rumors were current on the floor of the exchange that several bull leaders are endeavoring to engineer what promises, it was said, to be one of the most spectacular "deals" ever known in the history of the local board. Efforts to advance prices were given impetus today by the report of a local crop expert which claimed that the condition of the fall-sown crop of wheat in this country December 1 is the lowest ever recorded, being 73.9 against 96.8 a year ago. The report further stated the condition was low everywhere except on the Pacific Coast and that in the States east of the Mississippi River the condition is poor. Decreased receipts in the northwest also helped prices upward. The market opened firm, with prices 1⅜ lower to 1-4 higher, December being at 1.04 1-4 to 1.05 3-4, and May at 1.09 3-4 to 1.09 7-8. During the day prices advanced 4¢ to 5¢ most of the gain was lost in sensational realizing, to close, however, was strong, with December at 1.05⅛; May at 1.10@1.10 1-4, and July at 1.05 1-4 @1.05 3-4. Corn was weak. The market opened at the lowest point of the day, with prices off 1-4 to 7-8, final quotations on December being 61, and on May 62 3-4. Oats were weak, closing at 46 3-8@46⅜ for December, and 51 1-4 for May. Provisions were quiet. The market closed easy, with prices 2½@7½ lower.

Cash quotations were as follows: Flour was firm; No. 2 spring wheat, 1.07@1.09; No. 3, 1.04@1.06; No. 2 red, 1.04½@1.06; No. 2 corn, 61@61½; No. 2 yellow, 61@61½; No. 3 oats, 47; No. 2 white, 48½@50; No. 2 rye, 1½; good feeding barley, 34; fair to choice malting, 39@61; No. 1 flaxseed, 1.04; No. 1 northwestern, 1.05; prime timothy seed, 3.85; clover, contract grades, 9.40; short ribs, sides (loose,) 8.12½@8.55; mess pork, per bbl., 14.00@14.20; lard, per 100 lbs., 9.27½; short clear sides (boxed,) 8.75@9.00.

New York Cotton Market.

[By Private Wire to E. F. Hutton & Co., Bankers and Brokers, Members New York Stock Exchange, No. 111 West Third street.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The bear crowd worked hard to get prices down, but their action was well absorbed by leading Wall street bulls. A local statistician was out with a report intimating the total crop at 12,500,000 bales, but trade took it with congratulation. Exports continue on a large scale. We repeat that we think cotton is the cheapest thing on the market now and advise purchase on every soft spot.

Hill, of Logan & Bryan, says: "Liverpool was a trifle better than expected. If the professionals are really underbought, to-morrow the market they should go after Liverpool as well as New York. Yesterday's rumors of preliminary figures for the census report reached the extreme high figures of 11,200,000 bales, which was accepted by a great many people who bet others to the changing. There is no reason to expect a staggering record from the government in their report of December 1, such proportions as these unless, of course, the views of the world are all awry. The figures will probably be in the neighborhood of 10,000,000 bales. If the public are letting professionally mould its opinion rather than have one of its own, it leaves the market with very little buying power whose professionals choose to raid it. The most important factor in governing prices is the ever-increasing demand which goes on undisturbed. Cotton is cheap.

"After an early decline of about 35c to six points, aggressive buying of some volume developed which carried prices upward ten points, from the low point reached, or about five to six points above yesterday's close.

"The census report, which will be issued at 2 p.m. next Tuesday, will show the cotton ginned to December 1, and the professional operators in New York have ideas that it will show about 11,000,000 to 11,500,000 baled ginned to that date. In my opinion, this report will show something like 10,700,000 bales, which, when taken into consideration by the Agricultural Department, which issues their quantitative annual report crop estimated on the following day, December 3, at noon, Washington time, will tend to lessen such ideas. With conditions as they now exist they should be on a strong financial basis, and if so are assured that similar conditions obtain through the entire milling district of the country. We still feel that prices will show higher values if not sensational advance."

Boston Copper Market.

By private wire to E. F. Hutton & Co., bankers and brokers. Members New York Stock Exchange. No. 111 West Third street.]

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—The market began to look a little tired about noon and in the late dealings prices ran off easily, the local coppers were only slightly affected, however, and closed well. Copper King was in good demand around 2. Buying of Shannon was noticeable today, one house taking 1500 and another buying 800, with the sellers very much scattered. Phelps says: "I expect Shannon to be a feature on the next upward movement. Remember this is a traders' market and should be bought in small quantities." Following were the closing quotations today:

RAINS BRING CHEER.

At an early hour this morning word was received from Santa Barbara that the rainfall there was particularly heavy, with the record for the storm 1.75 inches.

WELCOME PATTER.

NORTH HOPES FOR WETTING.

STORM PROMISED FOR TODAY IS NEEDED.

Santa Clara Valley and West Side of San Joaquin Have Had Little Rain and Moisture Is Badly Needed. Advance Shower at Fresno and Sacramento.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The storm has not been heavy, either around here or in the big valleys, but it is expected that tomorrow the storm will be general.

In the last twenty-four hours Fresno had .36 of an inch, Sacramento .06 and San Francisco and San Jose only .05 of an inch.

The Weather Bureau predicts rain for all Northern California tomorrow.

The Santa Clara Valley is still suffering for rain, and only dry plowing is possible, and the west side of the San Joaquin has had very little rain.

The southern counties have had twice as much rain as Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys this season.

Channel Gale and Rain.

SANTA BARBARA, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] All Santa Barbara county received a generous drenching today and tonight. Preceded by a thirty-mile gale last night and this morning, rain started about 11 o'clock and fell at intervals all the afternoon. At 4:30 o'clock a fall of .60 of an inch was recorded. It then fell heavier and constantly and at 6 o'clock more than an inch had fallen. Precipitation for the season, not including this storm, was 5.30 inches. This county usually gets most rain between January and March.

The rain of a week ago softened the land so farmers could plow and much of this work is already done. Planting will go in a month earlier than usual. The rain came in the nick of time for ranchers whose stock was beginning to suffer for want of feed on the ranges.

A high gale today, made things lively on the water front, where the usually smooth channel was whipped into fury. Several small boats came ashore, but were drawn out not badly damaged. Several fishermen caught out by the gale had narrow escapes. The remainder of the San Pedro fishing fleet took refuge from the storm and are safe. Indications here are for a protracted storm.

Good for Perris.

RIVERSIDE, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A light rain, scarcely more than a mist, fell in Riverside today, amounting to .06 of an inch up to 10 o'clock tonight. In the outside sections of the county, where the need of rain was greater, the precipitation was much heavier. In Perris the fall was about half an inch. The storm began there about noon and rain has fallen steadily throughout the afternoon and evening. This will be of great benefit to the grain crop as a large acreage has been seeded and the need of rain would have soon become serious. Farmers in the grain-growing districts of the county state that the rain is worth thousands of dollars toward larger crops.

Drizzle in San Diego.

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Since the middle of the afternoon rain has been falling over the entire South Coast extending, so far as reports have been received, down into the Mexican country. The precipitation is not heavy, being more in the nature of a drizzle. Back in the mountains the rain is no heavier than along the coast. On account of the light precipitation no measurements had been taken up to 9 o'clock tonight. Ranchers in the back country called up tonight to say the rain is welcome, as it was badly needed, especially for the purpose of preparing the ground for plowing. Indications are that the rain will continue throughout the night with prospects for a much heavier fall by morning. It is reported that rain is also falling in the Imperial country.

Rain Is Welcome.

PASADENA, Dec. 2.—Rain which began falling here shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday morning, came in showers at daylight, and this entire section, including the near-by mountains, received a much-needed soaking. No damage was done and fruit growers living here, who have interests elsewhere, are much encouraged. The total rainfall for the season here, as registered by Observer Sorver, is 3.40 inches. No rain fell here between 6 and 11 o'clock last night.

In Valley and Mountains.

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 2.—A generous precipitation among the mountains, yet only .19 of an inch in the valley, is the best that the rain man could give this region, and is the record for the present storm up to 11 o'clock tonight, at which hour prospects for continued rain seem good. Along the mountains the rain commenced shortly after 6 o'clock Tuesday night, reaching generous proportions by midnight, and continuing at intervals during today. Squirrel Inn reports 1.05; Pine Crest, 1.06; Oak Glen, 1.20.

Throughout the valley the rain was uniform, San Bernardino reporting .19; Colton, .18; Redlands, .20; Highland, .22; Rialto, .19. The moisture comes opportunely, following a week of intensely cold nights, which have scorched tender vegetation, high north winds adding to the trouble by drying out the soil. With more rain citrus fruits will yellow rapidly and be in excellent condition for the holiday market.

Light at Santa Ana.

SANTA ANA, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Heavy clouds have been hanging overhead for twenty-four hours, but as yet, for this storm, less than .05 of an inch of rain has fallen here. Better showers fell in the foothills. While a rain would cause the orange packing-houses to lay off, it would do much good.

Elsinore Rain Light.

ELSINORE, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The rain began falling last night, and though the precipitation was light and intermittent, it continues.

Monrovia Is Wet.

MONROVIA, Dec. 2.—At 8 o'clock tonight the rain totals .92 of an inch and it is still coming down hard. This makes the total for the season 5.15 inches. At Storr's ranch 1.5 inches has fallen today, making a total of 6 inches there for the season. The water in the cañon is just beginning to rise.

Long Beach Dripping.

LONG BEACH, Dec. 2.—Rain fell steadily from 7 o'clock until noon, at which time the gauge registered .22 of an inch, a total for the season of 4.82 inches, a record equaled only in 1896 and 1905. Last year at this date the rainfall was 1.13 inches. Old ocean was rough all day and boatmen predicted a southeaster tonight. All launches have gone to the inner harbor for safety.

Gets a Share.

UPLAND, Dec. 2.—A gentle rain has fallen here, throughout almost the entire day, and it will prove of vast benefit, this section having had but little of the precipitation which visited the Southland several days ago.

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 2.—Rain began to fall at an early hour this morning, and continued at intervals throughout the day. The precipitation at sundown amounted to .40 of an inch, which brings the season's total here to 2.75 inches, which is above the normal record.

Rain and Snow.

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 2.—A light rain fell in Bakersfield and vicinity today and the indications promise more tonight and tomorrow. Snow fell in the mountain regions.

Modesto Expectant.

MODESTO, Dec. 2.—Fourteen hundredths of an inch of rain fell in Modesto this afternoon, and a cloudy sky threatens further rain tonight.

TWO DIE OF LEPROSY.

Widow of Aged Veteran Falls Victim to Disease in the Receiving Hospital.

Mrs. Isabella C. Wardwell, widow of the late Gen. David Wardwell, a veteran of the Mexican, Civil and innumerable Indian wars, died at the County Hospital, yesterday morning after having suffered for several years with leprosy.

Three hours after her death, Trinidad Ortega, afflicted with the same terrible malady, failed to respond to a call from a physician and an investigation showed that he also had died during the morning.

Mrs. Wardwell's story was a most pathetic one. An outcast from society because of the disease from which she suffered, and in constant fear of detection and isolation, the woman went from one place to another, always with the haunting terror of arrest and detention before her.

To have been separated from her husband would have been worse than the death she knew would soon relieve her of her misery.

Mrs. Wardwell was arrested, June 22 by a patrolman and sent to the Receiving Hospital for examination on an insanity charge. She was immediately sent to the County Hospital and placed in an isolated ward. Her husband who had been an inmate of the Soldiers' Home, watched his chance, spirited the woman from the hospital and boarded an east-bound train of the Southern Pacific road. Two weeks later they were found in a small tent, several miles from Tombstone, Ariz. The woman was sent back to the County Hospital while the old general, deprived of his wife, died of a broken heart.

Ortega was arrested on November 20, three hours after his arrival in Los Angeles, from Mexico. He was sent to the County Hospital. His death had been expected for some time. There is one other leprosy patient at the hospital and he is kept in the isolated ward.

MUSIC AND THE STAGE.

The Maud Powell Trio, composed of Maud Powell, violin; May Mukle, 'cello, and Anne Ford, pianist, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday.

Last evening Miss Powell and Miss Rosa Verne, concert pianist, both of whom are great favorites in Southern California, were guests of the Gamut Club at dinner. Besides the two honor guests, the entire Verne party and Miss May Mukle and Miss Anne Ford and other well-known musicians visiting in this city were also present.

This evening the Powell Trio opens a season in Santa Barbara for the Study Club; on Friday evening they furnish the programme for the second event of the Philharmonic course in Simpson Auditorium.

Saturday noon Miss Verne and the members of the Powell Trio will be guests at a luncheon of the Dominent Club, composed of lady musicians, and at night Miss Powell will be guest of honor at the annual dinner of the Celtic Club of Southern California.

Next Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, Frank N. Bowers will deliver a lecture before the Chauvenet Conservatory of Music, No. 845 South Figueroa street, his subject being "The Italian School of the Eighteenth Century and the Beginning of Opera." These lectures on musical history and pedagogy, which are given semi-monthly, are very interesting and instructive, and are open to the public. Previous to the lecture on Saturday afternoon, a pupils' recital will be given by the preparatory department.

Percy Hartman will have the Gamut Club at the Grand in a body Wednesday night. President C. F. In the auditorium of the Los Angeles High School yesterday afternoon, 900 enthusiastic, music-loving young people accorded an ovation to Charles F. Edson, who presented the second of a series of popular concerts in the course.

Mr. Edson sang eleven numbers, his rich baritone voice, interpreting themes widely different as the poles, and what was especially appreciated by the students was the fact that every word was heard, and caught the message of his song, and rendered it in enthusiastic appreciation.

"I gave them of my best," declared the artist, gratified with the appreciation of his audience. He even sang to them that musical test of Homer's, "To the words of Joaquin Miller's "To Asia." The greatest appreciation was accorded that lilting lay "Sweet Adeline," and the "Indifferent Mariner," which was given with dramatic realism. "The Road to Mandelay," was another favorite, and Mozart's "Don Giovanni," "Rest I've None by Night nor Day." Mr. Edson was accompanied by Mrs. M. Hennion Robinson.

VALUABLE MANUSCRIPT.

History of Early Mission Days in Lower California by Scotch Priest Is Discovered.

The public library has stumbled upon another big bonanza in California history, a vital chronicle of the mission days, which has been unknown and unobtainable. This is the "Historia de las Misiones Jesuitas en la Antigua Baja" ("History of the Jesuit Missions in Lower California") from their establishment in 1697, to 1768, by William Gordon, a Scotch-Irish missionary, who has given a most important account of this region's pioneering.

The "Historia" is a well-preserved manuscript of 329 pages of his original diary, and is owned by Edward Ayer of Chicago, who has given it to Librarian Lummis to be placed in this library. Bancroft knows nothing about this remarkable manuscript, which is far more important than most of those upon which he does depend, and has but a bare mention of the name of this extraordinary character.

Gordon was a missionary at the mission of Nuestra Señora del Pilar (Lower California) by 1734 and the stirring events of the following years, character of the Indians, the principles of the missionaries, and in fact a history of the whole earlier life and customs of that region, are given with the simplicity of manner and singleness of purpose which, as Quaritch says, "remind one of De Foe's masterly narrative."

The unedited copy of this priceless work will be made at once for the public library, and probably later an English translation.

HERE FROM ANCIENT CENTER.

Chief Manufacturer of Styria Looking Over Great American Industries and Conducting Researches.

Richard F. Bohler of Bohler Brothers, large manufacturers of tool steel in Styria, Austria, is at the Westminster. He has conducted researches at Columbia College, where he wrote several works on scientific subjects, and is making a tour of the mining regions of the United States and Canada, studying conditions from a scientific standpoint. While in the East, Mr. Bohler visited the great steel plants in Pittsburgh and Chicago, and he now will go to Mexico for an inspection of the mines of the Monterey Iron and Steel Company, considered one of the most modern in existence.

Mr. Bohler states that while he hails from Styria, one of the oldest steel centers of the world, which furnished the ancient Romans with large quantities of steel, that is a very modern manufacturing center at present, and America could find a few good points in the industry there. "They are using machinery which is but little known or used in America today," said he, "in the electric-driven rolling mills. There is only one of these mills in the United States. All the plants are modern, with electric smelting furnaces which are not used commercially in this country. One or two are used experimentally. There they use the escape gas from the blast furnaces to drive motors. This, as far as I know, is not done in this country, where they use it only as fuel under the boilers.

"America is far ahead of any nation when it comes to production in quantities and in variety of labor-saving devices in use," he continued, "but they save a larger percentage of everything, I think, in the old world."

From here Mr. Bohler will go to the mining fields of Nevada and Arizona, where he will make some investigations; then to Mexico, where he will pass some time. The material gathered on the trip he expects to use in his works to be published later.

FOR COMING EXPOSITION.

F. B. Davison of oPrtland, Or., who has taken active part in seven national expositions, arrived in the city yesterday to confer with Frank Wiggins, State Commissioner to the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition. Mr. Davison stated that the California building is completed and is practically ready for the installation of lights, furniture and exhibits not of a perishable nature. "It is one of the handsomest on the grounds," he said, "and is more than double the size of the Oregon and Washington buildings combined. I am sure that all citizens of this State will be proud of their structure." Mr. Davison represents Commissioners Wiggins and Filcher, and will be in personal charge of the building until their arrival.

Warner's Rust-Proof
Lacing in Front

Style 270 is an extreme high bust and long skirt lace-front model for the tall shapely stout form.

This model has the advantage of clasping as well as lacing at the front and the garment can be drawn to slope the form, reducing it from the usual corset size about two inches. The bones do not extend the full length of the skirt, the material being full three inches below the boning, which is important in the comfortable fitting of the skirt.

Attached are the famous Security Rubber Button Hose Supporters, the metal parts of which are as Rust-Proof as the boning of the corset, which is guaranteed not to rust, break or punch through the fabric.

MUSIC AND THE STAGE.

The Maud Powell Trio, composed of Maud Powell, violin; May Mukle, 'cello, and Anne Ford, pianist, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday.

Last evening Miss Powell and Miss Marie Verne, concert pianist, both of whom are great favorites in Southern California, were guests of the Gamut Club at dinner. Besides the two honor guests, the entire Verne party and Miss May Mukle and Miss Anne Ford and other well-known musicians visiting in this city were also present.

This evening the Powell Trio opens a season in Santa Barbara for the Musical Study Club; on Friday evening they furnish the programme for the second event of the Philharmonic course in Simpson Auditorium.

Tuesday noon Miss Verne and the members of the Powell Trio will be guests of honor at luncheon of the Dominent Club, composed of lady musicians, and at night Miss Powell will be guest of honor at the annual dinner of the Celtic Club of Southern California.

Next Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, Prof. N. Bowers will deliver a lecture at the Chauvenet Conservatory of Music, No. 845 South Figueroa street, the subject being "The Italian School of the Sixteenth Century and the Beginnings of Opera." These lectures on musical history and pedagogy, which are given semi-monthly, are very interesting and instructive, and are open to the public. Previous to the lecture on Saturday afternoon, a pupils' recital will be given by the preparatory department.

Harris Hartman will have the Gamut Club at the Grand in a body Wednesday night. President C. F. Edson has arranged for the attendance of the members with their ladies, and seats will be reserved for them in a body. Mr. Hartman has agreed to do something out of the ordinary for the benefit of the club on Caristmas eve, and the organization will show its appreciation in advance by its attendance Wednesday night.

On New Year's eve, Montgomery Council No. 473, Young Men's Institute, will give a dramatic entertainment and dance in County Hall, corner Broadway avenue and Daly street, East Los Angeles. Montgomery Council has given many entertainments in the past, and by excellence of their programmes has endeared itself known to the people of this city. It is said this affair they promise to outdo all their former achievements. The committee in charge of the affair consists of William J. Hanlon, Thomas P. Kane and Urban Baune.

Prof. G. Bollo has been engaged as instructor of fencing and calisthenics at the Hobart Bosworth Institute of Dramatic Arts, which will open its doors in the Majestic Theater building in a few days. Prof. Bollo has studied and taught the use of the foil in Paris, Vienna and Berlin, under such masters as Bine, Hartel and Kress, and was attached to the school of Chapon in Paris. He has held the championships of fencing and saber.

The unique feature in connection with the appearance of Rose Stahl in "The Chorus Lady" at the Mason next week is that although this comedy by James Forbes has been running two entire seasons and has started another, only three or two changes have been made in the cast since the date of the original production. This is so unusual as to be almost unheard-of in theatrical history.

The auditorium of the Los Angeles Theater was filled yesterday afternoon, 906 artistic, music-loving young people accorded an ovation to Charles F. Edson, who presented the second of a series of popular concerts in the course.

In the long eleven numbers, his rich baritone voice, interpreting themes widely separated as the poles, and what was especially appreciated by the students was the fact that every word was heard, and caught the message of his song, and reflected it in enthusiastic applause.

"I gave them of my best," declared Mr. Edson, gratified with the appreciation of his audience. He even sang to them that musical test of Homer's, the words of Joaquin Miller's "To Italy." The greatest appreciation was accorded that lilting lay "Sweet Adeline," and the "Indifferent Marines," which was given with dramatic realism. "The Road to Mandelay," was another favorite, and Mozart's "Don Giovanni," "Rest I've None by Night Nor Day," Mr. Edson was accompanied by Mrs. M. Hennion Robinson.

VALUABLE MANUSCRIPT.

History of Early Mission Days in Lower California by Scotch Priest Is Discovered.

The public library has stumbled upon another big bonanza in California history, a vital chronicle of the early days, which has been unknown and inaccessible. This is the "Historia de las Misiones Jesuitas en la Baja" ("History of the Jesuit Missions in Lower California") from the establishment in 1697, to 1768, by William Gordon, a Scotch missionary, who has given a most important account of this region's pioneering.

The "Historia" is a well-preserved manuscript of 329 pages of his original diary, and is owned by Edward E. Ayer of Chicago, who has loaned it to Librarian Lummis to be placed in this library. Bancroft knows nothing about this remarkable manuscript, which is far more important than most of those upon which he has based, and has but a bare mention of the name of this extraordinary character.

Gordon was a missionary at the mission of Nuestra Señora del Pilar (Lower California) by 1734, and the early events of the following years, the character of the Indians, the principles of the missionaries, and in short a history of the whole earlier life and customs of that region, are given with the simplicity of manner and singleness of purpose which, as Quaritch General remarked one of De Foe's magnificent narratives."

A bound copy of this priceless manuscript will be made at once for the public library, and probably later an English translation.

STEEL FROM ANCIENT CENTER.

Manufacturer of Styria Looking Over Great American Industries and Conducting Researches.

Alfred F. Bohler of Bohler Brothers, manufacturers of tool steel from Styria, Austria, is at the Westminster. He has conducted researches at Columbia College, where he worked on scientific subjects, and is making a tour of the mining districts of the United States and Canada, studying conditions from a scientific standpoint.

"Here in the East, Mr. Bohler visited the great steel plants in Pittsburg and Chicago, and he now will go to Mexico for an inspection of the mines of the Monterey Iron and Steel Company, considered one of the most important in existence.

Mr. Bohler states that while he hails from Styria, one of the oldest steel centers of the world, which furnished the ancient Romans with large quantities of steel, that is a very modern manufacturing center at present, and that America could find a few good points in the industry there. "They are using machinery which is but little known or used in America today," said he, "in the electric-driven rolling mills. There is only one of these mills in the United States. All the plants are modern, with electric smelting furnaces which are not used commercially in this country. One or two are used experimentally. There they use the escape gas from the blast furnaces to drive motors. This, as far as I know, is not done in this country, where they use it only as fuel under the boilers.

"America is far ahead of any nation when it comes to production in quantities and in variety of labor-saving devices in use," he continued, "but they save a larger percentage of everything, I think, in the old world."

From here Mr. Bohler will go to the mining fields of Nevada and Arizona, where he will make some investigations; then to Mexico, where he will pass some time. The material gathered on the trip he expects to use in his works to be published later.

FOR COMING EXPOSITION.

F. B. Davison of oPrtland, Or., who has taken active part in seven national expositions, arrived in the city yesterday to confer with Frank Wiggins, State Commissioner to the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition. Mr. Davison stated that the California building is completed and is practically ready for the installation of lights, furniture and exhibits not of a perishable nature. "It is one of the handsomest on the grounds," he said, "and is more than double the size of the Oregon and Washington buildings combined. I am sure that all citizens of this State will be proud of their structure." Mr. Davison represents Commissioners Wiggins and Filcher, and will be in personal charge of the building until their arrival.

IT GETS MORE MEMBERS.

Warner's Rust-Proof
Lacing in Front

Style 270 is an extreme high bust and long skirt lace-front model for the tall shapely stout form.

This model has the advantage of clasping as well as lacing at the front and the garment can be drawn to slope the form, reducing it from the usual corset size about two inches. The bones do not extend the full length of the skirt, the material being full three inches below the boning, which is important in the comfortable fitting of the skirt.

Attached are the famous Security Rubber Button Hose Supporters, the metal parts of which are as Rust-Proof as the boning of the corset, which is guaranteed not to rust, break or punch through the fabric.

Style 270, Coutille, Price $3.50

EVENTS IN LOCAL SOCIETY.

Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Mooers, who were married last evening.

COL. SPALDING has been entertaining as house guests a number of attractive young people from this city and Pasadena, on his large sugar plantation in Hawaii. The young folks will return the early part of next month, and immediately preparations for the wedding of Miss Elna Behr, one of the guests, and Rufus P. Spalding, son of the host, will begin. It is evident that an unexpected guest accompanied the party on the merry voyage. His arrows were flying thick and fast. This engagement, which will interest many friends, is formally announced by the parents of the bride-to-be, Dr. and Mrs. Arno Behr of Pasadena. Other guests who enjoyed the visit to the plantation were Mrs. R. J. Senni, daughter of Col. Spalding, and Morgan Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Harvey Adams of No. 3007 South Flower street.

Unconfirmed Society Rumor.

The rumor in high society circles, squares and triangles, that the Lord and Lady Lansdowne had arrived in the city incog and were seen shopping on Broadway last Tuesday, had not been confirmed up to the hour of going to press.

Invitations Out.

Mrs. Mary E. Purcell and Mrs. Edward Clarence Magauran have issued invitations for a reception to be given at their home, No. 853 South Alvarado street, Friday afternoon from 3 until 5 o'clock.

Cheery Tea.

Mrs. Hugh W. Harrison entertained a large number of guests yesterday afternoon at her home, No. 1210 West Twenty-seventh street, with a tea. The home was bright with Christmas berries and potted plants. The hostess was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Willard J. Doran, Mrs. E. A. Featherstone, Mrs. William Johnstone, Mrs. C. C. Carpenter, Miss Clara Carpenter, Mrs. Mott Porter, Mrs. E. P. Clark, Mrs. John Bigelow, Mrs. Melville K. Eshman, Mrs. Richard V. Day, Mrs. Charles McFarland, Mrs. John McFarland, Mrs. William Horace Day, Mrs. Henderson Hayward, Mrs. Randall Hutchinson, Mrs. Erasmus Wilson, Mrs. Thomas O'Reiley, Mrs. Godfrey Stamm, Mrs. Charles Rivers Drake, Mrs. John Kingsley Macomber, Jr., Mrs. Richard Bronson and Mrs. H. M. Bishop.

Interesting Wedding.

Miss Jane Josephine Golden, daughter of Mrs. Martin Joseph Golden, of No. 647 West Twenty-eighth street, was married last evening at the home of her mother, to Kimball Carter Mooers of Richmond, Va. Miss Golden, who is a young woman of unusual beauty, was attired in an empire gown of white satin messaline and Duchesse lace. With this she carried a shower of lilies of the valley and bride roses. Miss Mary Cunningham, a cousin, in a gown of pink messaline, assisted as maid of honor, and the two maids were Miss Winifred Golden and Miss Rose Cunningham, who were attired in pale blue messaline and corn-colored messaline, made empire with arm bouquets of long-stemmed chrysanthemums. George Stoney assisted as best man, and Father G. J. George read the service. The home was gay with roses and chrysanthemums which were combined with Virginia creeper sent by friends from Alabama. At the conclusion of a two weeks' trip Mr. and Mrs. Moore will return to this city where they will receive their friends at No. 3034 Foster street, after January 1. In June they will leave for Virginia, where they will live. A unique feature at the close of the ceremony was the sending of the bride's bouquet to the groom's mother, Mrs. Otis M. Mooers, in Richmond.

Cupid Again.

At the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Gilleas of Hollywood, Miss Blanche Gilleas became the bride last evening of Frank Henry Jones. Miss Gilleas wore a handsome empire creation of princess lace and carried white flowers. Rev. Dr. R. J. Cotter performed the ceremony, under a bower of blooms. In the living-room white chrysanthemums were attractively arranged, while hanging baskets filled with pink rosebuds livened the dining-room. Red carnations glowed in the music-room and American beauties were banked in the hall. At the conclusion of a trip to New York, Mr. and Mrs. Jones will reside in Jackson, Miss.

Has Returned.

Mrs. Frances Gephard has returned to the city and will occupy her cottage at No. 1712 South Figueroa street, during the winter months.

Miss Macneil Honored.

Complimentary to his young niece, Miss Marian Macneil, daughter of Mrs. Hugh Livingston Macneil of South Figueroa street, James Slauson entertained with a fashionable supper dance at the Woman's Clubhouse last evening. Music for the dancing was furnished by Arend, who rendered a special programme in honor of the occasion.

Card Matinee.

Mrs. A. K. Brauer of No. 2129 West Twenty-third street was hostess yesterday afternoon at an enjoyable card matinee. Score cards bore hand-painted sketches of violets.

Recovering Health.

Miss Claire Holgate of No. 617 West Seventh street, who was in an accident recently at Long Beach, is rapidly recovering.

Dancing Party.

Members of the J. C. Club gave an informal dancing party Friday evening at College Tract Hall on Gramercy Place. The young guests were chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Parle, Mrs. Fay and Mrs. Wilson. For the occasion the hall was decked with greenery and cut flowers. Club pennants also added to the attractiveness of the scene.

"Perhaps not," he said, lightly. "But in our country, we are accustomed to take things more tranquilly than in yours. Married people live together in what you might call humdrum fashion, and whether or not they are congenial at the start, gradually get resigned to the yoke that binds them."

"As if one could ever 'get resigned!'" she cried, with a gesture of repulsion. "But there, that is enough of a tiresome subject. If it isn't rude, will you let me ask how you come to speak English as well—oh! really better than I do?"

Stelvio laughed.

"Simply because my tutor during many years of boyhood was a highly educated English monk who had taken up his abode in Italy, and preferred it to any spot on earth."

"That accounts for your beautiful pure enunciation of his tongue. How it makes one lament the slipshod speech of so many young men in our own country! I remember when I met you at Chevy Chase, I had just been talking to an American university graduate, a young millionaire who answered 'Yes,' for yes, and 'guessed' at every other word. When I made a remark that he agreed with, he said 'That's right;' or 'Sure!' The contrast with your—a foreigner's English—struck me tremendously at the time."

"Perhaps if I had had his millions—and his bringing up, I might have erred likewise," said Stelvio, smiling. "Still, I am flattered that you were even so far impressed by me. When I bounded down upon you the other day in Villa d'Este gardens, I was so surprised as to be rude, I fear."

"Not rude, but I thought you might pass stopped to speak a word of greeting."

"Miss Methuen must remember that, with us, a man does not approach a young lady of his world when she is without a chaperon. The honest truth is that I almost believed you to be a vision. I was startled, may I say confused—because—"

"Well, we are on American territory as Countess Fleury's; please go on. Why was I such a bogy to frighten you away?"

"Because I had but a moment before been thinking of your face, and wishing again to see it."

Margot blushed vividly. She could not believe her ears. But there were Stelvio's honest eyes looking full into hers. She found no room to doubt him.

"You were thinking of me! How very extraordinary!"

"And when you lifted that curtain and stepped inside the grocer's shop—still alone, so that I had no excuse to recall myself to you, there was nothing for me but flight. After that, how tantalizing that I should see you in a boat so near mine on the lake! We might have easily exchanged speech, save that I did not know the lady who accompanied you. And when the Comtessa's little note came telling me you were to be of her party at tea in the Temple of Friendship today, can you imagine a more cruel blow than that my lawyer from Milan should have selected this afternoon to arrive for an 'important discussion' of business affairs? Until we had thoroughly threshed out the subject he came upon, I could by no means get rid of him. I was as eager as a schoolboy, and, I am afraid, treated the old fellow to more than a glimpse of my impatience. Especially as I [illegible] quence or to make up my mind to sell myself for thirty pieces of silver. But we won't talk about that. It is sufficient that I have met you again; that here there is no unpleasantly self-assertive Congressman to come between us and whisk you off to have strawberries and cream——"

She uttered a little cry of pleasure like a child's. "You even remember that?"

"How should I forget it? If I told you that the circumstance had colored my estimate of a certain proposal submitted to me by my excellent friend from Milan this very day——?"

A light broke upon Margot. She felt certain that it was McPhail's desire at all costs to possess the Stelvio Biberon that had inspired the visit in question. A great disgust came over her. She wanted to protect Stelvio against she knew not what.

"If you noticed so much at Chevy Chase, perhaps you will also recall that I was angry, ill-mannered; that the interruption you speak of was an annoyance," she stammered.

"Of course it was," responded Stelvio, cheerfully. "The man was not fit to carry you away. No more than he seems to me fit to own something of mine to be doing his best to bargain for. But let us not speak of him again. This is the hour for noble, inspiring thoughts, and who knows how soon again I may have the privilege of your companionship unbroken——"

THE HOUSE OF QUALITY

Anty Drudge on Washing in a Flat.

Mrs. Apartment—"It's the hardest thing to get hot water here; you're not supposed to do any washing in the rooms. And when I do get hot water, it takes so long to wash that the rooms get awful smelly."

Anty Drudge—"Why don't you use Fels-Naptha? Then you won't have to use hot water. You will get through with your wash in a jiffy and there'll be no steam to make your rooms offensive."

To women who live in apartments the washing of clothes is a problem. The solution is Fels-Naptha soap.

No need of hot water; no boiler, no washboard. For light washing you don't even need a washtub, because the bathtub or basin will do quite well.

All you require is Fels-Naptha, cool or lukewarm water and a place to dry the clothes.

Say you have a shirtwaist or two, napkins, lingerie and other small things, that you don't have time or don't want to send out to be washed. You can do much better at home in this way:

Wet the clothes, soap well with Fels-Naptha, roll and leave to soak in cool or lukewarm water for a short time. Then rub lightly, rinse and hang up to dry.

Takes but one-fourth the time and one-tenth the work of the old way. Also saves the clothes.

Follow directions on the red and green wrapper.

The Value

of rest is not always appreciated and often ridiculed, as in the "Sons of Rest," but later day writers are inclined to dwell upon the importance of rest as a part of the daily routine. "Take a half hour after luncheon and close your eyes, and don't do a thing but think."

And if you lunch at Christopher's you can't help thinking agreeable thoughts. The most delightful hot luncheons are served at Christopher's from 11:30 to 2. If you haven't started the Christopher lunch habit, try it today.

CHRISTMAS NUMBER

FIFTY-SIX PAGES
of Christmas stories, poems, and special articles, of which some are named below

The Last Christmas Tree
By James Lane Allen
The author of "The Kentucky Cardinal" and "The Choir Invisible" has written, in this Christmas idyl, a story that will entrance every reader by its rich imagery and poetic conception. It is the first magazine story published by Mr. Allen in eleven years—the first published word of his that has appeared in the last five years.

The Thin Santa Claus
By Ellis Parker Butler
Why Mrs. Gratz was awakened on Christmas morning by a great silence; why she didn't like a "taking-away" Santa Claus; why the tooberchlosis bugs freeze up in the winter and get brittle and bust into a thousand pieces—all is told in the drollest Christmas story published in years: a story in which the author of PIGS IS PIGS proves that sometimes chickens is chickens.

The Triple Cross
By George Randolph Chester
One of the best stories that Mr. Chester ever wrote. It tells how Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford made his first visit to New York, and how peevish he became over the coarse and unimaginative methods of New York's confidence men and green-goods brokers.

"Pardon, You Are Mademoiselle Girard!"
By Leonard Merrick
All Paris was hunting for Mademoiselle Girard. On the boulevards, in the cafés and shops, was heard on all sides, "Pardon, you are Mademoiselle Girard?" Young men resigned promising occupations to engage in the search. No lady, comely or uncomely, providing she was young, was free from the accusing, "Pardon, you are Mademoiselle Girard!" Who found Mademoiselle Girard is disclosed in one of the most interesting stories of the year.

The Pedigree Hunters
By E. L. Bacon
To meet Catharine the Great in the Subway, or to see Henry the Eighth, with a wooden leg, begging alms on lower Broadway, is not so amazing when you reflect that in America there must be tens of thousands descendants of kings of that period and earlier. Some astonishing stories connected with the search for ancestors are revealed in this article.

The Sleeping Column
By Brand Whitlock
In the Sleeping Column the Mayor of Toledo tells a remarkable story of a Southern boy, who was not a spy, yet served in both the Union and Confederate armies, and was personally mentioned by the two leading generals of the opposing forces.

A Tug and a Daughter-in-Law
By Ernest Poole
A story "of ropes and things, and ships upon the seas." Also of a young waterman ashamed of his job and his dad; a nice girl ashamed of the boy, and a wise old tug-boat captain wholly shameless in his efforts to make a man of his son and a daughter-in-law of the nice girl. A Christmas story of a spot in Greater New York where the hive-dwellers have neighbors.

What Happens at Rehearsals
By Channing Pollock
The astonishing trivial incidents that make or break a play are more numerous than the holder of a parquet seat dreams of. In this article you are taken behind the scenes and shown all the intimate and interesting secrets that never get over the footlights.

The ardor of people who wanted to hear Dr. Torrey talk on the subject of "How to Receive the Baptism of Holy Spirit," was not dampened by the rain yesterday. Though the audience that assembled at the tabernacle was very small as compared with other days, nevertheless there were from 1000 to 1200 persons there.

"Somebody told me," said Dr. Torrey, "that we couldn't do anything in Los Angeles on a rainy day, but you are here. On a rainy day we always get a select audience of hungry people."

Dr. Torrey does not hold the doctrine that once baptized with the Holy Spirit, a man becomes infallible, but, like the apostles of old, he must be filled again and again.

"I was distinctly baptized with the Spirit in Minneapolis, but I know full well that I must be filled anew on each occasion when I get up to speak," he said.

"I can tell you what to do just now, and can guarantee if you do it, you will be filled with the Holy Spirit. That's very positive, but this book is just as positive as that."

He read as his text Acts II:38: "Then Peter said unto them, Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost."

"Repentance is a change of mind. Our churches are full of people who accept Christ as their Lord, but they have never accepted Him as their Savior," said Dr. Torrey.

He declared that many people depend upon going to church, living a clean life, and dealing fairly with all men, for their salvation, but that none of these things will ever save them. Others, he said, like the Seventh Day Baptists, depend upon the Mosaic law, but that the secret of salvation is the choice between sin and the Holy Ghost. Continuing, he said:

NO SMALL SIN.

"Some people pray for the baptism of the Holy Spirit, but they might just as well whistle. The trouble is sin. You may call it a small thing that stands in your way, but there is no such thing as a small sin, and whatever the thing is, you must put it away."

He told of a preacher who once heard him say this, and after the meeting waited for him and said:

"Say, you hit me pretty hard today," which Dr. Torrey replied:

"That's what I'm here for," and the preacher confessed that there was something in his life that always came before him when he asked to be endowed with the Holy Spirit.

Dr. Torrey read a letter received from a church member, living a long distance from the city, in which it is related that the pastor of the church to which she belonged had gone to Los Angeles to hear the evangelist and had returned home a transformed preacher.

"The baptism of the Holy Spirit," Dr. Torrey said, "is not for a secret society. It is for the openly-confessed follower of Jesus Christ.

"You may read books on the Holy Spirit, lay on your face all night, pray as much as you will, roll on the floor, but it won't do you any good until you put everything away that hinders you.

"I have known people to go into the foreign mission field, and take up the hardships of that work, and yet stop short of an absolute surrender to God." Dr. Torrey referred to stories he has read of the life of ease led by the missionaries, and said the romance is all in the book.

"These stories are written by people who go on a tour of foreign countries and sponge off the missionaries, who live together everything they have to make their guests comfortable and then live for months in indescribable hardship to make up for it after their guests are gone. Then they come home and write books about the life of ease led by a foreign missionary," said Dr. Torrey.

Getting back to the subject of absolute surrender to the will of God, the evangelist said that people are too apt to think that something hard will be required of them. He illustrated by telling his own little daughter, Margaret, dying into his arms when he was back to Chicago, and saying:

"Papa, I'm so glad that you've come home, for I want to make this the happiest day of my life; what shall I do?"

Then I'd sit down and say to her mother: 'Clara, what are all the things Margaret dislikes to do?' and I'd write them down for her. Do you think I'd do that? No; I'd try to make the brightest day in her life. That's just what God will do for you—everything possible to make your life all happiness and sunshine."

CHURCH AUDIENCE.

Another rainy-weather audience greeted Dr. Torrey last night. It was a few hundreds larger than in the afternoon, but still only half as large as the smallest audience that has gathered at the tabernacle any evening since the opening of the mission. Like the audience of the afternoon, those who occupied the seats were of the "every" kind—almost exclusively church members.

Dr. Torrey described in graphic detail the burning of the building of the Minneapolis Tribune, a few years ago, in which so many lives were lost, and told the heroism of the Associated Press representative, who remained on the roof, sending out news of the fire, after he was unable to save himself. He described the man as he stood on the stone lintel of the window and then tried to save himself by going hand-over-hand along a wire that stretched across to another building, until he finally lost his grip and fell to his death on the stone pavement.

At the close of the meeting a young man went to the platform and introduced himself to Dr. Torrey, saying that he was in the burning building and had witnessed the death of the telegraph operator, as described.

Both men and boys professed conversion at the close of the meeting. This morning Dr. Torrey will go to the Soldiers' Home to talk to the veterans, returning to the city at noon. He has announced this afternoon and evening, also on Friday, and the mission will close with two great assemblies on Sunday—women in the afternoon and men in the evening.

THEATER PARTY.

"BEN-HUR" CONTEST BY YOUNG WRITERS.

An essay on "Ben Hur" in 150 words or less—this is the pleasurable task in composition with which hundreds of Los Angeles school children are busying themselves this week. The experiment is proving a stimulus to literary possibilities.

The Times will give a Christmas theater party to the 200 school boys and school girls who write the best essays about Lew Wallace's great story. They are to attend the opening of the play of "Ben Hur" at the Mason Operahouse on the evening of December 14.

The conditions of the contest are these: The essays submitted must contain not more than 150 words. They must be written, without assistance, by pupils of Los Angeles schools, public or private, in any grade. They must be sent in to The Times before December 9. Each manuscript must bear the name and address of the writer, and the name of his or her school.

Seven well-known Los Angeles educators will be the judges in the contest. These seven teachers, and the 200 prize winners, will have the best seats in the Mason Operahouse on the evening of December 14, the pupils sitting in 32 seats, the teachers in the boxes.

The following men and women are on the committee which is to decide on the merits of the essays: Principal W. H. Houch of the Los Angeles High School; Miss Gertrude Henderson, head of department of English, Los Angeles High School; J. H. Francis, principal of Polytechnic High School; Miss Ethel McGee, acting head of English department, Polytechnic High School; E. J. Lickley, head of truant schools; Sister Aquinas, of the Franciscan Sisters' School; Miss Hope Traver of Huntington Hall.

As soon as the awards have been made tickets will be furnished the 200 prize winners. Address essays to Ben Hur Contest Editor, The Times, Los Angeles.

Will you be one of the lucky 200?

PHOTOGRAPHIC GUIDE READY.

PAMPHLET LISTS ART WORKS IN STATE'S LIBRARIES.

Committee of Women Prepare First Record of Its Kind and Thus Make Thousands of Pictures Available to the Public for Reference—Covers All Subjects.

Under the auspices of the Committee on Pictures for Libraries, of which Miss Anna M. Beckley, head of the reference department of the Los Angeles Public Library, is chairman, a remarkable pamphlet has just been issued. It is a guide to libraries throughout California, for an intelligent and efficient selection of photographic reproductions of works of art essential to every community.

of the Los Angeles public library, who has just compiled a valuable reference book for California libraries.

After several months of painstaking preparation an annotated list of 500 of the best-known examples of architecture, sculpture, and paintings, ancient and modern, has just been completed, and issued in pamphlet form. Yesterday 400 copies were sent to Sacramento to be scattered through the northern libraries, and 600 are ready for distribution in Southern California.

Suburban and country libraries will greet this unique publication as one that fills a great void in the enlarged activities of public libraries. Heretofore it has not been possible to form, even gradually, a collection of photographic reproductions of the most essential examples of art, for want of a reliable list as a guide.

In this pamphlet, which is remarkably free from errors, the name of the artist is first given, with that of the painting or sculpture following, annotations of the best authorities accompanying each subject, describing and qualifying it. A valuable index completes this little book.

The Los Angeles Library has been one of the first to recognize the great importance of the picture as an educational necessity. Over 7000 prints now form the art section of this library and they may be drawn just as a book is drawn for reference. A rare collection of oriental prints has just been added to the collection, and eleven valuable Medici pictures in colors, have also been received.

In architecture the library offers a liberal education and the architectural prints are arranged chronologically, so that an entire history of the development of building in the world is shown.

The president of the California Library Association, James L. Gillis, recognizing the lead that Los Angeles has taken in the picture extension work, appointed a committee last summer to work on the list, with Miss Beckley as chairman. Mary M. Bevans of Los Angeles, Hannah P. Davidson, Ethelwyn H. Fagge, Anna Hadden, Elfie A. Mosse and Amy L. Phelan compose the committee.

BALLOONS GOOD TARGETS.

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—Experiments that have been going on here for some time have shown that it is almost impossible for dirigible balloons to escape from the fire of field pieces and rifles on the ground by going to high altitudes. The greatest height the airships can attain successfully and safely still leaves them within range of the special cannon for shooting at balloons with which the experiments are made.

CHEAP POSTAGE TO GERMANY.

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—The United States and Germany have arranged for a postal rate on letters between the two countries of 2 cents, instead of the present rate of 5 cents. The new rates will go into effect on January 1.

RAILROAD RECORD.

EXTENSION ON TO YAQUI LAND.

SHORT LINE OUT OF EL PASO GETS CONCESSION.

Actual Construction to Start on Rio Grande, Sierra Madre and Pacific as Soon as President Is Back from Mexico City—Route Was Formerly a Greene Property.

According to information received in Los Angeles, the Mexican government has granted the concessions for the extension of the Rio Grande, Sierra Madre and Pacific Railroad, from its present terminus at Nueva Casas Grandes, 160 miles southwest of El Paso, in the State of Chihuahua, southwest to the Yaqui River, where it will connect with the Cananea, Yaqui River and Pacific line and also with Madera, the Greene lumber town, west of Chihuahua city.

By the completion of this line there will be established immediately direct railroad communication between northern Chihuahua and Sonora, through to the Pacific Coast, without going outside of the republic. H. R. Nickerson, president of the company, formerly general manager of the Mexican Central, is in Mexico City in connection with the concession, and as soon as he can set the machinery in motion, actual construction will start. Surveys were made a year ago.

The present railroad is a "jerk water" concern built years ago by eastern capitalists who intended to run it through to the Pacific Coast. For some reason they did not, and for years it ran a mixed freight and passenger train three times a week. It reaches some good mining and cattle country and tapped part of the region where the Mormon colonies are located.

When Col. W. C. Greene started his lumber and other enterprises after quitting active management at Cananea he acquired this road and planned an extension to the Yaqui River. It has always been hinted in the papers that Harriman was back of the enterprise, but this, Col. Greene denied. The extension was planned eighteen months ago, and temporarily abandoned on account of the money stringency. Now the road has gone the way of the other Greene interests and passed into other hands, it is understood. Harriman may or may not have the control.

Superintendent Burkhalter Dead.

David Burkhalter, superintendent of the Sacramento division of the Southern Pacific, and until sixteen months ago superintendent of the San Joaquin division at Bakersfield, is dead in the Southern Pacific Hospital at Sacramento. He was close to 70 years, the age of retirement from active service, and a veteran of thirty years' railroading with the company, having worked his way up from brakeman.

Los Angeles-Pacific Offices.

The Los Angeles Pacific has leased the entire Masonic Temple building on Hill street, just south of the company's depot and is remodeling it for its general offices, which were burned out in the Knox building on Fourth street. The change places the railroad's business, except the ticket for the Hollywood cars, together, and that will be moved to the depot as soon as the tunnel is completed.

Bakersfield Roundhouse.

The Santa Fé roundhouse at Bakersfield, according to Agent Hudson, will be ready for occupancy, February 1. The equipment is being installed, and piping put in. A blacksmith and small repair shop is being built and the five machines which are to be used in the carpenter shops are to be installed. No credence is given the report that construction is to begin at once on the new machine shops.

Service to Annandale.

The Pacific Electric will inaugurate a through service within the next two or three days from Sixth and Main streets to the Annandale Golf Club. Cars will be run every thirty minutes from 6:30 a.m. to 6:25 p.m. Connection will be made with certain cars for South Pasadena at Avenue 64.

to some extent. He was in New York, attending to raising funds, and was obliged to leave the disbursement largely to subordinates. They appear to act as if they had an absolutely inexhaustible supply to draw upon. Among other things, a hospital was built at Madera, larger than could possibly be required within many years, even with operations at the full limit anticipated by the most sanguine. Bills for various supplies were contracted and left unpaid in Chihuahua and El Paso, and it was common talk that the same conditions prevailed elsewhere.

After several months' absence, Col. Greene reached Chihuahua, and hurried out to Madera. Within twenty-four hours there was "something doing," and E. C. Hargreaves, general manager, and three of his principal subordinates resigned by request. One of these was a relative of Hargreaves. Stories were told of the wild life led by one of the officials dismissed. Gambling, horse racing and "wine, women and song" were among the allegations.

Among other extravagances were the attempts to establish newspapers with costly plants in Madera, the lumber town, and in Conchefio, the headquarters of some of the mining enterprises. Large sums of money were spent in this way.

For months before the crash came, it was fully expected by well-informed persons in Chihuahua and El Paso, the nearest cities to the scene of operations.

EL PASO HOLDING SOLD.

The Federal Smelter in El Paso, owned by Col. Greene, and planned by him as one of the units of his Mexican mining undertakings, was sold at auction yesterday at Sheriff's sale. This is the first piece of Greene property to go under the hammer since the general shut-down of the Greene properties in Mexico several months ago, when the laborers rioted for their pay and Mexican troops were called out. The troops are still in control of the properties. The smelter was sold to satisfy a claim of the National Dry-kiln Company of Indianapolis, and was bought in by that company for $26,000. Several other suits are pending in this city against Col. Greene.

TOO STORMY FOR BABIES.

The baby show which was to have been held yesterday at the Made in Southern California Exposition was postponed on account of the rain until tomorrow at 1 o'clock. An effort was made to get word to all the parents who had arranged to have their babies take part in the show, but a number of women braved the storm, only to be disappointed upon arriving at the exposition.

INDIANS ELOPE IN AUTO.

Carlisle Youth Carries Off Pretty Cherokee Maiden and They Quietly Wed.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CARLISLE (Pa.) Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A romance ended in an elopement last evening, when Miss Lystsa Wahoo, a Cherokee Indian maiden from North Carolina, ran away with Joseph Twin, an Indian ball player, who has been out of the Carlisle school for several years.

The attachment between the couple grew when they were fellow-students at Carlisle. The dusky wooer finally proposed to Miss Wahoo, but when the young woman communicated with her parents they were disposed to defer the marriage.

The youth visited the Carlisle school as a returned graduate and prevailed upon her to flee. Last evening Miss Wahoo crept stealthily from the girls' quarters, and met Twin, who had engaged an automobile and who was lying in wait just outside the school grounds. The machine whizzed around a corner, and the couple had eloped. Telegrams were sent in every direction by the Chief of Police, but no word of their whereabouts has been received.

RATES UNJUST TO THIS CITY.

How San Francisco Gets a Wrong Advantage.

Los Angeles Jobbers Must Equalize Freight.

Northern Metropolis Seems to Dictate All.

The fight which the jobbers of Los Angeles are making to secure an equalization of freight rates with San Francisco to points in the San Joaquin Valley is actively pushed, and a favorable outcome is anticipated. The western classification contains 5400 items, of which 3500 take two different figures, made by exactions of classification as to the manner in which such commodities are shipped. These 3500 items the Los Angeles jobbers handle in the San Joaquin Valley at a disadvantage, for the reason that they are forced to absorb the difference between Los Angeles and San Francisco rates.

September 27, 1905, the Santa Fé and Southern Pacific did issue a tariff effective that date, which was entirely satisfactory to the Los Angeles jobbers. This was put into effect and shipments made under it for one day, when it was discontinued on protest of San Francisco merchants. At that time it is said the high officials of the railroads were in the East and the protest was wired them from San Francisco and they telegraphed instructions to withdraw the tariff.

The San Fransico jobbers claimed they only wished its withdrawal for time to look into it.

AGREEMENT NOT KEPT.

A short time after this action, the railroad officials met with a committee from Los Angeles, and one of them, claiming to act for both companies, with authority, stated that the tariff with a few minor modifications, would be restored immediately. The San Francisco merchants had no further relations with the railroads and the agreement was not kept. The matter was postponed from time to time until May, 1906, when a conference was suggested between the merchants of Los Angeles and San Francisco with a view to adjusting the matter. The jobbers of this city felt that this suggestion was a tacit admission that a few favored merchants of San Francisco and not the railroad officials, were making the rates. The railroads then refused to make good their agreement until the Los Angeles jobbers satisfied the San Francisco merchants.

Here the matter stands. The jobbers have hopes of ultimately winning out and claim that they have a club which, if they wished to use it, would force the roads to keep their promise. They claim, however, to be friendly to the railroads.

As an example of the rate injustice, in talking with San Francisco merchants, it is asserted no commercial argument was advanced why Fresno should have a better rate than Los Angeles, but the argument that San Francisco merchants in order to compete with Los Angeles must have advantages in rates, also that the cost of operating was greater from Los Angeles to the San Joaquin Valley than from San Francisco, and for this reason the roads should charge higher rates. There are in fact, many reasons why Los Angeles is entitled to better rates than San Francisco, but it does not ask this, but merely that the rates be equalized. The jobbers claim to be more than able to compete with San Francisco on even terms.

Here is an illustration of the disadvantage under which Los Angeles merchants are laboring in the San Joaquin Valley. Rates to a point 168 miles south of San Francisco show a considerable difference compared with those to a point the same distance north of Los Angeles. Rates to such a point on first, second, third and fourth class rates, subject to the western classification, which includes all miscellaneous freight, are as follows:

Fresno, 196 miles south of San Francisco, takes the following rate from that city: First class, .56; second, .51; third, .47; fourth, .47; while from Los Angeles, 276 miles, the same class takes, .80, .77, .73 and .62. From a distance 196 miles from Los Angeles, the same distance as Fresno from Frisco, the rates are: .74, .70, .66 and .51, which gives the San Francisco shipper a great advantage. The San Joaquin Valley merchants are vitally interested in this fight, for the reason that at the present rates the railroads practically say they must buy their supplies in San Francisco, which, they claim, is the only construction to be placed upon the language of the tariff. If it were not for the energetic jobbers of Los Angeles absorbing the difference they would be at the mercy of the San Francisco merchants. The railroads should consider, so argue the jobbers here, that to Los Angeles is due the development of the fruit and ranch and oil industries of the San Joaquin Valley, and therefore the city is entitled to an equal rate with San Francisco.

THE BIGGEST FIGURE IN AMERICAN MUSIC.

By Julian Johnson.

[STAFF CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Oscar Hammerstein is easily the biggest figure in American music.

He is that because he has carried successfully a burden which no other man has yet been able to bear, even with abundant help, and, having done so, he has now assumed another responsibility equally large.

If you have ever seen a picture of Hammerstein you have seen Hammerstein as he looked last year, as he looks this year, as he will probably look next year.

Hammerstein and the notable Hammersteinian clothes are perennial. There's a line in George Cohan's new show, "The American Idea," which avers that "there's no sight in Paris like Hammerstein's hat"—which is doubtless very true, for this historic headgear is as unlike any chapeau of the boulevard as it is dissimilar from anything that can be found on Broadway from Wall out beyond the last theater.

If Samson's strength lay in his hair, Hammerstein's managerial wizardry is due to the spell of the wonderful bonnet, and the secret of its manufacture. It is an enormous silk "tile," very broad, very high, and with a rim that would serve as a lamp shade.

After you watch the workings of the two operahouses here for a while you feel that the fierce white light which beats upon a throne will, if observed carefully enough, disclose a good deal of tinsel and gilt paper.

The pomp of kings hovers about the Metropolitan, and to obtain audience with the royal persons is a matter of solemnity, patience—and good luck.

At the Manhattan, however, were not O. H. so well known he might frequently be mistaken for his own office man, for he commingles perpetually in the most democratic style.

Any one with legitimate business may enter the office of the Manhattan Operahouse, and to one acquainted with the Metropolitan labyrinth this "office" seems a joke, for it is nothing more than a mere passageway, a little narrow alley left running along the wall behind the box office, and extending to the side of the auditorium. A telephone exchange comes perilously near blocking the entrance, then the deep-piled desk of W. J. Guard, Hammerstein's general press representative, then a pair or a trio of stenographers, then another step up into a private office whose door is perpetually open, and whose desk is usually occupied by Willy Hammerstein—and there you have the end.

Of course there are other apartments in the big theater where business is transacted, but these are the offices, and are known as such.

Here are controlled two tremendous operatic institutions, the Philadelphia and New York houses of Mr. Hammerstein, employing two immense individual companies, with salaries aggregating scores of thousands each month, and with a very cheerful promise of an all-winter continuance.

Willy Hammerstein has a stenographer, and Mr. Guard is sometimes allowed to dictate to one, but I have never seen Hammerstein himself even speak to one.

In fact, I don't know whether Hammerstein even has a desk exclusively his own. I have seen him sitting at Willy's place, figuring on a scratch pad, but more often have I beheld him perched on the top of an old-fashioned office stool jotting a note or two now and then on a crumpled envelope or a fragment of a letter, lost in thought.

There is a little door opening into the box-office, and another little door leading to the auditorium. Both of these have been carefully proportioned to the hat, and at intervals, at all hours, the hat is seen to insert itself, with Hammerstein carefully following.

Of, if the "office" is too cumbered with human rubbish, the impresario chooses a far corner of his lobby, away from the ticket-speculatorial line, and there paces, his hands behind his back, open to the grievance of a persecuted chorus woman, the purposeful flattery of a great prima-donna, or even the pestiferous annoyance of a deadhead.

In fact, New Yorkers have got so used to seeing Hammerstein about his lobby that when he is not visible, somewhere, they fear there will be no performance.

If Gatti-Casazza or Dippel were seen in the Metropolitan lobby the whole White Way would rush in for an astonished look.

The two managers at the house just mentioned have their box in the Grand Tier—pardon a moment while I get my announcements—yes, here it is: No. 48, carefully catalogued just one page ahead of the programme.

Hammerstein also has a box, but it is not catalogued. It consists of a little v-shaped alcove near the proscenium arch, barely out of the way of the electricians and also just escaping the scene-shifter. The stage manager has thoughtfully provided an old kitchen chair, and here, during productions that interest him, Hammerstein sits for acts at a time, the hat pushed back a little, the chair tilted forward on its sturdy forelegs, as the occupant rests his elbows on his knees.

I don't know where Hammerstein lived before this operahouse was built, but not so very long ago, while father was out of the city, Willy Hammerstein and several others about the place got him a bed, a bureau, a rug, several articles of furniture, and when he returned he found an entire apartment awaiting him just above stairs.

He was so pleased over this little kindness that he wept, and he clings to his tiny operatic flat with a home fervor that is almost pathetic. He wouldn't have a happy minute in the swellest apartment on Riverside Drive.

If you judge Hammerstein by his pictures, you make him out a big, burly fellow, commanding in manner, resonant in voice. All of which he is not.

In speech he is more than retiring. He is almost apologetic. His English has far less German tincture than the funny papers asseverate, but on the whole he is a man who speaks little. Actions are his words.

He is considerably below medium stature, but he is broad of shoulder and thick of chest. He always walks slowly, and usually with bent head, as a man in earnest inner consultation. I spoke to him a short while this morning about operatic undertakings in general, and in particular concerning his eventual visit to the Pacific Coast.

"Don't you tease me! Don't you tease me!" he exclaimed, waving away an imaginary allurement with his hand. "I know just what you people are out there, and you don't know how many times I have figured this thing in my mind. I want to come just as much as any one else may want me—but I can't, this year. I have the Manhattan"—holding up two pudgy fingers—"and Philadelphia. Twenty weeks each. Sufficient!"

All New York except the totem element has been laughing the past week over Hammerstein's sly but uproarious joke on the plasterer's union, which was diabolically nasty to the poor obsessed impresario.

"I wish you'd tell me," I ventured, "just how you fixed the plasterers so nicely."

Hammerstein chuckled clear down into his capacious collar, and then sobered as suddenly as a playful kitten upon whom water has been thrown.

"I never tell my own chokes!" he exclaimed, and with a Weberfieldian gesture he ambled away.

It seems that the only union having an excuse for a hold-up on the new Philadelphia Operahouse was the plasterers' bunch. I've observed that in this part of the country the unions boldly hold up wherever they can, taking, as a usual thing, builders who for business reasons are in a great hurry. Hammerstein was in a hurry, and they stung him in proper shape.

He dismissed his plasterers, who were merely finishing the work, anyway, and sent over a new gang from New York. Only part of the gang arrived, and the manager sent more, and more, only to discover that the union agents were meeting these men at the station, and were giving them return fare and a fairly ample bonus to come back to New York.

Hammerstein said nothing, but about ten days later there was a union row in Philadelphia, and when the dust cleared away, the outsiders were able to discern that the plasterers' union was busted. There was an official totem investigation as to the whereabouts of the funds, and it was discovered that these trouble zealots had given prize money and return tickets to almost a thousand "plasterers," bound for the Philadelphia Operahouse. A little further investigation brought out the whole truth, and, worse luck for the unions, it got into the hands of several comic writers.

Hammerstein himself had quietly gone into the small towns near Philadelphia and had engaged a sufficient plastering force to come in by the day, either awheel, or on foot, or on the street cars. Then, returning to New York, he passed the word to his agents, and these spent one-way fares and a little more to enable a whole regiment of loafers to go to the Philadelphia station and meet the energetic union agents as "plasterers" of the honest-to-Gawd Gompers variety.

STRIDES ON ACQUEDUCT.

taxed the patience of your honorable body severely, but it was felt that better and more economic progress could be made with all the accessories in the completed state in which they now are, than to begin in a condition of unpreparedness and run the risk of impeding the work later. The nature and extent of this work is exhaustively dwelt on and minutely described in this report, and we feel confident that the progress on the actual building of the aqueduct in the near future will fully justify the great expense incurred in this preparatory work.

"Included in the report is not alone a description of the work so far accomplished, but a prospectus of the plan of action for the coming fiscal year, together with an estimate of its cost, for the guidance of the financial end of the proposition. It will be seen that an effort is made to make construction accord with our financial ability, and due consideration was also given to the capacity of the cement plant to produce material for the work outlined.

CONFUSION DISAPPEARING.

"The confusion attendant upon the building up of an efficient organization to properly carry on this great project is now rapidly disappearing, and all the departments are moving with less friction and greater efficiency than at first, as the men become accustomed to their several duties. Most of the employés, and especially those in executive charge of work, have evinced a most commendable spirit of interest, not alone in connection with their several duties, but in the larger aspect of the project itself. It is pleasing to be able to report that this is the result of natural enthusiasm, rather than through any action of the superior officers to encourage such a feeling. In fact, it is to be regretted that those in the upper class of executive charge have had very little time for semi-social contact with their co-laborers in the lesser positions.

"So far as the work has progressed, there has been everything to encourage the belief that it will be ultimately completed within the time and cost originally estimated."

CONSTRUCTION ESTIMATE.

The estimate of construction to be accomplished during the next year, as reported by Mulholland, shows that 291,640 lineal feet of work is provided for. It includes much of the most difficult work in the whole project and the accomplishment of the quantity in the time specified will be a tremendous gain in approaching the final completion of the whole system. It means that, if the work laid out for the coming twelve months is completed, the whole scheme will be easily completed in four years, the approximate time fixed.

According to these estimates, 59,658 lineal feet of the big task will be excavated and lined tunnels, 36,140 lineal feet excavated tunnels and 195,842 feet excavated and lined conduit. This is distributed through eleven sections of the work. In the celebrated Jawbone division, the most difficult of the whole number, the tunnel work, aggregating 49,123 feet, is to cost $1,153,362, and is the largest cost of any single division.

COST FOR COMING YEAR.

The cost of the work for the next twelve months as given, follows:

Division 5—Owens Valley	$ 542,700
Division 6—Olancha	266,870
Division 7—Grapevine	857,063
Division 8—Freeman	133,444
Division 7-A—Jawbone	1,153,362
Division 9—Mojave	451,000
Division 9—Antelope Valley	201,200
Division 10—Elizabeth	356,300
Division 11—Saugus	167,000
Division 12—Cement plant	143,154
Administration and engineering	250,000
Owens Valley ranches	6,000
Total	$4,953,619

GIGANTIC PROGRESS.

In discussing the schedule of work and the cost, Mr. Mulholland says:

"The above progress, embracing as it does, about fifty-eight miles of aqueduct, much of which is the most difficult work on the project, may seem rather a large undertaking for a single year, but reasoning from our present rate of progress on similar work, its accomplishment is quite possible.

"The financial arrangements provide for $4,000,000 to be placed at the disposal of the aqueduct during the fiscal year, and as there is at present on hand the sum of $559,585, clear of all our obligations, making a total of $4,-559,585 available, it would seem to be the part of wisdom to apply it to the work rather than let it accumulate."

In his explanatory forecast for the next twelve months, Mulholland summarizes the work already done in each division and what it is proposed to do. In the Owens Valley division, power plant No. 1 is to be completed at a cost of $57,650, and its power is to be used to operate a second dredge, except any surplus, which will be connected with the Cottonwood plant and used wherever required. Power plant No. 1 has been in operation since last April, furnishing power for dredge No. 1.

PROGRESS OF DREDGE.

The progress made by this dredge is 4000 feet of excavated canal, of which more than one-half has been completed in the last two months because the dredge, in its first work, was in experimental state and encountered many interruptions through defects. But these difficulties have been overcome largely and the progress of the last two months may be representative of what it will be in future, and also that of dredge No. 2, as it was designed to remedy all the preliminary defects of No. 1.

On this division it was the intention to provide for only 700 second feet, but experience showed that this could be enlarged and the larger section, touching the saturated soil of the valley, will save loss by seepage and an accretion of twenty-five second feet of water. This added water will be a large gain during periods of low flow. To provide water for this dredge, a well has been bored and the installation of an air lift is expected to produce four to five second feet. It is the purpose to operate the dredge night and day during the summer months. A high power shovel is recommended for the Alabama hills. Its work will be followed closely by a construction gang.

HAIWEE RESERVOIR.

Work in the Olancha division conduit is to begin by April 1, working northerly from the Haiwee reservoir. It is largely easy, but a steam shovel may be required. The construction of the Haiwee reservoir is to begin in the spring, as the railroad is to be completed to this point by March 1, and will be able to transport material. A power shovel will be necessary. The dam there is to contain 530,000 c.-bic yards and one year is allowed for its completion. The small dam at the head of the reservoir will not be needed this year.

Rose Valley division, fifteen miles long, need not be undertaken until next year.

The Grapevine division is rough and expensive, containing many tunnels in hard rock. The railroad is completed to Siding 17, about the center of the division. The headings of the long tunnels may be opened March 1, and the concreting of the shorter ones should be in progress before the end of the year. Making eighty feet progress daily, the tunneling should accomplish 21,000 feet during the year. Two high-power shovels are needed for the open work and a water supply is yet to be developed.

Freeman division, twenty-one miles long, is cut and cover work of easy character. An electrical shovel is to be placed in commission March 1, and is expected to make 2000 feet progress monthly. The water problem is solved by the Sage Cañon pipe line.

JAWBONE DIVISION.

Jawbone division, 21.9 miles, construction work was begun in September, and has been mainly confined to preparatory road, power line and pipe lines and tunnels. At present, 3500 feet of the 42,650 feet of tunneling is done. Much of the tunnel work will be completed within the year. An electrical shovel will begin work January 1, and progress of sixty feet daily is expected, thus completing 18,000 feet of the 28,000 feet this year.

In the Mojave division a distinct financial gain was made in the conduit work, which is twenty-eight miles long. Two steam shovels and an Austin excavator are expected to give a progress of 6000 feet a month, and this will complete the work in two years. It was the original intention to leave this conduit uncovered because of the cost of covering, but the work has been done so economically that the conduit and cover will be under the estimate of cost for the open conduit.

Antelope division, on which little work is done, is to be built under the contract awarded yesterday. If the contract had not been awarded, the plan was to put a shovel on the open cut work and continue the work on the southerly end.

ELIZABETH TUNNEL.

Elizabeth division's principal work is the Elizabeth Lake tunnel, which is being driven at a present progress of 600 feet a month. This is to be increased. Already 1446 feet of tunnel have been driven at the north end and 2900 feet at the south end. Work of stripping for the dam of the Fairmount reservoir is already begun, and the building of the dam will begin early in the year, providing sufficient water for sluicing may be obtained, and built with a concrete core; if not, the dam will be of earth, fifty-five feet high, and will contain 723,862 cubic yards. It is estimated that the progress of construction, to begin March 1, will be 2000 yards daily.

Two working camps are in the Saugus division, which is very rough. It brings the water from San Francisquito Cañon to the Newhall tunnel, and the work is to be vigorously pushed during the year, whether done by the aqueduct forces or by contract. Twelve tunnel headings will be opened but it will not be necessary to do any of the open work this year.

FINED FOR MANSLAUGHTER.

WOODWARD, (Okla.) Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Snowden Bailey, a young farmer living near Fargo, was convicted today in the District Court at Arnett of manslaughter in the second degree and fined $750 and costs for killing his father-in-law, M. B. Adamson, near Fargo on June 11, 1907. Adamson was a wealthy cowman, who had objected to the marriage of his stepdaughter to Bailey. A quarrel between the two men followed the wedding and Bailey killed Adamson with his bride's revolver, a small 22-caliber weapon.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in South Africa.

South Africa within the last few years has gained more prominence, perhaps, than in all its past history. Its rich diamond mines have won for it an enviable reputation. Its native uprisings excite sympathy everywhere; while the Boer war, the effect of which will be felt for a long time to come was looked upon with mixed emotions, the world cheering or mourning, according to the interests involved. During these critical times, its commerce was crippled, supplies were scarce and only staple articles were shipped there. Among those were classed Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It was sent there in large quantities, as its reputation for usefulness and reliability had already been established. Mr. S. Schneider, of Koffayfontein, Orange River Colony, shows by the following letter that this medicine is still held in high esteem. He says: "I thank you for your good Cough Remedy. I used it for myself and three children when we had bad coughs and it helped us. Every family should keep it at hand."

LEA ON CHINA IS REFUTED.

Dr. Locke Shows "General" Is Off in Surmise.

Christianity Spreading Fast in the Orient.

Former Missionary Also Puts Kink in Argument.

Last evening, in the regular mid-week service at the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Dr. Charles Edward Locke, the pastor, in an informal address on "World-wide Christianity," referred to an address delivered Monday afternoon before the Ebell Club in which Homer Lea, a "Chinese Reform Army" general, discussed Chinese and Christianity. Dr. Locke said in part:

"I do not know the gentleman who spoke, nor do I intend to enter into any controversy with him; but when he said, if he was correctly reported, that he had never seen a Christian Chinaman, and that there is absolutely no possibility of a racial Christian tendency in China,' I think it due to the gracious ladies who listened to this address, and to those who may have read an account of it, that they be given some important facts upon this subject.

"The centennial of Protestant Christian missions in China was celebrated in 1907. An imposing convocation was assembled in Shanghai, which continued in session for two weeks. The 1000 delegates were welcomed by the Viceroy of the province, who assured them of the friendly attitude of the Chinese authorities toward Christian missions. The meeting was held in the Memorial Hall of the Chinese Y.M.C.A., erected to the memory of the Christian Chinese martyrs who sacrificed their lives for their faith during the Boxer outbreak of 1900.

"During that Boxer persecution 10,000 native Chinese Christians were put to death. This great convention brought out the reports which showed that there are seventy Protestant missionary organizations with 3000 missionaries in China, and that there are 180,000 native converts and 18,000 native Christian workers.

SIGNS OF PROGRESS.

"Among the last commendable deeds of that very remarkable woman, the late Dowager Empress of China, was the issuing of an imperial edict providing for preliminary steps to be taken looking toward the complete installation of a constitutional government in the year 1917. In 1907 the Dowager Empress issued another imperial edict ordering the immediate introduction of western learning to the curriculum which had remained unchanged for over 1300 years. Since then an educational edict has been issued, declaring that 'all boys over 4 years of age must go to school, or their parents and relatives will be punished.' The city of Peking has already adopted a public school system. Recently the Chinese government has decided to keep 400 students a year in America during the next thirty years.

"I have myself known personally several Chinese scholars who are converts to Christianity, and there are many notable instances of men of great influence accepting the Christian religion.

"In the face of the marvelous awakening of China and its adoption of Christian ideals, it is purely gratuitous for any man to say that there is 'absolutely no possibility of a racial Christian tendency in China.' On the contrary, there are many notable indications that the great Flowery Kingdom is on the very eve of accepting our Christian civilization. The Chinese people may have passed the stage of credulity, but they have not passed the stage of faith.

GIANT AWAKENING.

"The great Bonaparte said: 'When China is moved it will change the face of the globe.' The slumbering giant is awakening, and the uplifting forces which are arousing China are not the effete oriental religions, not the materialism of Europe, or the rationalism of Germany, or the liberalism of America, but it is the gracious and divine influence of Jesus Christ.

"This speaker before the Ebell Club has read his history very carelessly and has shown himself a prophet of despair, when he predicts the doom of Christianity in the world when the Orient awakens. It is the truth that is awakening the slumbering peoples of the Far East, and it is the truth which will set them free; and the gospel of Christ is the truth. It is the initial cause of the awakening, and Christianity will be the victorious achievement of these inquiring peoples when they shall have passed out of the darkness of paganism into the light of the full-orbed truth as it is in Christ!"

LEA NOT RECOGNIZED.

Rev. L. A. Gould, formerly a missionary in China, a student of Chinese affairs and at present conducting a mission study class in Occidental College, also answered the remarks of Lea yesterday, particularly his assertion that "the awakening of China will sound the doom of Christianity, not Asiana in China, but in the world." Mr. Gould says:

"Mr. Lea is deeply versed in many phases of Chinese national history and life and a brilliant rhetorician, but he is not widely recognized as an authority on moral questions, ethnological trend, or religious progress.

"Mr. Lea's opinion is directly contrary to that of many eminent authorities, long resident in China, and thoroughly conversant with conditions prevailing there. He controverts Dr. A. H. Smith in 'China and America Today;' Dr. W. A. P. Martin in his work, 'The Awakening of China;' Colquhoun in his 'China in Transformation;' Weale in his 'Reshaping of the Far East;' such travelers as Isabella Bird Bishop; such statesmen as Sir Robert Hart; such Ambassadors as Mr. Conger, and even such Chinese Viceroys as Li Hung Chang, Chang Chih Tung and Yuan Shih Kai. Mr. Lea is an extremist, an avowed revolutionist, an exponent of iconoclastic views so extravagant, so ultra, that they fall by their own weight.

"The figures of Protestant growth in China during the last century are against the proposition of decadence. In 1807 the first missionary went to China. In 1842 there were six converts; in 1860, there were 960; in 1874, there were 12,000; in 1889, there were 37,000; in 1900, there were 113,000; in 1905, there are not less than 200,000 possibly 213,000, a growth of 100,000 in eight years. Our Roman Catholic friends claim 400,000 adherents. If this is decadence, blessed be decadence. Korea, too, gives promise of being the first Oriental nation to accept Christianity throughout its length and breadth.

ON THEIR LAST LEGS.

"Buddhism and Taoism and Hinduism would fairly seem to be decadent. Chang Chih Tung, China's greatest Viceroy, in his 'China's Only Hope,'

Dr. Locke Shows "General" Is Off in Surmise.

Christianity Spreading Fast in the Orient.

Last evening, in the regular mid-week service at the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Dr. Charles Edward Locke, the pastor, in an informal address on "World-wide Christianity," referred to an address delivered Monday afternoon before the Ebell Club in which Homer Lea, a "Chinese Reform Army" general, discussed Chinese and Christianity. Dr. Locke said in part:

"I do not know the gentleman who spoke, nor do I intend to enter into any controversy with him; but when he said, if he was correctly reported, that he had 'never seen a Christian Chinaman, and that there is absolutely no possibility of a racial Christian tendency in China,' I think it due to the gracious ladies who listened to this address, and to those who may here read an account of it, that they be given some important facts upon this subject.

"The centennial of Protestant Christian missions in China was celebrated in 1907. An imposing convocation was assembled in Shanghai, which continued in session for two weeks. The 200 delegates were welcomed by the Viceroy of the province, who assured them of the friendly attitude of the Chinese authorities toward Christian missions. The meeting was held in the Memorial Hall of the Chinese Y.M.C.A., erected to the memory of the Christian Chinese martyrs who sacrificed their lives for their faith during the Boxer outbreak of 1900.

"During that Boxer persecution 10,000 native Chinese Christians were put to death. This great convention brought out the reports which showed that there are seventy Protestant missionary organizations with 3500 missionaries in China, and that there are 150,000 native converts and 10,000 native Christian workers.

SIGNS OF PROGRESS.

"Among the last commendable deeds of that very remarkable woman, the late Dowager Empress of China, was the issuing of an imperial edict providing for preliminary steps to be taken looking toward the complete installation of a constitutional government in the year 1917. In 1907 the Dowager Empress issued another imperial edict ordering the immediate introduction of western learning to the curriculum which had remained unchanged for over 1800 years. Since then an educational edict has been issued, decaring that 'all boys over 8 years of age must go to school, or their parents and relatives will be punished.' The city of Peking has already adopted a public school system. Recently the Chinese government has decided to keep 400 students a year in America during the next thirty years.

"I have myself known personally several Chinese scholars who are converts to Christianity, and there are many notable instances of men of great influence accepting the Christian religion.

"In the face of the marvelous awakening of China and its adoption of Christian ideals, it is purely gratuitous for any man to say that there is 'absolutely no possibility of a racial Christian tendency in China.' On the contrary, there are many notable indications that the great Flowery Kingdom is on the very eve of accepting our Christian civilization. The Chinese people may have passed the stage of credulity, but they have not passed the stage of faith.

GIANT AWAKENING.

"The great Bonaparte said: 'When China is moved it will change the face of the globe.' The slumbering giant is awakening, and the uplifting forces which are arousing China are not the effete oriental religions, not the materialism of Europe, or the rationalism of Germany, or the liberalism of America, but it is the gracious and divine influence of Jesus Christ.

"This speaker before the Ebell Club has read his history very carelessly and has shown himself a prophet of despair, when he predicts the doom of Christianity in the world when the Orient awakens. It is the truth that is awakening the slumbering peoples of the Far East, and it is the truth which will set them free; and the gospel of Christ is the truth. It is the initial cause of the awakening, and Christianity will be the victorious achievement of these inquiring peoples when they shall have passed out of the darkness of paganism into the light of the full-orbed truth as it is in Christ!"

LEA NOT RECOGNIZED.

Rev. L. A. Gould, formerly a missionary in China, a student of Chinese affairs and at present conducting a Chinese study class in Occidental College, also answered the remarks of Lea yesterday, particularly his assertion that "the awakening of China will mean the doom of Christianity, not only in China, but in the world." Mr. Gould says:

"Mr. Lea is deeply versed in many lines of Chinese national history and is said a brilliant rhetorician, but he is not widely recognized as an authority on moral questions, ethnological data or religious progress.

"Mr. Lea's opinion is directly contrary to that of many eminent authorities, long resident in China, and thoroughly conversant with conditions prevailing there. He controverts Dr. A. H. Smith in "China and America Today;" Dr. W. A. P. Martin in his work, "The Awakening of China;" Colquhoun in his "China in Transformation;" Beale in his "Reshaping of the Far East;" such travelers as Isabella Bird Bishop; such statesmen as Sir Robert Hart; such Ambassadors as Mr. Conger, and even such Chinese Viceroys as Li Hung Chang, Chang Chih Tung and Yuan Shih Kai. Mr. Lea is an extremist, an avowed revolutionist, an exponent of iconoclastic views so extravagant, so ultra, that they fall by their own weight.

"The figures of Protestant growth in China during the last century are against the proposition of decadence. In 1807 the first missionary went to China. In 1842 there were six converts; in 1860, there were 960; in 1876, there were 13,000; in 1889, there were 113,000; in 1900, there were 115,000; in 1908, there are not less than 200,000 possibly 213,000, a growth of 100,000 in eight years. Our Roman Catholic friends claim 400,000 adherents. If this is decadence, blessed be decadence. Korea, too, gives promise of being the first Oriental nation to accept Christianity throughout its length and breadth.

ON THEIR LAST LEGS.

"Buddhism and Taoism and Hinduism would fairly seem to be decadent. Chang Chih Tung, China's greatest viceroy, in his "China's Only Hope," says: 'Buddhism and Taoism are decaying, and cannot long exist, whilst the western learning is flourishing and making progress every day. Buddhism is on its last legs, and Taoism is discouraged.

"The dark forebodings of China's future and the prediction that the awakening of the Orient will sound the doom of Christianity in the East and in the world must be classed as Oriental jingoism. The part of an alarmist is easy to play.

"China is not going to be divided. If any definite proof were needed it would be furnished by the recent note of confidence exchanged between the governments of Japan and the United States and the express stipulation for the protection of China's interests.

"There is no evidence whatever that the awakening of the Orient will witness the doom of Christianity in any Oriental country or in the world. There is every evidence of the decadence of all opposing systems in the Orient, and the triumph and establishment of Christianity. 'The stone that was cut out of the mountain without hands shall fill the whole earth.'" alleged embezzling United States Express Company agent in New York, arrested here last night. He has been gambling at the Arcadia race track.

Thomas C. Lowe,

TRAILED.

HE'S WANTED IN NEW YORK.

Alleged Embezzler Captured in Local Cafe.

Admits Was "in Deep" and Cleared Out.

Has Been Gambling on the Arcadia Races.

With $9.25 in his pocket, after playing the races at Arcadia, Thomas C. Lowe, wanted for taking $450 and a travelers' check book from the United States Express Company in New York City, while agent at a substation, was captured here last night. He was well dressed and did not seem to be worried, saying that his family will "square things" for him as soon as he is taken back to New York.

Lowe has been in Los Angeles three weeks, and his arrest was accomplished through the efforts of the bonding company that had vouched for him. It supplied the information to the local police, who had been notified by the detective bureau of New York to make the arrest.

Detectives Chapman, Home and Zeigler located Lowe in the Imperial Cafe, where he had gone for supper, after an unsuccessful day at the race track.

When taken to headquarters, Lowe denied his identity, and said his name was Thomas Carl.

"That much of it is all right, but now add the last name," said Detective Kelly, who was interrogating he prisoner.

"Oh well, what's the use. You fellows have got me. The last name is Lowe," was his reply.

GAMBLING THE TROUBLE.

He admitted that he left New York two months ago because his accounts were short. When asked if he spent the money on a girl, he shook his head and said: "No, the trouble with me was gambling." Later he made a more lengthy statement about his downfall.

"To tell the truth, I don't know how much I am short. I was an agent for the United States Express Company in a substation, and I knew that I was in deep, so I cleared out. I came here three weeks ago, and that's all.

"Did you play the races at Arcadia?" he was asked.

"Yes, two or three times, but you can judge by what I had in my pockets whether I was successful. Most fellows who lose at the races say the game is crooked, but not me. I don't blame it on the crookedness of the game.

"The question was could I beat the game. Well I couldn't, and I want to say that I will take my hat off to the man who can.

"I don't think I am in so deep that my family can't get me out, when I get back," was his final remark. He refused to answer, when asked other questions about his family, and begged that his real name be kept from the public.

DENIES CHECK CHARGE.

Lowe denies the charge that he took a traveler's check book, which contained checks that might have been filled out for $15,000. The local police are investigating this phase of the charge, but have not found any evidence to bear it out.

The information supplied by the bonding company was that Lowe had gambled on results at eastern race tracks and was behind $450 in his accounts. After he left New York he was traced to Baltimore, then to Philadelphia and Chicago, and then to Los Angeles.

The New York police have been notified, and Lowe will be held here until an officer arrives. Lowe stated last night that he would fight any attempt to extradite him, but as he has no money to retain a lawyer, and says that he does not expect any help from his family until he reaches New York, the police do not think the statement was anything more than an attempt at a bluff.

WELCOME.

FRENCH TOAST FOR PRESIDENT.

OFFICERS OF VISITING CRUISER WINED AND DINED.

Members of Local Colony Gather at Downtown Restaurant to Greet Their Fellow Countrymen Attached to the Catinat, Now in the Harbor at San Pedro.

Lacking a boatswain's pipe the officers of the French cruiser Catinat, now at San Pedro, fell to on the dinner given them at Levy's last night by the committee of the Alliance Francais, to the sound of a bell. There were sixteen of them in all, headed by their commodore. The long horseshoe table was filled up with members of the committee which had charge of the affair, and members of the French colony in and about Los Angeles.

Commodore Buchard thanked his fellow-countrymen for the reception they had given the officers and men of his cruiser since its arrival in San Pedro harbor last Saturday morning, and drank to a continuation of their "prosperity in this their new and hospitable home across the seas from La Belle France." He said his visit here was largely to show them that the French government had not forgotten her citizens on the other side of the world, and had sent him here to show they were still remembered. He promised to take with him to Paris a report of their material prosperity and happiness in their adopted land, and ended by toasting the President of France and our own Theodore Roosevelt.

The guests of honor for the evening were M. Durand, French consular agent at Los Angeles, and Commodore Buchard. They were seated on either side of the toastmaster, M. Louis Sentous, Jr., president of the Committee of Arrangements and master of ceremonies.

The big room was draped with American flags and the tricolor, intertwined. Great masses of flowers littered the tables and were gathered here and there into mounds, shaped like a battleship with bristling barbettes of pinks.

The officers were in full dress uniform and marched as a body into the dining-room when the signal was given. Several masterpieces of the cook's art were served during the dinner, but none of them attracted so much attention as did the last—a "souffle d'orange a la Catinat," shaped like the cruiser that gave it its name, with turrets of candied cherries and guns of fruit glace.

The toastmaster introduced the commodore as the first of the night's talkers in short address. In part the latter said:

"Mr. Chairman, I desire to thank you and the other members of the French Alliance and French colony here for the greeting that has been extended to me and to my ship. It is delightful when one is in a distant land to find oneself surrounded by a number of sympathetic fellow-countrymen. You have welcomed not only the Catinat in particular, but the French navy in general in welcoming us. That welcome has gone right to the heart of myself and my fellow-officers.

"Gentlemen, I appreciate this reception. I am glad to tell you that your country remembers you, that I have been sent here to voice that memory, and that I shall report well of your happiness and prosperity on my return to France. I drink to the health of our President, M. Fallieres and to the health of yours, M. Theodore Roosevelt."

The commodore was followed by Mr. Durand, Mayor Walton of San Pedro, J. Auclair, secretary of the French Alliance, Commandant Leguerre, second in command on the cruiser, Dr. B. Sassella of Pasadena, Capt. M. Daset, formerly of the French navy, but now of Los Angeles, and Paul de Longpre, "the flower king." Other speakers were Edgar E. Lefebre, Ed Amar, Leon Loeb, Leon Curtet and Charles Hunt.

Commodore Buchard, who commands the Catinat, the flagship of the Pacific division of the French navy, has a long record in the service of his country.

The Catinat will leave San Pedro for Venice tomorrow morning and on Saturday will up anchor and sail for Mexican ports.

Family Not "So Much."

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Lowe comes from a very cheap family. He worked as an agent and was indicted for grand larceny.

Making Paving Blocks.

Consul H. W. Harris, in reporting from Nuremberg that a German firm at Wurzburg has recently placed on the market a patented artificial stone, called Vulkanol, for paving purposes, for which much is claimed, thus describes it: The stone is composed of crushed basalt or other similar rocks collected in part as refuse from quarries and mixed with a small per centage of cement. The mixture is subjected to heavy hydraulic pressure and formed into blocks of convenient size for paving. These blocks are then subjected to a process of burning under high temperature in specially prepared furnaces, which process continues for about twelve days. The blocks are then permitted to cool as slowly as possible.

Information Acquired.

"I have often heard," said the inquisitive foreigner, "of your—aw—'race issue.' May I awsk what a race issue is?"

"Why, cert. It's any sportin' paper," answered the native.

"Aw—thanks," rejoined the foreigner, jotting it down in his note book.—[Chicago Tribune.

LIQUOR FIGHT TO CONTINUE.

Crown City Temperance Workers Desire to Prevent Wholesale Houses Delivering Orders — Poisoned Food Mystery Grows—No Sunday Baseball to Be Played.

Office of The Times, No. 25 S. Raymond Ave.

PASADENA, Dec. 2.—C. V. Sturdevant, one of the best-known temperance workers of the city, has the backing of the Federation of Men's Clubs, the Ministerial Union, the Y.M.C.A. and the Prohibition Club in his work to bring about a change in the ordinance which will entirely stop the sale of liquor here. He is now drafting up a proposed amendment to the city charter which will go far, if adopted, toward doing away with the peddling of liquor by wagons representing Los Angeles wholesale houses, and the delivering of orders.

POISON MYSTERY.

Chief of Police Favour refuses to make public the result of the analysis of the food which caused the severe illness of Mrs. Lillian M. Vest and her children, Monday morning. It is understood that Prof. Gaylord of Throop Institute has completed the test of the food and that his report to the police department is more than significant.

MORE BLEACHERS.

It is expected that President Cary of the Tournament of Roses Association will complete arrangements today whereby work on at least one set of bleachers may be commenced at once. There is not sufficient cash in the treasury to guarantee the building of two additions at present.

NO SUNDAY BALL.

That the change in the schedule of the Winter Baseball League, allowing the Pasadena nine to play all its games away from home, has more meaning than appears on the surface, is believed among local fans. It is known that a leader in the anti-Sunday baseball fight approached Manager Dexter and offered him financial aid if he arranged for the games to be played in this city on Saturdays or holidays instead of Sunday.

It is now probable that when the Ipswich-street matter comes up before the City Council Tuesday morning, it will not vote to close the thoroughfare.

At a meeting of the directors of the Board of Trade yesterday afternoon it was decided to enter a four-in-hand in the Tournament of Roses parade on January 1. Members of the Merchants' Association will meet on the 16th inst. to discuss their entry.

ANOTHER GIFT.

President Scherer of Throop Institute says he has received another check for the use of Throop Institute but withholds the name of the donor by request. The first building of the new Throop College, on the California street campus, will be commenced in March.

B. F. Mansfield, head clerk in the west office of Hotel Green, arrived today from Washington, D. C.

Several members of the regular winter colony of Hotel Green have arrived. Among them are Mrs. S. F. Watson and her son, George Watson, of New York. Mrs. George H. Lincoln, a wealthy New York woman, is expected next week. She will be accompanied by her sister, Mrs. T. A. Holcomb of Eaton Rapids, Mich., and her nephew, Hallett West.

BITTEN BY MONKEY.

Burbank Boy Teases Animal and as Result Loses Part of Finger on One Hand.

BURBANK, Dec. 2.—Rupert Malone, aged 10 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Malone, was bitten on the fourth finger by a monkey belonging to a traveling company, yesterday. He and other boys were teasing the animal. The finger was taken off at the second joint. Mr. Malone and the manager came to an agreement, the latter paying the doctor's bill.

The funeral of Austin Trueman was held yesterday afternoon, at the home of his father, James F. Trueman of Sixth street. For the past four years he had made his home at Randsburg, at which place he had mining interests. He returned home Wednesday last to spend Thanksgiving, and was suddenly taken ill, and died on Sunday. He had not been strong for the past two years, suffering from tuberculosis. He came to this country eighteen years ago from New Brunswick. He was 39 years old.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Glendale Couple Celebrate Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary—Cousin Reads Brother's Poem.

GLENDALE, Dec. 2.—Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Pyle celebrated their golden wedding on Thanksgiving Day. They were married in Denmark, Iowa, in 1858, and have six children, five sons and one daughter, all married but one son. Two of the sons still live in Iowa, the daughter in Eureka, Kan.

The home on Chestnut street, near Brand boulevard, was profusely decorated with palms, ferns, roses and chrysanthemums, yellow and green being the prevailing colors in honor of the day.

Mrs. Pyle, who is 69 years old, was gowned in white, and wore La France roses. The groom is 71 years old. Their only daughter, Mrs. Ella Christy, and her two children, from Eureka, Kan., and Mrs. Clara Keeney, a sister of Mr. Pyle from Topeka, were the only guests from a distance. C. G. Pyle and wife of Ocean Park, P. W. Pyle, wife and daughter of Pasadena, and J. C. Pyle of Los Angeles, were present. Mrs. Emma Gearhart, a cousin of Mrs. Pyle from Pasadena, with her daughters, and a few friends from Glendale, were the guests who assisted at the celebration. A pleasing feature was the reading of a poem received from land written by a brother of Mrs. Pyle, living in Washington, D. C. This was read by Mrs. Gearhart at the dinner.

MUNICIPAL GAS IS DESIRED.

MERCHANTS INDORSE PROPOSAL FOR MUNICIPAL PLANT.

Sierra Madre Board of Trade Passes Resolutions in Favor of Bond Issue for Thirty Thousand Dollars—Campaign Committee of Leading Citizens Appointed.

SIERRA MADRE, Dec. 2.—The representative business men who compose the Board of Trade held a sort of ratification meeting last night to indorse the action taken by the Trustees in regard to calling a bond election for a municipal gas plant.

N. H. Hosmer, chairman of the board's Gas Committee, gave a full report of the long and earnest examination of the various gas projects. He described the efforts made to secure enough local capital to build a gas plant, and the failure to accomplish that end. He stated that the next thing to settle was whether to have a plant built and owned by outside capital or for the city to vote bonds for $30,000, the proceeds to be used for the erection and installation of a municipal manufactory. The report showed that in the opinion of the best available expert gas engineers the city could not lose a dollar by such a venture, as it is a well-known fact that a good gas plant is a paying proposition. Gas could be made at 65 cents or less per thousand cubic feet delivered to the consumer, and even with the price set at $1 per thousand this would net a good income to the city. A conservative estimate places the number of consumers as not less than 250 at the present time, with an increase of about 100 per year probable.

Convincing answers were made to many who asked questions in regard to cost of oil, operation, sinking fund and interest charges, showing that the committee had gone very fully into these matters and had taken them into account when asking for the $30,000 bond issue.

Mr. Hosmer closed his address by submitting a set of resolutions drawn up by the committee. These set forth that a gas plant is essential to the upbuilding of Sierra Madre as a city of homes and is necessary to place the city in the front rank as a residence town equipped with all modern conveniences; that it is well known that gas plants are invariably good-paying investments, with net returns running from 25 to 40 per cent.; that it would be a great loss to the city to have a plant installed by private capitalists located outside of Sierra Madre who will take all the revenue out of the city, to its great financial loss, and that the successful installation of a municipal gas plant will result in a considerable revenue being turned into the treasury, thus enabling the city to install or take over other public utilities whose income may not be adequate to meet the interest charges or running expenses, and will for all time to come be a source of revenue to reduce the general taxation.

In view of these facts it was resolved that the Board of Trade earnestly indorses the proposed bond issue and calls upon the taxpayers and voters to do all in their power to secure a vote favorable to the bond issue. It was further resolved that the president be instructed to appoint a committee to conduct a campaign of education to impress upon the citizens the advisability of establishing such a plant and of voting the bonds therefor. This committee is: C. W. Jones, chairman; A. S. Mead, W. S. Andrews, J. J. Graham, N. H. Hosmer, M. H. Bridle, C. S. Kersting, C. J. Pegler, J. A. Madden and C. F. Gray.

A. S. Mead stated that the committee of which he was chairman had met with gratifying success in securing signatures of those who would use gas, if a plant was installed.

M. H. Bridle spoke convincingly of the matter from the standpoint of a straight-out business proposition. He showed that all that was in reality required of the city was to guarantee the bonds, there being very little likelihood that the people would ever be taxed to support them, unless it was for the first year's interest.

APPROVE HIGH PRESSURE PLAN.

POMONA TRUSTEES FAVORABLY RECEIVE PROPOSAL.

Board Also Takes Action Regarding City Hall Bonds—Building Permits for November Aggregate Forty-one Thousand Dollars—Olds Sells Orange Grove to Easterners.

POMONA, Dec. 2.—At the meeting of the Trustees yesterday afternoon, the general sentiment was in favor of securing a high-pressure water system for fire protection, according to plans submitted recently by the Board of Trade Committee. The Consolidated Water Company has agreed to build a complete system connecting with its water tunnel, covering the entire business section and as much of the residence portion as possible, if the City Council will bear the expense of the fire hydrants, approximately $20 each, pay a rental of 25 cents per hydrant for water and agree to continue the present rates for seven years from date. The proposed system will give a pressure of about 100 pounds to the square inch.

A resolution was passed declaring the $30,000 issue of City Hall bonds null and void. A committee of citizens requested the board to pass a resolution of intention in relation to the calling of a new election for a $50,000 bond issue, $30,000 to be devoted to the construction of a new City Hall and $20,000 to be used for the purchase of block 65 for a site. The report of Building Inspector Cowles for November states that permits to the amount of $41,000 were issued. The exchange of block 125 in the southeast part of the city for land at the northwest corner of White avenue and the Southern Pacific Railroad tracks was effected. The new city stables for which Ferdinand Davis has drawn architectural plans, will be located upon this latter property.

SANTA MONICA.

NON-RESIDENTS MUST PAY FEE.

SCHOOL BOARD DECIDES TO CHARGE OUTSIDERS.

Pupils from Surrounding Towns Who Attend Local High School Will Be Taxed Five Dollars Per Month—Merchants to Work for Reduced Lighting Rates.

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 2.—After having given free tuition to non-resident pupils of the High School of this district for about fifteen years, the Board of Education has decided that there is no reason why the taxpayers of this district should be called upon to bear this burden. At the meeting of the board last night it was voted to charge a tuition of $5 per month for each non-resident pupil. This will go into effect at the commencement of the next term in February. For the present the tuition will be but $2.50 per month, and there will be no charge at all until February. There are seventy-seven non-resident pupils, who come from Sawtelle, Ocean Park, Venice, Palms, Ballona, Machado and Playa del Rey. The pro rata expense to the district for these outside attendants is something more than $4000 per year.

SEEKS CO-OPERATION.

The Board of Trade has asked the Venice Chamber of Commerce and the Santa Monica Bay Chamber of Commerce to appoint committees to co-operate with a committee from the Santa Monica organization on the matter of gas and electric service and rates. It is the contention that the quality is not what it should be and that the rates are too high. These committees will also make an investigation into the railway problem, it being claimed that the charges for transporting oaggage to and from this beach are excessive. The main point of contention is that in surrendering its steam road to the trolley line the Southern Pacific cannot legally escape that clause of its charter which provides that each ticket entitles the holder to the transportation of his baggage. Under the present order of things no baggage is checked, and the express toll is about 75 cents for each trunk. The Santa Monica committee is composed of J. B. Smale, F. E. Bundy and C. A. Tegner.

FINAL INSPECTION.

Postal Inspector Knox of San Francisco and H. B. Hall, assistant superintendent of the salary and allowance division of the postal department, are coming to Santa Monica tomorrow for the purpose of making a final inspection of the city before submitting their report relative to the installation of the city delivery service here. It is presumed that the order for the new service will soon be issued, as the office has for three years been entitled to the convenience.

SANTA MONICA NOTES.

The Odd Fellows have chosen officers for the ensuing year as follows: A. J. Swift, noble grand; E. L. Brown, vice-grand; D. L. Sebring, secretary; J. W. Todd, treasurer; W. K. Cowan, trustee.

S. D. Walden and family are here from Chicago and will remain during the winter, having taken the Tegner cottage on North Second street.

The public library had a circulation of 5922 volumes for the month of November. Of the aggregate circulation almost four-fifths consisted of fiction.

LONG BEACH.

EARLY VOTE ON LIQUOR PLAN.

CITY COUNCIL WILL ALLOW ELECTORS TO DECIDE.

Date Fixed for February Instead of Year from Now—Citizens Pack Chamber While Matter Is Discussed—Society Formed to Oppose Water Bonds Issue.

LONG BEACH, Dec. 2.—The City Council tonight met in special session and passed an ordinance calling a special election on February 15, for the purpose of voting on the question of granting licenses to sell liquors with meals at restaurants, boarding-houses and hotels in this city.

This result was only arrived at after an agitation of four days in which meetings were held and much denouncing of Councilmen was indulged in by both sides. The result is a compromise by which the advocates of the "Pasadena plan" were enabled to have their petition for a charter amendment acted upon.

Nearly three hundred citizens were packed like sardines in the chamber tonight when Mayor Windham called the Council to order, with a full board present. The Mayor addressed the lobby, advising calm deliberation and polite attention to speakers.

AMENDMENT CARRIES.

He introduced an ordinance in conformity with instructions of Council last Saturday fixing the election for December 7, 1909. Lane submitted an amendment fixing the date at February 15, and this was adopted by a vote of 4 to 3, Callahan, Dayman, Lane and McGrew voting for the amendment and Hoag, Robinson and Stearns against it.

Before the vote was taken a bystander raised the point of McGrew's eligibility as a Councilman, he having moved from his ward temporarily, for winter quarters in Alhambra, because of his health. Attorney Goudge said it was not competent for an outsider to raise the question of a Councilman's disability. Elected as a Councilman, he is such legally until removed by due process of law, and no legislative action is invalidated by reason of any technical effects.

McGrew explained that he had temporarily removed to Alhambra for the winter, but his business was here, and this was his home.

The Mayor held that McGrew was the sole judge and Council had no right to take any action as to his disability. Then, after learned opinions of a dozen attorneys as to when the amendment would be of legal effect, the ordinance as amended was read twice and laid over until Monday, when it will be finally adopted.

The Mayor, after a sarcastic reference to the "wild flurry" of the opposition and the newspaper criticism, said the Council had always intended a square deal but had insisted upon the right to check the petition before hastening action. Now the petition has been acted upon he hoped it would put an end to the threat to get even with the Council by defeating the municipal water bonds. That was a question which must carry or he predicted the people would be sorry in days to come.

Then the Council adjourned. It is understood that the Mayor will promptly sign the ordinance when finally passed.

OPPOSE WATER BONDS.

At a meeting of several taxpayers last night it was decided to oppose the municipal water bond issue election set for December 15, and an organization was formed known as the Anti-Water Bond League, with L. B. Palmer president and C. C. Doran, secretary.

A carload of machinery arrived today for the new salt refinery and the San Pedro Salt Company expects to begin grinding block salt about December 15.

Mrs. Emma R. Sayler died last night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Weisenborn, on West Sixth street. Deceased was 76 years of age.

The Long Beach Realty Board last night adopted a universal listing card, which will protect buyer, seller and agent. A scale of commissions was also decided upon.

Only four weeks remain for the payment of city taxes without penalty, and present indications are that there will have to be a decided increase in the daily average of payments or the delinquent list will be larger than ever before. This year's tax duplicate calls for $203,000 and but $60,000 has been paid.

COVINA.

COVINA, Dec. 2.—The sudden overturning of an automobile driven by C. S. Beardsley caused serious injury to Mrs. Beardsley, who suffered a fractured wrist and severe contusions about the body. Mr. and Mrs. Beardsley were thrown over fifteen feet when the machine, after a sudden swerve, took to the gutter and overturned. The accident occurred near the Charter Oak schoolhouse.

Mrs. M. A. Hoyt, mother of Mrs. B. M. Given, died suddenly this morning from an affection of the heart.

HOROSCOPE.

Thursday, December 3, 1908.

BY COZETTE.

The mighty shall be generous this day. Face well thy problem ere thou dost essay.

On this 338th day the sun is in benefic aspect with the moon.

Those in enterprises of any magnitude this day must call on all their power of management and will prosper most if they have a good grasp of all the details of their problem.

There will be a temptation to depend on others for the execution of plans. It will be wise to remember this.

Ask favors of superiors this day.

Travel for health.

Avoid disputes in the household on this day. The sign over the routine affairs is favorable for baking and anything connected with fowls.

Seek employment or increase of business.

Deal with magistrates or others having official power.

Changes and traveling are in an aspect for women with this birthday. The unmarried will probably get a surprising offer.

Men with this birthdate should have a prosperous year. They must, however, avoid social temptations that would tend to take their time from business. Those in employment will profit if they are prepared for a higher position that will demand special knowledge.

Children are born today under a rule that indicates cleverness and fortune. Girls will probably be somewhat unsettled in their attitude toward the future. Boys should be trained to steadfast and courageous application.
